

WHY COUGH.

WHEN a few doses of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral will relieve you? Try it. Keep it in the house. You are liable to have a cough at any time, and no other remedy is so effective as this world-renowned preparation. No household, with young children, should be without it. Scores of lives are saved every year by its timely use.

Amanda B. Jenner, Northampton, Mass., writes: "Common gratitude impels me to acknowledge the great benefits I have derived for my children from the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. I had lost two dear children from croup and consumption, and had the greatest fear of losing my only remaining daughter and son, as they were delicate. Happily, I find that by giving them Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, the first symptoms of throat or lung trouble, they are relieved from danger, and are becoming robust, healthy children."

"In the winter of 1885 I took a bad cold which, in spite of every known remedy, grew worse, so that the family physician considered me incurable, supposing me to be in consumption. As a last resort I tried Ayer's Cherry Pectoral, and, in a short time, the cure was complete. Since then I have never been without this medicine. I am fifty years of age, weigh over 180 pounds, and attribute my good health to the use of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral."—G. W. Youker, Salem, N. J.

"Last winter I contracted a severe cold, which by repeated exposure, became quite obstinate. I was much troubled with hoarseness and bronchial irritation. After trying various medicines, without relief, I at last purchased a bottle of Ayer's Cherry Pectoral. On taking this medicine, my cough ceased almost immediately, and I have been well ever since."—Rev. Thos. B. Russell, Secretary Holston Conference and P. E. of the Greenville District, M. E. C., Jonesboro, Tenn.

THE EXPRESS AND MR. MOUNT.

Terre Haute News.
The Express, the organ of the republican party, and James A. Mount, candidate for congress, after persistent prodding by the News, this morning openly declares its position on perhaps the most infamous law that ever stood upon the statute books of Indiana—the conspiracy act. The conspiracy measure used a penitentiary offense for a striker to threaten to interfere in any way with the operations of a railway or other company. Mr. Mount voted against the repeal of the law. The Express says: "Mr. Mount was right." Therefore, the Express believes in sending the railroad man, the car shop man, the iron worker, the carpenter, in short, any workingman to the penitentiary because he should threaten to interfere with a man that took his place. By its endorsement of Mount, the Express endorses an infamous law, one that was a blot on the civilization of Indiana! It allies itself against organized labor and its bold assertion should be condemned by every laboring man in the Eighth Congressional district. The Express says:

Now, suppose one of this latter class is employed at labor for wages with which he is satisfied, because they enable him to support his family and lay by a sum—whether large or small—for future contingencies. What right has anybody to interfere with him? Suppose also that another man, situated precisely in the same way, thinks proper to give up his place, or to stop work—no matter what comes—does this give the latter any right to interfere with the former, and to demand of him that he shall also quit work and give up his wages, to the injury of himself and family? Certainly not. He may reason with and persuade him as much as he pleases, but if he shall conspire with others to compel him to quit work and give up his wages and thus to injure himself and family, does he not do what no man ought to be allowed to do to another? Every man of ordinary capacity will decide that he does.

The Express fails to meet the great objection which was urged against the conspiracy law. The labor organizations and all thinking people do not believe in resorting to intimidation, yet no man of good judgment will say with Mr. Mount and the Express that the penitentiary is a fit place for a workingman who threatens a man who has taken his place. Continuing the Express says:

The legislature passed a law a few years ago to prohibit this, and called it properly enough a conspiracy. That it would be made to repeal this law, Mr. Mount, the republican candidate for congress, voted against the repeal. For this he is complained of, not by laboring men, but those who set themselves up to tell laboring men what they ought to do. Mr. Mount was right and proved himself to be the friend of the laboring man, and every laboring man in this district ought to vote for him.

Then the Express vote as did Mr. Mount on the repeal of the infamy! The Express should be denounced by every labor organization in Terre Haute. An advocate of the conspiracy law is not entitled to the respect of honest tollers. It taints itself with the disgrace and discredit which clings to its candidate for congress. It sinks even lower than Mr. Mount in public opinion. Mr. Mount made a deplorable blunder. The Express, in its office as a newspaper and public educator, for the sake of party shamelessly turns its back on the wage earners of the Eighth Congressional district.

THE PETTIT TRIAL.

Next Wednesday, if no obstructions come in its way, circuit court will begin to grind in the celebrated Pettit wife poisoning case. All parties, we believe, express themselves as ready; and from the continued delay for a year past, we should think they would be ready for trial soon, if ever. The case bids fair to continue for several weeks, some alleging that it will not close before the 20th of November. A large number of witnesses have been summoned, and from the first there has been much gossip and discussion relating to it. If convicted, boquets and jelly cake from sentimental fools will be in order, if liberated the man and his cause must soon pass into obscurity. But while the trial progresses the unexplainable curiosity of the people to hear all the smutty details relating to the accused will exist. It always does in cases of this kind, and the crowds to listen to it will be large, and their appetites only satisfied when they have heard everything and discussed it fully in all its bearings. Although in the end of no material benefit to them they must know all about it. Whatever unfortunate situations the actors in the drama may have gotten themselves into the public must know all about it regardless of the pangs, pains and distress it may create. This is human nature.

The elements created a disaster in the expected large business of the state fair last week. On Thursday of the fair week it rained the entire day, and the business was cut down more than one-half that would have been done. The State Fair association made no money this year.

THE Indianapolis Sentinel commenting on the state debt says:

"No better evidence of the integrity with which the democrats have managed the finances of Indiana could be desired than the failure of the republican platform to make even an insinuation of corruption against them. We invite the special attention of the voters of Indiana to this significant omission. It leaves the only charge preferred against the democrats that of reckless and unbusiness like management, and that charge is easily disposed of."

"The democrats have not been reckless, and they have not been unbusiness like in the management of state finances. The total debt of the state, as shown by the last report of the auditor, is $8,057,615.12. Of this debt $4,853,773.12 was made by the republicans, and $3,202,832 by the democrats. So the account stands:

"Republican debt.....$4,853,773.12
"Democratic debt.....3,202,832.00

"Total.....$8,057,615.12
"It will be thus seen that over 60 per cent. of the existing debt was contracted by the republicans, and less than 40 per cent. by the democrats. The democrats can show what has been done with the $3,202,832 for which they have issued the obligations of the state. They can show that every dollar of it has been judiciously and honestly expended, in so far as they have been able to control its expenditure. They can show that it has been wisely expended in great public institutions, which were made absolutely necessary by the growth of the state, and which have put Indiana abreast of the foremost commonwealths in the Union in respect to these great monuments of humanity and civilization. They can show further that under the circumstances it was sound business policy to use the credit of the state for the erection of these institutions instead of attempting to provide for them altogether by an increased tax levy.

JUDGE WOODS, of the federal court, lately wrote a letter in explanation of why he gave two decisions directly opposite but both relating to the "blocks-of-five" Dudley letter. A federal judge is supposed to be as near immaculate as it is possible for a human being to be, or at least that is the popular conception of one, yet there could be nothing further from such an ideal than this man Woods. The dirty, partisan feeling which animates him was very forcibly shown in the Sim Coy and Dudley cases, and he, it would seem, would be the last man from whom to expect pure, unbiased justice in any matter of a political hue, where the defendant was like himself, a partisan. It is to be regretted that any man holding the high position that he does should be so steeped in party feeling and political hatred, as to prevent him being a just judge, yet the fact is the same nevertheless. It is pleasant to note, however, that men of Woods' stamp are not numerous.

ROGER Q. MILLS, of Texas, is a Jeffersonian democrat. He believes in the greatest liberty consistent with the public good. In speaking of the Bennett school law he says: "I oppose prohibition on the sound democratic principle that every man's right of individual liberty should be sacredly guarded. This so-called Bennett law I consider to be of this objectionable kind of legislation. It promises the right of the state to say how much, in what language, and where the parent shall educate his children. This right is exclusively that of the parent and does not belong to the state. It is the right and duty of the state to provide every means for the child to become educated, but it rests wholly with the parents to determine the amount, the kind and the place where his child shall be educated."

CRAWFORDSVILLE seems to have an unusual number of dram drinkers, tipplers, etc., for some months past. The number of men hanging around saloons, or slipping in the back way to get a glass of the stimulant is somewhat alarming to contemplate. How these fellows live and get food and clothing is a mystery. They never seem to work or bother themselves about the affairs of to-morrow. One man living a few miles from town has been in town over a month on a prolonged drunk. He probably goes home long enough to change shirts, and then returns back to his old quarters at the saloon, working quietly in the interest of the whisky trust, no doubt, hoping to destroy enough of the fluid so that the price will be raised.

SCHOOLS UNDER WAY.

All the township schools of the county, numbering probably 180, with about 200 teachers, are now in session, and the prospects for a successful year are first class. Supt. Zuck, in his examinations of applicants for the positions of teachers, has been very thorough and in consequence a better class of teachers are now in control than for some years past, many of the incompetent ones having been weeded out through failure to pass examination. It remains now with the teachers to see that discipline and attention to duty by scholars is enforced.

ATTORNEYS are making efforts at Chicago to have Schwab, one of the condemned anarchists, liberated. If successful then the laws applying to him would apply equally to Nebe and Fielden, and they likewise would be entitled to their freedom. These red handed scoundrels certainly deserve the decree of the law meted out to them or even worse, and it would assuredly be a parody on justice if such men should be acquitted. Ben Butler has been employed in their behalf, and through the various crooks and uncertainties of law they may be liberated.

HON. JAMES MOUNT is now canvassing this district in his own behalf for the position of representative in congress, yet we have failed to learn of any explanation yet made by him reconciling the high tariff platform of the convention which nominated him and the low tariff demands of the farmer's alliance, Farmer's Benefit association and other organizations of which Mr. Mount is an advocate. Mount would much prefer not to have anything to say about the two platforms. He might become confused in doing so.

Of the dozen or more democratic members of the house of representatives, who have been deprived of their seats through the scoundrelly manipulations of the republican majority, most of them have been re-elected on returning to their constituents. This is the best evidence in which the republican means are held by the voters.

THE new election law regarding the casting of ballots where the voter desires to "scratch" is quite likely to create confusion at the first election held this fall. When the voter intends casting a straight ticket from first to last there will be no difficulty arise. It is the scratching that will bother him, and also the election board that is to handle his ticket. The voter uncertain in his mind just now how he desires to cast his ballot, should thoroughly study the situation before the election.

It is just one month from to-day until the election, and the time for that important event will soon be here. The democracy of the county offer to the voters a ticket worthy of their support. There is not one man upon the ticket but what can fill the office with credit to himself and these voting for him. Every man composing it can be elected if those who are known as democrats will support the ticket nominated.

THE war of words between "City Teacher" and "County Teacher" is still on, and the latter individual comes to the front again in THE REVIEW to-day in which his pen seems to be dipped in vitrol to a considerable extent.

It is becoming the custom now for many breeders of fine stock to have public sales in October. Three different sales of this kind are advertised in the REVIEW this week.

Exema from Childhood.
When an infant my body broke out all over with an eruption of rash, which became more aggravated as I grew older. From early childhood until I was grown my family spent a fortune trying to cure me of the disease. Every noted physician in our section was tried or consulted. When I came of age I visited Hot Springs, Ark., and was treated there by the best medical men, but was not benefited. After that, under the advice of a noted physician I tried the celebrated Clifton Springs, N. Y., without any good results. When all things had failed I determined to try SSS and in four months was entirely cured. The terrible Eczema was all gone, not a sign left; my general health built up, and I have never had any return of the disease. I have since recommended SSS to a number of friends for skin diseases, eruptions, etc., and have never known of a failure to cure.

A Reliable Port Wine.
Mr. A. Speer, of New Jersey, whose port grape vine has such wide reputation, and which physicians prescribe so generally, was the first in this country to import Port Wine grape vines from the banks of the River Douro, in Portugal, where the finest old time ports were made, and to plant vineyards of them in N. J. His port, Burgundy and claret, which are the best wines to be had, have become a great favorite among the fashionable New York, Philadelphia and Washington society. Druggists sell it.

Queen Victoria has a remarkably fine head of hair, for a lady of her age; but her son, the Prince of Wales, is quite bald. Had he used Ayer's hair vigor earlier in life, his head might, to-day, have been as well covered as that of his royal mother. It's not too late yet.

A rattlesnake died in ten minutes after biting a colored man Lumpkin, Ga. The man suffered no serious results.

Many young children become positively repulsive with sore eyes, sore ears, and scald head. Such affliction may be speedily removed by the use of Ayer's Sarsaparilla. Young and old alike experience the wonderful benefit of this medicine.

The Saginaw Union street railway furnishes policemen and firemen with tickets at a cost of 1 per cent per ride.

Grayness, baldness, dandruff, and all diseases of the scalp, and falling hair can be cured by using Hall's vegetable siccilian hair restorer.

The Newport beauties have taken up the face massage treatment. The luxury retails at the rate of $5 a toilet.

After all, the best way to know the real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, is to try it yourself. Be sure to get Hood's.
