IS DEHORNING A SUCCESS?

The man who has seen two or three vicious old cows occupy the whole shed on a stormy winter night while the rest of the herd shivered in the cold and rain, will understand when I say, for the use of the saw is justifiable when milder means can not be used, can answer this question very positively and emphatically in the affirmative.

THE HUMANE DEHORNING CO. (Lewis & Bennett's Humane Dehorning Co.)

A WAR CRY NO LONGER.

As an inspiration the republicans have always said, "As Maine goes, so goes the Union," an implication that all other states or enough of them at least, would so cast their votes, as to gain the National political victory for them. Maine, we believe, never in fact, went in any other direction than for the republican party. This is to be changed now though not too soon, and the inspiring words will not be used with such assurance hereafter.

They are about to adopt the Australian system of balloting at elections. They are to have a free election and a fair count. Of course this will change the political complexion of things in Maine. It has heretofore been a poor State for the propagation of democratic principles, but high tariff, prohibition, and fanaticism have ruled at all times. But this will to a great extent be greatly changed by the new system of holding elections. Voters will not be intimidated nor threatened. The wealthy manufacturers cannot bulldoze their employees into voting as they desire. The Banes, Reeds, Neal Dows, and all the other promoters of tariff, political tyranny and fanaticism in general, will not have the sway they have heretofore had among the people of that State. The people will be free to vote as they desire and will do so under the features of the system which have been adopted in many of the states of the Union. The new system is fatal everywhere to the nurture and growth of the republican party. It prevents to a great extent the bribery, trickery and deception which have been always paramount with it in all its political wars. The republican statesmen may create new states whose electoral vote they expect to carry by their usual scheming but while at this will lose many of their old reliable states which are to adopt honest means for carrying on elections. The democrats now have Governors in states heretofore strongly republican, Iowa and Michigan for instance, and the adoptions of the Australian ballot system will no doubt, place other states in the democratic column. It would be pleasant to learn that others of the New England states had followed the example of Maine.

COMPARISON.

A colored lawyer at Indianapolis, alive to the neglect of his people by republicans, who always just a short time before an election profess such apparent deep interest in the welfare of the African, thus makes comparison between the official acts of Gov. Hovey and ex-Gov. Gray:

1. He has had more appointments to give than any executive preceding him. Has he appointed any negro? If so, who?

2. Did he in any message to the legislature say anything about the repeal of the amalgamation laws of this state? If so, when?

3. Has he pardoned or paroled any negro incarcerated in the penitentiary or other penal institutions of the state? If so, who?

1. On the other hand, Governor Gray remitted fines in Marion and Hamilton counties and pardoned a life time prisoner from Vigo county.

2. He affixed his signature to the civil rights bill, which gave to the negro equal rights to the public inns and equal rights and privileges in common with all other citizens of the state.

3. He signed the militia law striking out the word "white" from the statutes of Indiana as it came to him passed by a Democratic legislature.

Colored men of Indiana, ponder well when you come to say by your ballot whether or not this man shall be either president or vice-president when the record of ex-Governor Isaac P. Gray, is presented alongside of him. With a knowledge of the record, if a colored Democrat should hold his peace the "trocks would cry out."

That fellow reads and reflects and knows thoroughly what he is talking about.

THE NEW TAX LAW.

It is of the utmost importance that the new tax be administered by an efficient and energetic county assessor. In this county, personal property has usually been assessed at less than two-thirds of its actual value.

The new law properly enforced will remedy all this. Of this law the Indianapolis News says: "This must necessarily lead to a very large increase in assessment values, probably a doubling of the aggregate amount and as the people are unprepared for this great change there is certain to be a general outcry."

The purpose of the law, however, is commendable. It is a demand for honesty, and its object is to equalize taxation. The old law permitted undervaluations, evasion, perjury and other species of dishonesty. It was deplorably corrupting in its tendencies. The attempt to put the system on an honest basis should be welcomed by all good citizens. It is only necessary that they should fully understand it to properly appreciate its good aims, but unless it is understood, and unless the assessors throughout the State perform their duties faithfully and without discrimination, it will be a lamentable failure.

MAYORALTY IN CHICAGO.

There are five candidates for Mayor in Chicago to be voted for in May next and city politics in that place are becoming quite interesting. Carter Harrison, a former mayor elected by the democrats, and at one time having much influence, is this year running independently against the regular democratic nominee, having failed to rule the roost as heretofore. The most contemptible figure in politics is he who, having heretofore been honored by his party, will change around and seek to encompass his defeat because his popularity may have been modified or his strength weakened by his acts. Such ingratitude is sooner or later soundly rebuked, and Harrison will find himself a cipher hereafter in the political field.

"Independent" candidates generally are permitted to remain independent the rest of their lives and the party moves right along just as well and oftentimes better without them.

Reading column after column regarding the Monon railway to the Briceville, daily newspapers have finally got it for a fact been sold. It will be people to know what interest the man who owns the Monon or any way. The changes rarely benefit the way or another.

Mr. L. S. ex-senator from Kansas, thinks a great future for the Farmers' Alliance from the way the Alliance is knocking professional and decayed politicians like him, it does have an encouraging feature about it.

THE CITY is to have its own electric light plant. Hungry office-seekers will now commence to wear out councilmen for the position of Superintendent, electrician, and other places connected with the establishment of the new plant.

THE DEVIL LET LOOSE.

EDITOR REVIEW: There seems to be an epidemic of pure cussedness prevailing in society at this time; but it is mostly of a character that the civil law is powerless to prevent or to punish. A great many people seem to act as though they thought that all that is necessary for them to do in order to be good citizens in the community is to live and act so as to evade the penalties of the civil law, without seeming to realize that there is such a code as the moral law. It is only occasionally that the courts are able to remove the mask that hides the licentiousness and profligacy of some of the hypocrites that walk our streets with an air of compacency and self-assurance that ought to put to shame the Devil himself. I know there are some people who claim there is no Devil because they can, not see or hear him. It does seem to me that any observing person can both see and hear him and his emissaries almost every day in every grade of society, which is glossed over with deceit and hypocrisy until people are not what they seem. Dishonesty and deception seems to be the rule rather than exception, for lying, fraud, trickery and deceit meets us at every turn in the fields of trade and commerce, whilst mock modesty, sham virtue and notorious dishonesty sit in the front pews of some of our fashionable and aristocratic churches. At public gatherings and in crowded thoroughfares one is confronted with or jostled against by brazen-faced women and blearey-eyed inebriates who take more delight in a bacchanalian revelry than they do in the peace and quiet of home and family. We can not walk our streets without either seeing or smelling the Devil. We can see him in those dens of infamy and sinks of iniquity that are open night and day, and that are in league with Hell and in covenant with the Devil. The emissaries of Satan resort to every device and adornment that will attract and allure the young, the idle, the profligate, the licentious, the intemperate and the vicious into their dens, which are only the anterooms to the abode of the damned and the vestibules to Hell. The oaths, execrations, and foul language that we may hear, not only in and about those places, but in places of public resort, such as bar-rooms, waiting-rooms, at public gatherings, on the highways, and many times, too, in what the world calls fashionable society, is enough to make the blood of a sensitive person to run cold, and their cheeks to redden with the blush of shame. The fumes of tobacco smoke that are puffed in your face, the foul stench arising from stale beer and other poisonous drinks that we inhale in passing those resorts, are but the perfumes of Hell in which a sensitive olfactory may get a sniff at the infernal regions. The probabilities are that the present state of things will continue until the millennium, or until all good people put the stamp of condemnation on every species of meanness, wrong and villainy, and until preachers in their funeral sermons cease to condone the sins and transgressions of the intemperate, the dishonest, the vicious and the vile.

TAX DODGING.

A remarkable instance of dodging taxation was discovered some time since in Carroll county. A. T. Bowen, capitalist, and worth probably from $2,000,000 to $4,000,000, died at his home in Delphi. He, by intimidation, had prevented assessors and county treasurers from ever assessing him for anything like he should have been, and he never paid taxes on over $15,000. After his death the officials began to hunt up his property. The county treasurer was appointed administrator, and a strong legal war between him and the heirs began. Last week the heirs quietly left the state taking away $2,000,000 in money, bonds, mortgages, etc. They feared the new tax law and future taxation. The Bowen estate has plenty of real estate in Indiana, and the treasurer, if he has the nerve, can collect all of the taxes due or property for past years that the owner failed to report to the assessor.

THE REPUBLICANS may probably feel like congratulating themselves that Cleveland is not to be the democratic nominee for president in 1890 on account of his pronounced opposition to the free coinage of silver, yet they should remember that the question of far more importance, and which will be the leading one, is that of tariff reform. Whether Cleveland is or is not nominated the tariff is what interests the people much more. The duties on imports to reasonable figures, and the free coinage and all other monetary questions will soon after be regulated to the satisfaction of the people.

ALL talk about any difficulty arising between this country and Italy over the execution by a mob a few days ago at New Orleans of eleven Italians will amount to nothing. These men were not killed because they were Italians but for the more important fact that they were murderers and assassins and had been for years, and that the law seemed powerless to reach them. It is very probable that the Italian government was as pleased to hear of their extermination as were the indignant citizens who brought it about.

THE FARMERS' ALLIANCE has done more to allay sectional hatred and root out war prejudices than any organization that has been formed in this country since the war. The farmers have at last learned that the bloody shirt has been constantly flaunted in every campaign to draw attention from the system of slavery imposed upon them by the protected lords of America. In the mean-time, 31,000 people have become owners of one-half the wealth of this wonderfully rich land.

SPEAKING of the position of the next speaker of the House of Representatives of Congress. Mr. Brynum says: "The speaker of the next House is going to be a very enterprising and thankless position." All the same Brynum is a candidate for the honor of Speaker, and if he considers it so troublesome, it is remarkable he should desire it. His language and his actions don't "gibe" very well in this instance.

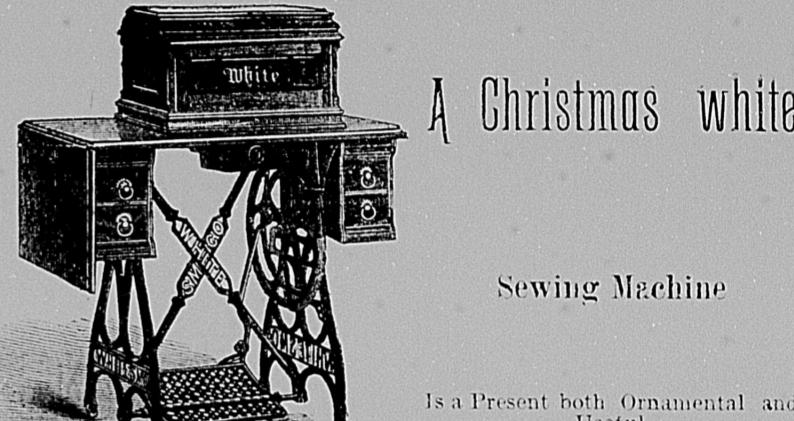

DEATH seems to be reaping a large harvest in Chicago. Last week the deaths of 1,000 persons were recorded in that city, and fully 25 per cent. of the population were reported as sick. One undertaker had to superintend 38 funerals in one day, and physicians were never so busy. Most of the sickness comes under the heads of pneumonia and la grippe.
