A LEADER DEAD.

Charles F. Parnell, one among the foremost of those who have so strongly advocated home rule and the liberation of Ireland for the past quarter of a century, died in Brighton, England, last week. He was as energetic and outspoken in the cause he had chosen as any man of his time. So far as ameliorating the cause of his people, to relieve the needy and starving of his land, no man could have a nobler cause to advocate. But what of these alleged patriots, these agitators, who come to this country to talk patriotism to their race? Does it and will it ever amount to anything? Is Ireland any nearer now a free home government than it was half a century ago? Has constant agitation brought them any nearer freedom's door? Would Ireland, if a free government as the United States is to-day, remain in that condition for any great length of time? We all know the aggressive nature of the Irishman. He loves contention, combativeness, self-assertion. Would they permit the changing of rulers every four or eight years, as we do in the United States, without bloodshed? Would England without cost of much treasure and the spilling of much blood ever give up her hold on the Green Isle? No country on the globe has ever reared men with a loftier patriotism than Ireland, with more eloquent orators or poets whose lines were more sublime. Yet these questions will arise at all times in discussing the situation of Ireland and Irish affairs. Americans, one and all, will wish that she may become a free government and ruled by her own people, but that she will soon reach that day is a question involving much doubt.

THE NEW ELECTRIC PLANT.

The report of the committee shows the cost of the new electric light plant to have been about $33,500. Whether this will have proven a good investment in the long run will have to be decided. There are several questions which the outside public know nothing about. For instance, are there a half dozen men in the city who know that the lamps are 2,000 candle power? Can the public in general notice any particular difference between a lamp of 2,000 candle power and one of 1,200? We believe not. Most people notice the light and that is all the attention given it. Its particular brilliancy is not thought of. The "smoke stack" while a very well built arrangement cost $3,500. Would not one of iron, somewhat similar to the stand pipe of the water works company, and which did not cost one-half that sum, have done as well for the city and been just as permanent? The city is much better lighted now than ever before. Perhaps there is no city of equal size in the state as well lighted as this. If it is economy in the present arrangement over that when light was furnished by a company, all right and good. This, however, is yet to be demonstrated.

FEMALE ORATORS.

HELEN M. GOGGAR is canvassing Ohio during this campaign in the interest of the cause of prohibition and to defeat McKinley. We do not suppose she will do any good or particular harm in either direction. The reason is that the public seized to take interest in the women of the "strong minded" calibre. The novelty of hearing their "gab" has worn off, and their influence has become of little weight for any cause. Anna Dickson at one time could draw out immense crowds to hear her. The republicans hired her for the campaign of 1888, and she is in the asylum now. It was too hard an undertaking for her to attempt to defend that party and her mind became unbalanced. Whether there is any less dram drinking in States where Helen has been advocating the temperance cause is very questionable, and if not, why her work in the prohibition field aside from the money to be made? The days of the female public political speaker are rapidly drawing to a close. They don't draw as heretofore. There is no longer any novelty in them. They look better at home and that is the place for them.

SIM COY, the Indianapolis politician, has dropped over and is now a full fledged republican, it is stated. The first thing in order now will be for his new political associates to give him an office. If he is guilty of malfeasance while holding it he can rest easy, as the Federal court officers will be his friends.

It is a relief to know that the city election of Indianapolis is over and that Sim Coy, Herod, Sullivan et al., will not take up six or eight columns daily of the newspapers of that city for a time at least.

APPROACHING OHIO ELECTION.

With all the money and the speeches that the republican leaders and the administration are now running into Ohio, there seems no doubt but what they are alarmed for the safety of their special champion of high tariff, McKinley, who, in his race for governor, has found in Campbell a man fully equal to him in argument, and who has been ready at all times to meet him and debate the question of tariff with him. A great advantage the democracy will have this year will be a fair election. No intimidation, no buying, no pulling of voters go this year. They have the Australian system of balloting this year. Every man can and will cast his ballot as he pleases. This, together with the fact that the democracy have the best side of the question on the tariff issue, will encourage the party to put forth great efforts for victory and it has much to encourage it that it can be won and Campbell elected. The election occurs on Tuesday, Nov. 3d, and a full vote will be polled.

The tin plate fraud practiced on the Ohio Republicans is more serious than first supposed. The McKinley badges have no steel in them.

ONE of them, selected at random, was submitted for analysis to the most reliable chemist in St. Louis, who made the following reports:

The composition of the medal is wrought iron plate of rather inferior grade, covered with a very thin coating of tin and lead alloy, in which the lead largely predominates. There is certainly no steel in its composition, and we doubt very much the source claimed for the tin.

By the testimony of a number of experts, the "tin and lead alloy" used to coat these inferior wrought iron medals is a substance which could not be safely used for any of the ordinary purposes of tin. It is poisonous. It would make a deadly dinner pail for the workman. The child who drank from such a "tin" dipper, or the housewife who "put up" fruit in such a "tin" receptacle would simply be poisoned to death. A poison as well as a fraud.

HOW TO VOTE.

ALTHOUGH we in Indiana have had one election under the new system, still by the time the election rolls around next year there will be thousands of new voters and many old ones who will forget just how to vote. Below are a few good rules for voting. Stick them up, study them thoroughly and you will make no mistake when you cast your ballot:

If you vote the ticket, stamp the ticket. If you vote for men, stamp the men. That is, if you want to vote a straight ticket, stamp in the square at the top of that ticket where the emblem is. If you want to scratch, do not stamp the square at the head of the ticket, but stamp only the square at the side of the names of the men you want to vote for, leaving unstamped the men you want to scratch (and, as said, leaving the ticket unstamped). So if you vote a ticket, stamp the ticket (and it only). If you vote for men, stamp the square of the men (and them only).

It was reported last week that in view of the large amount of plumbing to be done in town within the next six months that the plumbers of which there are quite a number, had formed a combination and that prices for such work would be greatly elevated. The plumbers, we understand, deny this. It is useless to aim to kill the goose that lays the golden egg at the start. The plumbing business may be quite remunerative to those charging reasonable prices, but the public will not submit to extortion. It will be posted as to just what such work is worth, and will aim to pay it and no more. Every mechanic should have a profit on his work, but not two profits. It is hoped that the plumbers will charge reasonable prices for labor and material, and not injure the natural gas business at the start.

It is a shame that in the great state of Indiana "White Cap" outrages are about as frequent now as ever, and that neither the civil nor state authorities have yet devised some scheme by which they can be permanently suppressed. Efforts of Govs. Gray and Hovey amounted to nothing, while the authorities in the counties where White Cap outrages occurred have exhibited a remarkable amount of cowardice and intimidation. Some one who can originate and carry out successfully a plan to stamp out White Caps will acquire everlasting fame and honor.

THERE seems no question but that the supply of natural gas in many quarters is diminishing, all efforts to the contrary to conceal the fact from the outside world, notwithstanding. Hood Nelson, at Anderson, the other day, noticed workmen removing pipe from two or three wells. They have ceased, they said, to furnish enough of the fluid to keep them in running order and were abandoned. It is in their interest, however, to deny this, and it is a wonder the workmen had forgotten themselves and for once told the truth.

Chicago dedicated a $200,000 monument to Gen. Grant last week at Lincoln Park. New York, which begged that his remains be deposited in that state, has not yet raised enough money to build even a foundation for a monument. It is perhaps well enough that New York City did not get the World's Fair; they would not have begun preparations for it for a year yet probably.

Protection is a costly luxury to the masses. Congressman Stringer asserts that while the government is raising a revenue of $250,000,000 a year the people are paying $1,000,000,000, three fourths of which goes to the protected manufacturers of this country. No wonder that millionaires multiply, trusts flourish and monopolists have the trade and commerce of the county by the throat.

GOV. CAMPBELL has entered suit for damages against the Cincinnati Gazette, based on publications concerning his indebtedness, which seem to have been false and published solely for political purposes and in the interest of McKinley. The Gazette may learn, before the close of the trial, of the value of truth in all political campaigns.

SULLIVAN and his company of brusiers were reported stranded last week in Australia and without means to leave that country. This is an instance where the stranding should remain indefinitely, and it is a good evidence of the sound sense of the Australians that they refused to give their money to such a worthless crowd.

POLITICAL gossip this week was that Blaine was to retire from his position as secretary of state in the Harrison cabinet and John W. Foster, of this state, appointed in his stead. There is probably nothing in it. Notwithstanding all gossip Blaine will probably remain in the cabinet so long as Harrison is president, even if he should be re-elected.

Why it is so Popular.

Because it has proven its absolute merit over and over again, because it has an unequalled record of cures, because its business is conducted in a thoroughly honest manner, and because it combines economy and strength, being the only medicine of which 100 Doses One Dollar is true—These strong points have made Hood's Sarsaparilla the most successful medicine of the day.

After trying many remedies for catarrh during the past twelve years, I tried Ely's Cream Balm with complete success. It is over one year since I stopped using it and have had no return of catarrh. I recommend it to all my friends.—Milton T. Palm, Reading, Pa.

Scientists say that the orange was originally a berry, and its evolution has been going on for more than one thousand years.

"Does your mother know you're out," said a boy to his little brother. "Yes, she does, was the answer." For one bottle of Dr. Bull's Cough Syrup has knocked my cold into a cocked hat, you bet.

Eighty per cent. of the dogs in New York city are unlicen sed.

I was troubled with catarrh for seven years previous to commencing the use of Ely's Cream Balm. It has done for me what other so called cures have failed to do—cured me. The effect of the Balm seemed magical. Clarence L. Huff, Biddford, Me.

After all, the best way to know the real merit of Hood's Sarsaparilla, is to try it yourself. Be sure to get Hood's.
