ILLUSTRATED FANATICISM.

At an assembly of the leading members of the United Presbyterian church at Pittsburg last week six young ministers of that denomination were expelled for voting at a primary political election. If this is not the height of pious fanaticism we would be at a loss to know what to designate it. Good people of every religious denomination should at all times exercise the right of suffrage. The good citizen is more interested in good government than the evil minded. In this free country the members and ministers of every religious denomination vote at elections, and if there is anything improper or unchristian in the act it has never yet been made known, or the United Presbyterians are the first to discover it. It is remarkable to what length religious fanaticism will often carry men. These people who consider it wrong for their ministers to vote at an election would no doubt, if able, re-install the old "blue laws" of Connecticut, which forbid men from sitting in the same pew at church that their wives occupied, forbid wife and husband from kissing each other, allowed nothing to be cooked on the Sabbath day and such like excessive tomfoolery and pious fanaticism. All religious belief should be founded on justice and good sense. All people who desire good laws and good government will assist in making them such. These Pittsburg people, no doubt, don't believe any such thing. Elections, they think, should be in the hands of the ungodly, while their business is to sit off in one corner and hope for the salvation of men without taking a practical hand in making them better. Is there any wonder there is so much wrangle at this time regarding the religious belief and government of churches among the various denominations? But any. Is it to be marveled at that heresy and heretics are increasing? Such narrow, contracted and illiberal acts like those of the Presbyterians at Pittsburg last week create them.

PAUL DISBARMENT PROCEEDINGS.

What to most people would seem to have been a useless and ridiculous use of the county funds was the allowance last week of the sum of $250 to two attorneys for their labor toward the prosecution in the disbarment proceedings against G. W. Paul, a year or more ago. The public opinion is that it is entirely wrong so far as we have been able to learn and that those men should not be allowed one cent. Their labor in the case probably occupied a day's time altogether, yet they were allowed $250 for it, and did nothing after all. No one was disbarred from practice. Paul left the county and the matter dropped then and there. But aside from all this why deal out the tax payers money to settle lawyers' quarrels and wrangles? Who has or had any interest in the welfare of Paul or any other attorney aside from the bar itself. The public cares not how it might have been settled so that it were not asked to foot the bills? Law may be quoted by the yard to justify the payment of this $250 to these men, but morally is it right to thus make the county responsible for private or individual contentions among attorneys of this bar? Paul may have been a devilish mean man, but no more so in some particulars probably than some of his professional brethren. But why ask the county to pay for his prosecution, and no prosecution was done? We believe a bad precedent has been set in allowing this claim of $250, and the public believe it too. But "Mr. Clerk swear Mr. Smith, Jones or Brown as to what such services—"

THE McKinley tariff promises to be fruitful of evil in more than one direction. It promises to stimulate production excessively in certain lines. This will be followed by strikes and lockouts, an over supply of labor and a reduction in wages. The Indianapolis News, which supported Harrison thus tells how it works:

"American workmen," it says, "should note that the pauper labor of Europe is flocking here since the McKinley bill, passed, as it has never done before. The protectionist organs have been chronicling the harm which the McKinley measure was inflicting on the industries of Europe, causing this, that and another factory to close its doors or go into bankruptcy; telling about this, that and another capitalist that was coming here with his investment—actually boasting of it! Boasting of the fact that the McKinley measure gave such an enormous bounty to capitalists by closing the markets of this country out from the world, that it attracted investors to come here and get some of the golden stream that will be drained out of American consumers, this stream to be poured into the lap of Europe to be expended in living and luxuries there. Meantime the pauper labor of Europe is rushing here as it never came before to depress our labor market, make two men clamoring for a job where there was one, or three where there were two. Thus the McKinley measure catches the masses coming and going. It whipsaws us all in higher prices out of the bounty it thus yields attracts more millionaires like bees to a rich honey find; and with the swelling tide of laboring people setting in from the old world, beats down still further this item of expense to the capitalists. The millionaires knew what they were doing when they passed the McKinley law."

WHEAT CROP PROSPECTS.

There has rarely in many long years been a more favorable appearance for a large yield of wheat in this and many neighboring counties than at this time. The yield of the grain, of course, cannot be told until threshed, but present appearance are decidedly favorable for a good crop. There is little poor wheat to be seen anywhere. It may be said the outlook is good every where. The work of cutting it, it is thought, will begin about July 1st in most places, and the rattle of the binder will soon be heard in every neighborhood. If the yield this year comes up to the full measure of expectation business during this fall in all lines of trade should certainly be active, and the never ending cry of "hard times" should for a time at least, cease. If the wheat of this year does not aid greatly in making money plentiful and business more active than we do not know anything that will. A good wheat yield in this agricultural country is better than anything else to stimulate and increase trade.

CHAIRMAN JEWETT'S circular to democratic officials, which the Journal was kind enough to print Saturday, is a sound and timely document. We endorse every word of it, and hope that the officials to whom it was addressed may act upon it. It is as follows:

DEMOCRATIC STATE CENTRAL COMMITTEE OF INDIANA, INDIANAPOLIS, IND., June 2, 1891. DEAR SIR—Your attention is earnestly invited to the fact that by the operation of the tax law passed by the last legislature, the assessed value of property has been largely increased in most every locality; in some instances it has been doubled.

It certainly was not the purpose of this law to actually increase in the amount of taxes to be paid by the people. They are already taxed to the verge of bankruptcy by the iniquitous tariff law, commonly called the McKinley law.

It is a plain and simple duty. It is confidently expected that democrats charged with the fixing of tax rates throughout the state will, when this matter is called to their attention, act promptly and in such a way to remove all danger of the people having to pay more taxes because of this recent tax law.

In counties where republicans levy the taxes of course no relief need be expected. The republican idea of taxation is to collect every dollar and squander the surplus. Very truly yours,

Chairman Democratic State Committee, J. T. RILEY, Secretary.

REDUCING THE SURPLUS.

A fort formed Fort Sheridan has been established within a few miles of Chicago at which 1,000 troops will hereafter be stationed. There is a wonderful amount of humbuggery, red tape and extravagance in the army management of this country and always has been. There is perhaps as much benefit in the establishment of this fort with this number of troops in the midst of civilization in it as there would be in the fifth wheel to a wagon, in fact there is probably no use of it whatever, but the ukase of the secretary of war must be obeyed and hence the expenditure must be made. Movements like these greatly aid in reducing the surplus of cash in the treasury. It has been no difficulty with them to originate schemes of this or that kind to spend the money of the people, and this move of placing 1,000 soldiers in a fort near Chicago is in keeping with thousands of instances equally as useless and extravagant.

ANTI-HARRISON.

A large number of disaffected republicans from Ohio, Illinois and other western states held a secret caucus at Indianapolis last week to inaugurate an anti-Harrison movement for presidential candidate next year. Many prominent men of the party were in attendance, and one man called attention to the fact that every member of the republican national convention was opposed to the re-nomination of Harrison, with the exception of John C. New, who is now holding down a $10,000 per year office under this administration. The caucus choice next year, as indicated, was strongly for James G. Blaine, but if not him, some man other than Harrison. These men may create a strong sentiment against Harrison next year, but strong enough to defeat him is doubtful, as the man with 100,000 office holders at his back is generally very hard to defeat and so will it prove in this case.

THE indiscriminate granting of pensions to this or that alleged ex-soldier has created a big army of lazy men all over the country. Thousands of men who have no reasonable claim on the government for pensions, through the loose management of the pension department and the shrewd manipulations of pension agents, are able to draw $12, $18 or $24 every month regularly. This settles it. Work don't agree with them, and they are not going to follow it either. They sit around, while their wives and sons labor hard, and tell of hard fought engagements of the late war in which they were never in any more than were Blaine, Ingalls, DePew or other noted republican patriots. The thing goes on, the government treasury is depleted, and these lazy camp-followers live at ease, caring for nothing, watching for nothing, only for regular pension day.

Gov. HOVE is issuing his proclamation last week putting in force the laws passed by the last legislature, all the counties of the state, having received copies of the act, assumes to pass upon the validity of that act regarding the redistricting of a portion of the state. He is going beyond his duties in the matter. Whether valid or not is none of his business. The courts may determine that question, not him. It is a part of the campaign capital for next year he is seeking to create by this act of his. Like most of his movements since filling the executive chair in any matter relating to party, he has generally proven himself very foolish, ridiculous, bull headed, and no more so than in this instance.

THE gambling propensities of large numbers of the nobility of England, as brought out in the trial of Gordon Cummings in London lately, does not give any of those high in authority in this country any particular reason to rejoice. Gambling has always prevailed extensively at Washington City, and senators, representatives, ministers to foreign countries and many other dignitaries have gambled for money, and for large amounts too. If it is disgraceful in one country it is in another, and before censuring the short comings of people in foreign countries we should first see that our own record is clear.

THE Illinois legislature has passed what is termed the ballot reform law, a law similar in its import to the Australian system of election management or the same as in Indiana. The hopes of republican leaders will drop in every state where they have an honest election system, and Illinois, which has always been a strong, reliable republican state, will be looked upon hereafter as doubtful.

THE trustees of the Battle Ground Camp meeting Association are opposing taxation by the state of the property owned by it on that historic site. If, as is claimed, the property is not used for educational, religious or scientific purposes, it would be well for the trustees to explain why it should not be taxed any more than a farm or a house and lot should exempt.

SIX preferences that has been given ex-soldiers in the appointment to positions on the police force at the city of Washington is to be discontinued, because the veterans who apply for appointments are old and incapacitated for the proper performance of their duties. The years are beginning to tell on those who were the Nation's defenders in the sixties.

THE Farmers' Alliance proposes to make a thorough canvass of the country for the dissemination of its principles. President Polk says: "Every state in the Union will be actively canvassed by the best talent in the Alliance, in the way of speakers, lectures, and canvassers, who will fully explain the objects of the Alliance, and what will be asked in the way of State and National legislation."

LAST year's appraisement of railroad property in Indiana aggregated $70,000,000, and the railroads will pay a state tax of $300,000 more than they did last year. Yet the falsifying editors of Republican newspapers are trying to cram down the throats of their former readers that the new tax law relieves the railroad companies at the expense of the former class.

GEN. ALGER, of Michigan, himself a candidate, favors, it is said, Hon. J. G. Blaine as the next nominee for president. It is somewhat strange you never hear of any one favoring Harrison for re-nomination except he is some one holding an office under this administration, or who has a cousin or brother-in-law in some good paying position.

BOOKS county seems forging to the front in the way of bloody tragedies. A half dozen murders have been chronicled in that county within the past two or three years, and on Saturday at Whitestown in that county, another occurred, a man named Farley killing another by the name of Stewart over a dispute regarding the rent of a house.

OVER 2,000 persons wear the blue ribbon badge at Lebanon since Murphy, the temperance orator, held forth in that town. There must have heretofore been an immense amount of whisky destroyed by its people, judging from the large number moved to repentance by Murphy.

AMONG the curiosities which shows never advertise, but which would attract attention would be mechanics or laboring men who have had their wages increased since the McKinley bill went into operation in this country. People would gaze on such curiosities with much interest.

Condition vs. Theory.

Those who are in ill-health are confronted by a condition, not a theory, although there are numbers of people ready and anxious to theorize about it. In ninety-nine cases out of a hundred S. S. S. will do the work of renovation. In cases of indigestion, loss of appetite and general debility, this wonderful medicine acts with almost miraculous certainty. It restores the activity of the liver, purifies the blood and builds up the system. As a tonic for young and old it is without a rival. Though it is powerful in its effects, the youngest or the oldest can take it with the most beneficial effects. S. S. S. has behind it a record of half a century, and is more popular as a household remedy to day than ever before.

I feel it my duty to say a few words in regard to Ely's Cream Balm, and I do so entirely without solicitation. I have used it more or less half a year, and have found it to be most admirable. I have suffered from catarrh of the worst kind ever since I was a little boy and I never hoped for cure, but Cream Balm seems to do even that. Many of my acquaintances have used it with excellent results.—Oscar Ostrum, 45 Warren Ave., Chicago, Ill.

Pictures hermetically sealed between thin sheets of transparent celluloid never lose their fresh appearance.

After all, the best way to know the real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, is to try it yourself. Be sure to get Hood's.

A colored man in Hutchinson, Kas., carved a chain nearly six feet long out of a solid piece of wood in fifteen hours.

The Purest and Best. Articles known to medical science are used in preparing Hood's Sarsaparilla. Every ingredient is carefully selected, personally examined, and only the best retained. The medicine is prepared under the supervision of thoroughly competent pharmacists, and every step in the process of manufacture is carefully watched with a view to securing in Hood's Sarsaparilla the best possible result.

My Country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Of thee I sing:
Land where our fathers
died;
Land where our Mothers
cried,
Over the wash-tub tied
Let freedom ring.
My native country thee—
Land of the noble, free—
Thy name I love;
I love thy tucks and frills
But oh! what laundry bills!
My soul with horror thrills;
When I think of thee,
Let music swell the breeze,
And blow through all the

And gladly try a cake,
Let all for cleanness sake,
Join the applause.
