THIRD PARTY CONVENTION.

A convention of over 1,400 persons, representing about all the parties and issues in the United States met at Cincinnati last week to inaugurate a third party movement. There were present prominent representatives from the Farmers' Alliance, Knights of Labor, Woman's Suffrage, Prohibition and other organizations. There were, however, no representatives from the Anarchists, of Chicago, or Mafia, of New Orleans, although we do not know but they, of course, like all the rest have grievances, are not satisfied with the management of affairs in this country and desire a change. The third party proposes to revolutionize matters very generally when it succeeds in control. It will have an entire change in the money system and financial management if the government, will see that laboring men have fewer hours for toil and better pay, will step the manufacture and sale of intoxicating liquors, will allow the female portion of the country to vote and hold office, in fact will completely renovate and completely change the past and present plans of doing things, will make in fact, this country an earthly paradise, when it assumes the reins of government—yes when it does.

We doubt very much about the permanency of this new party movement. It is composed of too many discordant elements, has too many impractical leaders, is undertaking entirely too much to succeed or have long life. It is too much under the control of broken down or disappointed party leaders—men who having out lived their usefulness in the other old political parties are seeking to install themselves into something new. The names of Weaver of Iowa, Donnelly of Minnesota, and Streeter, of Illinois, are among those mentioned as prominent in this new third party movement. All these men have no longer any standing with the old political organizations. Hence they seek new fellowship without questioning the practicability or benefit to be derived therefrom, or its absolute necessity. A man practically played out in his own neighborhood is very apt to remove to some other locality. There is nothing in their just demands but what sooner or later can be satisfied in either of the old political organizations, and so soon as the people are ripe for it. Hence the uselessness of the third party, and likewise the indications all things considered, as to its permanency as a power.

REVISION OF FAITH.

The Presbyterian denomination of Christians have for a long time been discussing the matter of the revision of the faith they profess. Heretofore a part of their profession was the belief in the utter loss of infants who died unconverted, unbaptized or unregenerated. Many of them have changed their opinion and do not believe any such heathenish, unchristian doctrine any longer. The general assembly of the church at Detroit last week had this question before it, but postponed final decision until the next annual meeting. From the old faith which they have heretofore held regarding the existence hereafter of infants, it is proposed to change the discipline to read as follows:

All infants dying in infancy, and all other persons who, from birth to death, are incapable of being outwardly called by the ministry of the world, are redeemed by Christ and regenerated by the spirit, who works when, where and how he pleases.

This is a radical alteration, differing from the old confession in the insertion of the words "all," "from birth to death," "are redeemed," and "and are regenerated by the spirit." It is quite probable that a majority of the Presbyterians of the world are beginning to realize that they are living in the 19th century, and that the doctrine of hellfire and brimstone, Jonah swallowed by the whale, and many other matters taught and told for centuries past, together with the infant damnation business, will not in this day of advancement, civilization and true Christian enlightenment do to tell the people. They won't believe it. It is contrary to their ideas of God's will toward his creatures, and the Presbyterians are taking a great step forward in adopting this new and humane doctrine regarding the future of infants or those dying, or being incapable of being outwardly called by the ministry of the world."

PENSIONS AS VIEWED BY A RED-HOT REPUBLICAN PAPER.

The Chicago Tribune is the recognized and leading Republican paper of the west. Commenting on "pension frauds" it says:

"The abuses of the pension system are illustrated by the manner in which 115 one-hundred-day men from Ohio have been reinstated on the rolls. Their scheme to get a pension was carefully organized, and they succeeded in getting one some time ago. From evidence furnished him, Gen. Black ordered these claims held up pending an investigation, which was still pending when Corporal Tanner came into office. As the result of the investigation they finally were dropped, but now they have managed by some kind of influence to get back on the rolls again. They are to draw pensions for the rest of their lives for one hundred days' play in Washington, in which they never fired a shot and never saw a rebel, and in which not one of them was even sick. By fraud and deceit they got on the rolls originally. Then they were hung up and rejected, and now here they are again in some mysterious manner grabbing from the Treasury to pay them for their hundred-day picnic. They are patriots for revenue only. It is just such outrages as this which have brought scandal on the pension business. If the rolls were investigated and cleaned up under a fair construction of the law, fully one-fourth of the names would be taken off as having no legal right there."

Our State taxes for 1891, will be 24% on the $100.00; our national taxes are 60 cents on the dollar, under the new McKinley law. Radical politicians are kicking harder on the State, than they are on the national tax. Something strange about this, too.

EVEN as bitter a partisan as President Harrison condemns the unseating of Governor Boyd, of Nebraska. In speaking of the action of the Nebraska supreme court he is reported to have said: I do not know of any event which I so deeply regret as the displacement of Mr. Boyd. I do not pretend to be able to speak of the situation, as it might effect the business interests of Nebraska. But speaking merely as a Republican, I regard it as one of the heaviest blows which the party could possibly suffer. I don't doubt that the supreme court took the course it recognized as proper, but it is, indeed, unfortunate for the Republican party that the necessity arose for the displacement of a Democrat elected by the people by a court constituted solely of Republicans. It would have been far better for Mr. Boyd to have served out his term of office unchallenged than that the party should bear the charge of having ousted him from office. The lawyer is quick to perceive a legal technicality, but it is quite a different thing to impress upon the people the equity of a technicality which practically disfranchises the popular vote. Should it happen be any strange tale that Mr. Boyd should recover the office in the federal court the populace would at once accept such a decision as a complete endorsement of the suspicion that the decision was political rather than judicial."

NO LONGER A CLAIM.

It formerly was the case as one of the inducements to reside in Crawfordsville that taxes were low and the city free from debt. We can make this claim no longer. The electric light plant, the wisdom of the purchase of which is very much doubted, has fastened a debt upon us which will require years to pay, and the taxes must of necessity be considerably higher than heretofore. The establishment also of this plant has likewise created the establishment of a number of petty official positions, which the tax-payers will have to pay, and which will always be the source of political contention. An electrician, an engineer and a lineman are all made political positions hereafter, and the tax-payers must pay for the services of all these men. The time for reflection on the wisdom of the purchase of the electric light plant will come as each citizen pays an increased sum in taxes, but then it will be too late. He will then think the powers of a city council should be abridged, should be lessened, but what benefit will this be? He can only pay the increased taxes and bear the burden as best he can.

EX-CONGRESSMAN OWEN, well known here, defeated at the election last fall for Congress by a democrat of the Logansport district, still hankers after office. He is now in Washington City. A correspondent says:

"It is understood that the object of Mr. Owen's visit is to prevail upon the President to appoint him to the position of Superintendent of Immigration, one of the numerous new offices created by the 'Billion Congress.' The bill creating this position was introduced and engineered through Congress through the efforts of Mr. Owen. It is worth $4,000 a year and the official will have to reside in Washington."

Mr. Owen called on the President this afternoon and had a long talk with him about his ambition. He wants the place badly, and urged the President to give it to him. The President, however, wanted to appoint a gentleman from Buffalo, who has achieved some reputation as a labor agitator, but the impression and strong belief is that the President has concluded to waive his personal preference and that the Logansport gentleman will secure the prize.

MANY democrats in favoring ex-President Cleveland as the nominee on the national democratic ticket in 1892 for president do so on the ground of his former position against the present tariff law. They seem to opine that no other candidate would assume similar action. This is an error. Plenty of them would be just as outspoken against it. It was the high station Cleveland occupied that directed attention to him in his message in 1887 denouncing the tariff laws. There were and are many other prominent democrats who think just as he did. It was the circumstances and the position that made Cleveland so prominent on the tariff question. The idea that all the good qualities for high official positions of any kind are concentrated in one man is preposterous and delusive. Let the democracy seek elsewhere for a candidate for president than New York and their wisdom will be shown.

The inquiry of the law will be felt in the State tax, which will be increased from 100 to 150 per cent.—Journal.

The Journal probably believes in the practice if you tell a falsehood at all tell a big one. It says the State tax will be increased 100 to 150 per cent. According to this a man charged on the tax duplicate, heretofore say with a State tax of $5 will hereafter be compelled to pay $10 or $12.50, as incorrect and false an assertion as could well be started. The additional State tax as the Journal well knows is 6 per cent.—no more no less. The increased taxation as all fair minded men are aware is necessary to pay for new asylum buildings, State House, Soldiers' Monument, etc., the building of which was strongly urged and favored by scores of republican legislators.

REMARKABLE ENDURANCE.

The endurance of some human beings under constant strain and tension of muscle, nerves and brain is oftentimes remarkable. The prize fight between Jackson and Corbett at San Francisco last week is a fitting instance of this. Both of these men weighed near 190 pounds each, were in the best of condition and both fought with the determination to win the championship and the $10,000 that was put up for the purpose, yet neither of them was successful. They pounded each other for four hours, and yet were compelled to hear the referee decide it a draw. Occasionally other contests in the prize ring have been of equal duration, yet it is astonishing what men will endure for a little doubtful glory and money.

The enumeration of school children at Indianapolis, just completed, shows 13,500 more than last year, and in consequence there will be about $40,000 less of the school fund to run the schools with than heretofore. The assertion that in many cities of the state the enumeration of school children was incorrect, was padded, etc., in order to give the school officials the use of that additional sum of money more than they were entitled to, is proven correct so far as Indianapolis is concerned, at least.

An Indianapolis firm paid $525 for choice of seats at the May Musical Festival consisting of three nights only in that city this week. It is probable that none of the firm had seen any May festivals heretofore.

It is the acme of meanness in the Cincinnati Enquirer to aim to work up a feeling against Gov. Campbell, the present democratic executive of Ohio, solely on personal grounds, as it seems to be doing. It did the same thing underhandedly when Allen G. Thurman was a candidate for senator against Coal Oil Payne. The Enquirer is occasionally termed a democratic newspaper, but has a decidedly peculiar way of exhibiting its democracy. Regarding the war on Campbell it all appears to be the result of political spite work. He seems to have made an excellent executive, and if he is not elected we doubt very much if any other democratic nominee can be in a state as changeable in the matter of governors as Ohio has been for twenty years past.

EX-TREASURER HOUSTAN, who lately resigned his $6,000 position and was succeeded by Ene Nebaker, of Covington, is, it is reported, soon, in conjunction with others, to start a daily newspaper at Indianapolis, which is expected to be decidedly anti-administration in tone. Houston, who was, previous to the advent of Harrison's nomination, an ordinary country politician at Connersville, Indiana, perhaps, that his great qualities have not been appreciated. They will be, however, after he is well in the harness as boss of a daily newspaper. He will very gladly be willing to let go after a brief season in the field of journalism.

As republican administrations find it impossible to run the pension department of the government without having some dishonest scoundrels to manage it or to be in some way connected with it it may be well to abolish the office altogether, or place some good square man like Gen. Black at the head of it. The scoundrelly and dishonest transactions arising from that department are disgraceful to the nation and to those for whom the office was originated and for whose benefit it exists.

Some one drawing a salary, no doubt, is sending out from Chicago every week from three to four columns of printed circulars relating to the world's fair to be held in that city, to newspapers all over the west and asking that they be republished free. This is the height of gall and publishers should consign them to the waste basket as soon as they arrive. Unless there is a cash consideration for their publication no attention should be paid them.

The billion dollar congress should put the people to thinking. For extravagance, it has no equal in American history. How the Republican party can go before the people asking their support with an extravagance record, is a puzzle. The Republican party has had control of the law making power, of the national government for thirty years and the people are oppressed more every year. The people can not get any legislation in their favor until the Republican party is turned out of power.

REPUBLICAN PAPERS through the State have been entirely too premature in aiming too gather political capital, out of the enactment of the new tax law. By the time its benefits and advantages are thoroughly understood, which will be long before the next election, their present efforts will amount to nothing and something new will have to be sought. Why not attack the school book law or the system now used in managing elections?

THEY might accuse Mayor Carr of nepotism, but all the same he is not going to forget a friend or relative when there are any soft places to hand out. It was noticed in the appointment of a lineman for the new electric light plant a brother-in-law of His Honor was appointed to the position, whereas some of the disappointed accuse him of nepotism and are mad.

PRESIDENT HARRISON, says the Newport Hoosier State, shed tears when he arrived at Mentezuma on his way east. Had he have reached Newport and seen the Hoosier State man there is no describing in suitable language what his feelings would have indicated.

MAYOR SHAKESPEARE has informed the New Orleans Italians that he will stand no more of their monkey business. This is one of Shakespeare's acts that will be liberally applauded.

Human Instinct.

So powerful is human instinct, that some of its suggestions become embodied in social and household customs. The people know and feel that at the beginning of the spring season the system needs an alternative and a purifying tonic and stimulant. In all parts of the country it is the custom for the housewife to dose her brood with cascara tea. Among the simple remedies that our ancestors employed, this decoction has continued to hold its own. The demand for a spring alternative and tonic, however, is filled more efficaciously by S. S., which is itself as simple as nature's remedial medicine should be. It purifies the blood, cleanses the system, and prepares the human machine to stand the wear and tear of the summer months.
