IS DEHORNING A SUCCESS?

The man who has seen two or three vicious old cows cutting the whole shed on a stormy winter night while the rest of the herd shivered in the cold, and then see the whole herd huddled together like sheep after the use of the saw, for the use of the saw is justifiable where milder means cannot be used, can answer this question very positively and emphatically in the affirmative. THE SAW IS BEING REPLACED by Lewis & Bennett's Dehorning Fluid, that does the work smoother and better, and without the shock to the system that the saw causes. The Fluid can be used in fly time as well as any other, for it makes no raw surface for the flies to work on. This is a very decided advantage over the saw as the reader can see plainly.

The best age to use Lewis & Bennett's Muley Maker or Dehorning Fluid is from three days to three weeks of age.

NO AFTER-TREATMENT is required, for the Fluid forms a brown crust over the embryo horn that drops off in from four to ten weeks, taking the horn button with it, producing in shape and appearance an artificial muley.

CLEVELAND ON THE SILVER QUESTION.

The unlimited silver people have been acting for another expression from Mr. Cleveland in regard to their hobby and they seem to have obtained it. If the interview between him and Lou V. Stephens, state treasurer of Missouri, occurred as reported they have obtained about such an expression as might have been expected.

He told Mr. Stephens why he wrote the letter to the Reform club. He knew that the republicans were anxious to crowd the silver question to the front in 1892, and to obscure the tariff issue as much as possible. He wished to block that game, and to have the people educated on the silver question so that it would be out of the way in 1892. He was disposed to contribute to the discussion and promote the work of education. Besides, he thought his democratic friends were entitled to know whether his views had undergone a change. No doubt he thought, too, though he does not say so, that it would be well enough to silence enemies who were persistently either insinuating that he had gone over to the silver crowd or charging that he was too much of a political coward to define his position. Although his position was very thoroughly defined, he probably thought it would do no harm to stop the busy tongues of his enemies by defining it once more.

Mr. Stephens wanted to know on behalf of the Missouri democrats whether, in case Mr. Cleveland should be elected in 1892 and a democratic Congress should pass a free coinage act, he would veto it. Let us hope that the answer he received will convince Missouri democrats and all others that Mr. Cleveland, if elected President, will be governed by his convictions and his sense of duty in this matter as in others. He reminds Mr. Stephens that he will not get to that bridge until 1894, if ever, and it will be time then to decide what he will do. A good many things may happen during the interval.

He gave Mr. Stephens to understand how he viewed the subject when he said:

This great country of ours, with its diversified interests, should not be viewed from the standpoint of any section. I have been unable to see how free coinage could fall of being an injury to every section of this country. Believing as I do that it would drive gold out of circulation. As we are in a great measure dependent upon European markets for our products, we are obliged to take them into consideration.

This is a sufficiently frank declaration that Mr. Cleveland's position on the main question is the same now as it has been for six years at least. It is also a deserved rebuke to those who have treated the silver question from a sectional point of view. It may not please Missouri democrats, but it ought to please all who are able to rise above sectionalism into the atmosphere of broad comprehensive statesmanship.—Chicago Herald.

The quarrels, contentions and bloodshed reported from the coal regions of Pennsylvania for some days past, is only the natural outcome to be expected from the rapacious and labor grinding instincts of the bosses controlling the mines, and it would seem that it was important enough for the state to take hold of the matter and enact such legislation as will stop these troubles from arising in the future. The wages given the coal miners and the exactions imposed on them are such as could only be expected in a country half civilized like Russia. American laborers cannot submit to it. The bosses then import cheap Italians, Hungarians, and Poles, many of them the off-spring of the country from which they come, but even they rebel against the treatment they receive. The legislation generally in that state is favorable to the bosses. The state is republican, the bosses are republicans and help to foot campaign expenses. They sow the wind and are now reaping the whirlwind in the anarchy, disgrace and bloodshed attached to all such proceedings.

COUNT VON MOLTKE, probably the ablest military leader of Europe during the past half century, died in Berlin last week. He was 90 years of age and had been in military life for many years. When the conflict between France and Germany in 1870 began Von Moltke showed his wonderful talent for war. When the tremendous conflict opened in 1870 Von Moltke was ready. Every officer carried in his pocket better maps of France than the French themselves were supplied with. Bridge timbers corresponding to the width of all streams between Metz and Paris had been provided in advance. The location of flour mills and springs had been ascertained. On the one side was thoroughness, preparation, discipline. On the other, prestige of victories in former wars and a tradition of discipline which had not been kept up. Never in history has such a humiliating and crushing defeat been inflicted upon one nation by another. At the conclusion of the war more than three hundred thousand Frenchmen were prisoners of war in Germany.

THERE may be considerable political strength among the Gresham men of Indiana and they may aim to defeat Harrison's re-nomination next year, but all this will amount to nothing. When the proper time comes the Harrison leaders will throw him aside as quickly as they did at Chicago. John C. New proved himself a better political wire puller than any half dozen or more of the Gresham leaders in the contest at Chicago. So will he again at the proper time. There is too much sentiment about the Gresham leaders, and not enough matter of fact movement. He would no doubt make a fine President if elected, but he has never been boomed by men of snap, industry and determination.

CHANGE IN THE INTERNAL REVENUE LAW

Some changes in the internal revenue law made at the last session of congress are of interest to certain classes of dealers here and elsewhere. From and after May 1st retail dealers in tobacco and cigars will not be required to pay for a government license, but will have to register with the collector of the district their name, place and residence of business the same as though the law had not been repealed. Failure to register involves a penalty of $50. The same rule applies to peddlers of tobacco. Under the old law the special tax year began May 1st. While under the new law it will begin July 1st. On the first day of May all liquor dealers will have to apply for special licenses for the months of May and June, taking out a new license for the year beginning July 1st.

THE Farmers' Mutual Benefit Association of Sumner, Illinois, in session last week passed the following resolution:

Resolved, That we combine and demand no less than $1.25 a bushel for our wheat crop of 1891.

That is all right to set and demand a price for any produce but what will it amount to? Nothing. That matter is regulated by the law of supply and demand. Providing there is a good wheat crop all over the country this year, what would there be to raise the price of it. It may be better if there was an advance on many other products of the farm, and business might be better thereby, but the determination of a small or large number of men to raise prices will be an up hill job unless there is a scarcity of such things in the market.

THE license for selling liquor in Illinois costs $1,000. In this State it is $100. If prohibitionists are sincere in desiring the sale prohibited they have an example in Illinois that may be of some interest to this State. The sale is prohibited by the monstrous license charged for so doing. Of course druggists, on the hypocritical assertion that it is sold for "medical purposes" only, may deal more or less in the fluid, but there are not near so many saloons and not near so much dram drinking, as if there were a lot of cheap establishments where it could be obtained. The fewer the places to drink liquor at, the less drinking will there be done.

THE prospect for both wheat and fruit in this locality, at this time, is excellent. Wheat presents a very healthy green color, and is growing very thick on the ground, and thus far could not be in a better condition. It looks now like we might have considerable of an apple and peach crop, as the trees are full of bloom, and the frosts and cold of last month did the trees no harm. A good peach crop would be something for congratulation to those enjoying this fruit, as a full crop has not been known in this part of the country for many years.

BLAINE THE CHOICE.

A large number of republicans from various parts of the Union, known as the National Republican League, met in Cincinnati last week. The league is a part of the republican machinery to be used for campaign purposes next year, and embraces generally the younger and more vigorous class of the party. An expression of the desire of the league as to choice for candidate for president next year was had, and it was ascertained that Blaine generally was the favorite.

FORAKER's speech at Cincinnati, last week, in which he spoke of the success of this Blaine's administration, is an unmistakable insult to Harrison. Yet this sentiment reflects to a great extent the opinions of thousands of others, that whatever is creditable for wisdom on the part of the administration belongs to Blaine—no one else. Harrison, however, will not forget these little slaps at himself, and Foraker can always count to a certainty in occupying a back seat while Harrison remains at the head of affairs.

IF under the new tax law every man pays taxes in proportion to the amount of property he possesses we cannot see any reasonable objection to it. Its object was to equalize taxation and cause every man to pay in proportion to what he was worth. Under the old system quite often a man worth $20,000 paid no more into the treasury as state and county taxes than the man possessed of but $5,000. This certainly was unfair. The new law will greatly tend to do away with inequalities like this.

ONE farmer in this county this year sold the corn from his land at prices that were worth $47 per acre, or about what the land would sell for. Many more farmers sold their corn at prices of $30 per acre, or equal to two-thirds the value of the land. These men should at once join the Farmers' Alliance, and resolve that the farmers are oppressed and that farming don't pay. There would be fully as much sense in it as there is in many of the complaints we hear of regarding farming.

THERE was an election held over in Danville, Illinois, last Tuesday, and a fool preacher named C. A. Crane, "Rum and Romanized" John Beard, a Catholic, who was on the Democratic ticket for mayor—and as a result enough Protestant republicans and Catholic republicans turned in and voted for Beard, and he was the only Democrat elected! Fool preachers often upset political apple carts—as the "Plumed Knight" found out, in 1884!

PENNSYLVANIA by the force of public sentiment has at last passed a secret ballot law. This will greatly abridge the power of these political scoundrels of the Cameron and Quay order who have held the voters of that State with an almost vice like grasp for so many years. The intimidation of numbers of men all over the state at the polls will cease, and every man can vote his sentiment without molestation.

PRESIDENT HARRISON has arrived in California and will be a part of the time a guest of Leland Stanford, a $50,000,000 resident of that State, who will foot most of the bills during his sojourn. Stanford seems to be distinguished more for the amount of his money than anything else, for although heretofore a governor and U. S. senator, no one seems to remember much about him aside from his money.

THE Fountain Democrat speaking of "Nebeker, the successor of Houston, as U. S. Treasurer, says that in dirty unscrupulous, political work he can give Dudley, 'blocks-of-five' Dudley, both bowlers and the ace and then come out ahead at the close of the game. This is home authority and is perhaps perfectly reliable.

THERE may be many enthusiastic Blaine men in the republican party who desire his nomination for President on the republican ticket next year, but it will do them no good. Blaine will never be the nominee. Every indication points to Harrison as the nominee again, and the Blaine, Alger, DePew and Gresham crowds might just as well hold their peace, as they cannot prevent it.

THE Texas Alliance favors the submitting of their grievances to both the two other great political parties and to not form a third political organization. If the Alliance continues to wrangle among its members much longer there will be little need of either party inviting them to come over. They will come without invitation.

It is estimated that President Harrison's electioneering jaunt will cost $40,000. It is natural to ask who will pay the bill. Does he accept this from the railroad magnates? Does the government foot the bill? Does he consider it necessary to put that much money into the campaign himself?

Ohio will adopt the Australian ballot system. This will be a "deadner" on Foraker and the other republican rascals who have generally won the State by another system.

The Spring.

Of all seasons in the year, is the one for making radical changes in regard to health. During the winter, the system becomes to a certain extent clogged with waste, and the blood loaded with impurities, owing to lack of exercise, close confinement in poorly ventilated shops and homes, and other causes. This is the cause of the dull, sluggish, tired feeling so general at this season, and which must be overcome, or the health may be entirely broken down. Hood's Sarsaparilla has attained the greatest popularity all over the country as the favorite Spring Medicine. It expels the accumulation of impurities through the bowels, kidneys, liver, lungs and skin, gives to the blood the purity and quality necessary to good health and overcomes that tired feeling.

The only remedy for blood disorders is one that will expel the germs of disease, and make the blood pure and rich. That is best effected by Dr. David Kennedy's Favorite Remedy, of Roudout, N.
