THE DEMOCRATIC CALL FOR MASS CONVENTION.

The democrats of Montgomery county Indiana, are requested to meet in mass convention on the 2nd day of January, 1892, at the court house in Crawfordsville, for the purpose of selecting a member or the Central Committee for the 8th congressional district. It is further ordered that on or before the said day of Jan., 1892, the democrats of the respective townships of said county meet and select one member of the county central committee for each township and also one member of the township committee for each precinct of the respective township and report such organization to said convention on Jan. 2nd, 1892. A good speaker will be present who will address the convention. By order of the county central committee.

JAMES M. SELLER, Chairman,
WILL H. JOHNSTON, Secy.

ETHICS OF THE PROFESSION.

The code of ethics of the old school of physicians say that they must not advertise their business to the world, that it is unprofessional, etc. Where the idea was born and nurtured we know not, but they rigidly adhere to it, and esteem all other classes of physicians as quacks who think and act differently. It looks in this age as an old ridiculous, nonsensical idea. A physician, a master of the healing art, is in the business for his living and the money there is in it, the same as the lawyer or merchant. Then if he has the ability and knowledge to effect cures and relieve the distressed why hesitate to tell the world of the fact? The other schools of the profession may have quacks and incompetents among them, but does this indicate that the old school fellows have not also? If you have the means to relieve any one of a chronic malady what is wrong in letting the world know it through newspapers? Is there any physician of the regular profession in practice for any great length of time but what he had to humor some of his patients by deception in order to place them on the road to recovery? If so, is that quackery? There are a number of traveling physicians in this state. There may be some incompetents among them, and others that are thoroughly educated in the science. They all advertise, and most of them make money. Some of them receive from $200 to $500 during a three or four days' visit. This is as much as some of the local and old school physicians receive in cash in six months. The local physicians have just as much skill, some of them more, than the traveling men, but they must not advertise the fact. It is contrary to the ethics of the profession. The consequence is the traveling fellows, financially, are getting away ahead of the others, and are ready to retire on a competency while the regular accumulates very slowly.

ELECTING SENATORS.

Senator Turpie, of this state, made a speech in congress last week favoring the election of U. S. Senators by the people. This speech made by any senator fifty years ago would not have been out of place. It is certainly correct. Why the people cannot vote for senators as well as they can for representatives, governors, etc., cannot certainly be explained unless on the argument that the constitution does not permit them to, and that is no argument at all. The idea seems to have been originally that the populace had not sense enough to vote for senators, but that the legislature had. By the present plan many incompetents, millionaires and such like, who do not represent anything outside of wealth and their own imbecility, are chosen as senators. Take the States of California, Nevada and many of the southern states, the senators from which seem to be chosen for their wealth, not their brains. The thing should be changed and men sent to the senate who know something and could do something in the interest of the people, not themselves. Let the people elect the senators.

JUDGE W. A. WOODS, a U. S. district judge, has been appointed by Harrison under the new law, a circuit judge. He and Harrison are brother Presbyterians, and the appointment, of course, was looked for and expected. He is the same individual who furnished two legal opinions on the same subject, one against Coy, when a democrat, and the other in favor of "blocks-of-five" Dudley, a republican, of course. He fills the measure, probably in the eyes of a republican president of a just and fair exponent of legal questions coming before him, and is fixed for life, if the appointment is confirmed by the senate. Efforts to prevent it will probably be made, but the senate is republican and it will doubtless go through.

REMEMBER the county democratic convention at the court house on Saturday next.

NO FREE PASSES ANY MORE.
The legislature of South Carolina has lately passed a law which should be followed by every state in the Union. The law forbids the acceptance of free passes given by railway companies to any member of the legislature, Judge of any court, or county official, and the penalty for receiving the passes by any one of these officers is a fine of $500 and imprisonment of six months in jail. Just as soon as a state legislature meets the railways commence to shower them with free passes, allowing them to travel free during the session and sometimes for a much longer period. There is perhaps not a member of the legislature from this county for twenty-five years past but what has received free passes or been tendered them by the numerous railways of the state. The entire proceeding has about it the odor of corruption. It seems to say that the retaining of these passes by the legislators is an underhanded way to buy the members into silence in any legislation which may be inimical to railway interests. Railways should be treated in the same way any other corporations are, and justice should be meted out to them the same as to others. The example of the South Carolina legislature should become contagious, and railways, so far as the enacting of laws is concerned, placed on the same footing as corporations and individuals, yet we fear it will not be. The law makers in this age do not seem to be constructed on the plan of resisting evil, but seem ready to take anything offered generally.

OF INTEREST TO TEACHERS.

The following from the Indianapolis Journal will be of interest to school teachers and trustees: "Superintendent of Public Instruction Vories received a communication from A. E. Mages, of Kewanee, Ind., asking if teachers are compelled to make up time lost on holidays. Nothing was said about holidays in the contracts, as they read to teach a term of 120 days at 1.87 1/2 a day." Superintendent Vories, in reply, answers that contracts to teach school are governed by the same laws that govern other contracts. There being nothing said about holidays it is a necessary implication that teachers shall receive pay for all legal holidays that occur during the term of school, whether taught or not. Mr. Vories further says: "When a contract is signed neither party can legally make any modification without the consent of the other party to the contract. Nothing being said about holidays when the contract was made trustees would have made no legal right to issue an order or ruling that holidays would not be paid for unless actually taught."

FUEL GAS.

The Harris process of making gas is attracting the attention of the public generally, and if it is the success its promoters claim for it the gas belt people need not give themselves any concern about the supply of natural gas. J. N. Huston, Connorsville capitalist and statesman, controls the right of a number of states, including Indiana. At a meeting at Irvington one night last week, Mr. Haigh from Maysville, Kentucky, representing the company which has a plant in operation in that town, was present. He stated that the gas could be manufactured by this company at a cost of 1 1/2 cents per one thousand cubic feet, and that any kind of soft coal could be used, and that there was no residue, all the coal being consumed. He invited a committee to come to Maysville and inspect the plant, offering to pay their expenses. This liberal offer was accepted, and Messrs. Johnson, Layman, Brouse, Gordon and Hay were named as such committee. Mr. C. B. Cones, one of the proprietors of the overall factory in Indianapolis and a large holder of Irvington real estate, was also present.

QUAY.

"Boss" Quay, of Pennsylvania, the financier of the republican campaign managers in 1888, it is announced will not be a candidate for U. S. Senator, but will retire from politics. The "Boss" did more than his share of the dirty work for his party during the last national campaign, but has received nothing but kicks and curses for it, and is thoroughly disgusted with the whole business. He is without question a corruptor of the people, but has some streaks of conscience left, and retires gladly to the quiet of the private citizen. The party, however, has plenty of similar material and Quay's retirement will not prevent like work in 1892. The success of the party is made possible by the work of the Quays, Dudleys, et al., and there is no expression of the popular will in it.

A REPUBLICAN—not a Blaine club or a Harrison club—should be organized in every county in Indiana.—Journal.

That sounds real patriotic, but thousands of republicans through Indiana don't seem to heed it judging from the number of Blaine clubs being formed. The truth is the independent wing of the party is increasing quite rapidly and Harrison with them has become an object of contempt. This may appear sad to our neighbor yet it is the truth.

Not another dollar should be contributed to the Irish cause until the leaders at home are through using black thorns on each other. They need something more than home rule.

SOME of the trustees of Wabash College in their argument against co-education say that even if it were adopted the institution is not now able to engage in it for want of room and need of more instructors. This is certainly a very lame excuse from officers of an institution 60 years old, having a valuation of nearly $1,000,000 and which has had thousands of dollars showered upon it yearly for a long time past. The natural conclusion will be that if they are not able to keep abreast of the times and to meet the demands of the age they should resign in favor of those who can and will.

THE managing editor of the Indianapolis Sentinel must be out of the city and the political writing connected with the paper in the hands of an amateur, or the editor has a bad case of worms. The way it abuses Senator Hill, of New York, and Representative Crisp, of Georgia, both leading democrats, would do honor to a republican paper. The Sentinel seems to emulate the style of the Cincinnati Enquirer, which, although claiming to be democratic, has in the past cast much doubt on its pretensions by abusing Thurman, Campbell and other leaders of the party.

THE Clay county coal miners who marched under the banner of protection and a stuffed coon in the Harrison reception three years ago, would now willingly, judging from reports, march toward stuffed turkeys, or anything else in the shape of eatables. The relief promised them in set speeches at the Harrison receptions, if they would but vote the ticket, has never come, and their condition to-day is as pitiful as it could well be. No work, no meat, is the condition of things in most of the mining localities in Clay county.

A BILL will be offered in the present congress for a law permitting the unlimited coinage of American silver only, and will have many advocates, so it is said. This is a sly way of whipping the devil around the stump. From the amount of silver annually taken from the American mines the amount of silver soon in circulation if it were put into money would be enormous, and would depreciate it to a wonderful extent. The best financiers of the country are opposed to the scheme, and we doubt much if it ever becomes a law.

STEVE B. ELKINS, a politician high up among the priests of the republican synagogue, has been appointed secretary of war by Harrison, although he was never nearer a battlefield during the fighting of the rebellion than Blaine or many other patriots of the party, but then he knows how to work the party machinery. Harrison admires pretend to see a sure indication that Blaine will not be a candidate for president, on account of the friendship between Elkings and Blaine, although Elkings himself says the appointment has no political significance.

THE grip in many places of the west is more malignant and has more people afflicted with it than ever before. In St. Louis 30,000 cases are reported. At Muncie, Danville, Wabash and other cities of the state large numbers of people are down with the disease. Physicians in this county report few cases yet although expecting it.

Premiums to Those Getting Subscribers.

The political campaign of 1892 will soon be upon us. Indiana, as in the past two decades will be again an important point on the political battle ground. The selections as candidates for the important national positions to be chosen, it would seem at this time, will be made in part from this state, consequently the fight will be "red hot" and exciting. Presidential, state and county officers are to be chosen, and politics will be as thick to the square inch as ever.

For 50 years a Democratic newspaper in Montgomery county, will labor, as in the past, for Democratic principles. We desire to increase and extend its circulation, and offer to those procuring subscribers for the ensuing year the following
