

A Fact

WORTH knowing is that blood diseases which all other remedies fail to cure, yield to Ayer's Sarsaparilla.

Fresh confirmation of this statement comes to hand daily. Even such deep-seated and stubborn complaints as Rheumatism, Rheumatic Gout, and the like, are thoroughly eradicated by the use of this wonderful alterative.

Mrs. R. Irving Dodge, 110 West 125th street, New York, certifies:—

"About two years ago, after suffering for nearly two years from rheumatic gout, being able to walk only with great discomfort, and having tried various remedies, including mineral waters, without relief, I saw by an advertisement in a Chicago paper that a man had been relieved of this distressing complaint after long suffering, by taking Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I then decided to make trial of this medicine and took it regularly for eight months. I am pleased to say that it effected a complete cure, and that I have since had no return of the disease."

Mrs. L. A. Stark, Nashua, N. H., writes: "One year ago I was taken ill with rheumatism, being confined to my house six months. I came out of the sickness very much debilitated, with no appetite, and my system disordered in every way. I commenced to use Ayer's Sarsaparilla and began to improve at once, gaining in strength and soon recovering my usual health. I cannot say too much in praise of this well-known medicine."

"I have taken a great deal of medicine, but nothing has done me so much good as Ayer's Sarsaparilla. I feel its beneficial effects before I had quite finished one bottle, and I can freely testify that it is the best blood medicine I know of."—L. W. Ward, Sr., Woodland, Texas.

STRIKES.

The public in this country is treated to a continuation of strikes from month to month and no sooner is one settled than another is inaugurated. The railroad and mercantile business of the county is subject to them, it would seem, almost perpetually. They involve the loss of many millions of dollars and most generally result in a loss to the earners of wages, yet notwithstanding the number of strikes is not diminished in the least let the result be ever so disastrous. Looking for the foundation of so many strikes for two decades past it can be found in the policy pursued by the republican party toward the wealthy men of the country during that time. It's policy has been everything for the bond holder, the monopolist, but little for the laboring man. It has acted on the principle that the rich man's interests must be attended to first, and the poor man, the bone, sinew and muscle come afterwards. The man favored with wealth at the time when the government began to borrow money had the laws framed to his dictation and the party in congress approved it. He exacted high rates of interest and exempted his money from taxation and the republican congress so ordered it. In this and in numerous other different ways has the party shown its preference for the wealthy. The tariff laws of this country are framed purposely in the interest of wealthy manufacturers, not the poor operators who toil early and late. The Vanderbilts and Goulds have little or no interests in common with the masses. The laws of the country permit them to rule those under their employ with an iron hand and they are not slow to use their authority. 'Tis no wonder that strikes are continually occurring. It is not to be wondered at that thousands of tramps fill the highways of the land. It is not to be surprising that much misery and starvation exists in many localities of the country. The party in power has seemed to act as if but one interest was to be served, that of the wealthy, while the middle and lower classes must shift for themselves. Strikes will cease to a great extent when other interests aside from the wealthy are made subjects for legislation. There should be no contests between capital and labor, and there would not be near as many if the one-sided, selfish leaning of the republican party toward the former had not continually existed. These strikes continually demoralize business, and unsettle it. Let the party that has for years so greatly aided by its legislation in bringing them about be hurled from power and we will hear much less of them.

THE STATE DEBT.

The Indianapolis News, speaking of the effort now being made by the Republicans to interject the state debt as the principal issue in the campaign this fall, says:

"They will not proceed so blithely nor with such effect since the showing made by Mr. Lewis Jordan in the Sentinel the other day, to state which is profitable: 'The debt' is really $4,876,908 of increase that has been added since 1883, that being the part that is dwelt upon as Democratic extravagance. It began, then, with the creation of the three new insane asylums, for which both parties in the legislature voted. There was then appropriated $600,000 for those asylums. The board authorized to build them was appointed by the Republican governor (Porter), and of it he was ex-officio head. The asylums have cost $1,400,000 instead of $600,000. There has been no responsible allegation that this is exorbitant. But if it was, the Republicans are as deep in the mud as the Democrats are in the mire."

"Loans were made under this administration to carry on the work of the state house, which still further increased the debt. No one alleges that the state house ought not to have been built, nor that it was not well done; but here we have both Republican and Democratic participation. Following this came large appropriations for the state soldiers' monument; for the sailors and soldiers' home, and for the feeble-minded institute, which were originated by a Republican house of representatives and concurred in by a Democratic senate. No one asserts that these things ought not to have been done. They were needed and they ought to have been done; and they were done by Republicans as well as Democrats to the credit of both. But they were done in the face of a tax duplicate which showed a great shrinkage in state valuation, while at the same time no increase of levy was authorized as it ought to have been, and this with the Republicans in control of the house, in which all bills to raise revenue must originate."

"The democracy of each township of the county, now that all the conventions have been held and the nominations made, should at once organize. It is less than two months until the election, and if you are going to work, commence at once."

HON. E. V. BROOKSHIRE is expected home to-day, and will at once commence a canvass of the district, speaking from five to seven times in each county of the district.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

The ticket as nominated by the democratic state convention at Indianapolis last week will give very general satisfaction. It is composed of practical business men, thorough democratic, energetic, and who will ably represent the party in the short campaign just opening in Indiana. There were some lively contests for the various nominations, but the defeated very generally accepted the verdict of the delegates and will cordially support the nominees of the party. The outlook for victory this year is very encouraging. Our political adversaries do not exhibit the spirit, life and earnestness of former years. Republican leaders in congress do not voice the sentiment in many respects of their party. The McKinley bill, the election force bill, and many other measures do not receive the general approval of the party, and many of its voters are greatly divided in sentiment. The new election law of this state will greatly curtail the dirty schemes so frequently used by republicans to carry the state. There is considerable feeling in many quarters against the administration for the treatment toward many of the ex-soldiers of the late war in the way of its management of the pension department. All these things face the republican party in the coming contest, and that they can counteract them to any extent is very questionable, and which render the prospects of a democratic victory in Indiana this year quite encouraging.

The ticket as nominated by the democratic state convention at Indianapolis last week was that of Mr. Albert Gall for treasurer of state, who is well known to hundreds of persons in this city from business relations with him, he having been known for many years as an extensive dealer in carpets, wall paper and house-furnishing goods in that city. The writer has known Albert from infancy and rejoices with thousands of others in his nomination. If elected, as we believe he will be, he will make a splendid treasurer, and will account for every cent when he retires from office.

WHAT'S THE MATTER.

The republican press of the State are publishing the statement that the State is bankrupt, giving out $8,450,000 as the debt of the State. These are the figures published by Republican papers and repeated from day to day. Are they a lie and for campaign effect? The census bulletin No. 9 which has just been issued from the census office at Washington, gives the "net debt" of the State at $8,661,722.55. This information comes through Republican census takers and must have been made on the statement of the Republican State Officers. It could have been obtained no other way and from no other source. It is the statistics of our State, taken by order of the superintendent of the census. What then can be said of the press that publishes the lie that is now thrown into the campaign for political effect? Either of these sheets are falsifying the truth of the census officers at Washington, who secured their information from the Republican officials of the State are telling a lie. You pay your money and take your choice.

NEW SALARY LAW NEEDED.

The last democratic legislature having succeeded in securing two good laws, the election and school book, besides others of minor importance, should aim at the next session to have a new law passed regulating the pay of county officers. The fee feature of it should be entirely abolished and regular stipulated salaries only paid. The salaries could be regulated very generally by the population of counties, the business very generally being the same. For years past in most of the counties of the state the salaries of most of the officials have been entirely too high for the amount of labor performed. All attempts by previous legislatures to pass a law reducing fees and salaries have been prevented by a county officers pool or syndicate who would buy up enough members to prevent the passage of a law against their interests. A law reducing salaries to take effect four years after its passage and which would not effect present officials could doubtless be passed by the next legislature, and it should be.

A SOLID PLANK.

Among the planks of the platform of the Ohio democracy at their state convention at Columbus last week we find the following relating to the tariff which is eminently sound, truthful and to the point in every respect:

"That we demand the reduction of tariff taxes. We will continue the battle for tariff reform until the cause of the people is triumphant. All money taken by law from the people should go into the public treasury. Tariff taxes should be for revenue only. All so-called protective tariff taxes are dishonest, wasteful and corrupting. They plunder the masses to enrich the few. They have crippled agriculture, retarded manufacturing, created trusts, destroyed commerce, and corrupted our law makers. Therefore we are opposed to the McKinley tariff bill now pending in congress, and believe in the expressed opinion of a most eminent republican that "there is not a section or line in it that opens a market for a bushel of wheat or another barrel of pork."

A SMALL POLITICAL YARN.

The schemes originated some time to injure a candidate for office are often quite as ridiculous as they are untruthful, and to most thinking persons create nothing but disgust. Some one has started the foolish yarn that in the event of the election of John P. B. to the office of Sheriff he was to appoint Red Snyder or Alex. Harper as deputies to him. It will no doubt surprise these two gentlemen as much as anybody else to know that they were to be deputy sheriffs, and that too, without consulting them first as to whether they would desire such positions. Mr. B. had not thought of any such thing, has made no promises to anybody whatever, and will not. He desires first to secure the position by all honorable means, and if elected will have ample time to look for assistants.

TRE CORN CROPS.

From observation it would seem that the farmers of Montgomery county would have reason to feel grateful for the supply of corn that many of them will have and the high price that it will command this fall and winter.

Corn in almost any direction 50 miles away has not been a good crop, especially is this true in the states west of us. The corn crop, generally speaking in this county, is good, much better than in many of the neighboring counties. It will command a high price, many think from 50 to 60 cents per bushel within the next ninety days. If so, the farmers for once cannot reasonably complain, and business with merchants should be better than for two or three years past.

The democracy of each township of the county, now that all the conventions have been held and the nominations made, should at once organize. It is less than two months until the election, and if you are going to work, commence at once.

HON. E. V. BROOKSHIRE is expected home to-day, and will at once commence a canvass of the district, speaking from five to seven times in each county of the district.

SEVERAL lengthy well written articles commendatory of Grover Cleveland appear regularly in the New York Press. They aimed to keep him prominently before the people as a candidate before the democracy in 1882 for President. That may be all right. There has not been a better President in thirty years than Cleveland. We are not yet prepared to say, however, that his equal cannot be found in Ohio, Indiana, Illinois or in some of the western states, and believe it can be and prefer the experiment to be made before dropping into the old rut of going to New York for Presidential timber, which has generally been very uncertain. We believe a western democrat should be chosen the next time.

ONE of the most agreeable nominations made by the democratic state convention at Indianapolis last week was that of Mr. Albert Gall for treasurer of state, who is well known to hundreds of persons in this city from business relations with him, he having been known for many years as an extensive dealer in carpets, wall paper and house-furnishing goods in that city. The writer has known Albert from infancy and rejoices with thousands of others in his nomination. If elected, as we believe he will be, he will make a splendid treasurer, and will account for every cent when he retires from office.

THE question is why did not the Board of Commissioners two years ago, composed of Grubb, Bowers, and Deere, settle up with Henry, the township trustee, at the end of his first term. He was short then about $500. It would have been much better both for him and his bondsmen had he been compelled to dance then. But the board was composed entirely of Republicans, and it is probable that had his shortage been discovered, it would have defeated him and injured the republican party. This is probably the reason that a settlement was passed over, or if not, why not?

ONE would think from self respect and discouragement that many now seeking office would get wearied and step aside, but it doesn't appear to have that effect. Among the seekers for nomination at the late State convention were a number who had been candidates or seekers for nomination three or four times within the past eight or ten years, and although their usual luck attended them again, they will, no doubt, be on hand at the next State convention, seeking official recognition.

WITH considerable sadness, no doubt, a column article, on defalcations, which was to appear in the Journal, and in which Auditor Gobin was the principal theme, was consigned, it is said, to the waste basket of that establishment. The shortage of a late republican trustee and high roller generally of the republican party, made such destruction, much to the regret of the editor, absolutely necessary.
