POUTIN & MILLS.

Mills, who was the most prominent opponent of Crisp in the race for speaker of the House, seems to be sulking in his tent since his defeat, and it would appear difficult for him to realize that he has been defeated. He refuses to act on various committees offered him by Crisp and there the matter rests. The most dispensable politician to be found is he who cannot stand defeat and will not accept the victory of his adversary gracefully and quietly. This is true in all political races of either state, county, or municipal. He is generally a sneak, who would wreck his party for private revenge, and is a traitor in almost every instance. We have had instances of this in our own party. Candidates whose greatness was not recognized, nor talents appreciated and were defeated for nomination, turned their backs on the party and used their best efforts to defeat it. Such sneaks although professing fealty to party should ever after be watched. They over estimate their own importance. They should not be taken into the counsels of the party. A true man stands by his guns in both victory or defeat. Mills through the introduction by him of a bill reducing tariff rates became prominent in Congress within three or four years past. His self esteem left him perhaps, like many other fools, to think the machine could not run without him. But it can and will. No man is so important but that his place will be sooner or latter filled. Mills will find that things will move right along whether or not he may take a hand, and like many other politicians will regret that his pusillanimity has cost the better of sound sense.

ORGANIZE.

There is nothing more efficient toward bringing around political success than early organization. This is the year of politics, of political scheming, of political battles and victories. The best organized party generally carries off the laurels and wins the victories. We, the democracy, must organize, and that soon if we are to carry the business to triumph in November next. We must not put the work off until next fall within a few weeks of the election, but begin now. We have had the first convention of the year last Saturday. There was a fair attendance of the principal workers of the party, considering the inclement weather and considerable interest manifested in the coming canvass for county, state and national tickets. Started now as it has begun there should be no cessation in political matters until the termination of the fight in November next. In this county we should remember that we have a wily and unscrupulous foe to meet. Smarting under the defeat of two years ago they will aim by all means to recover lost ground if possible, and any means possible will be resorted to by them to do so. We have the vantage ground now. We have the precedent of victory. We can hold it if we will. Therefore let organization begin at once. See that township meetings are frequently held, political information diffused, and mugwumps, disorganization and malcontents forced to the rear.

THEN AND NOW.

In the days when Cleveland was President, monthly reports showed a gradual decrease in the public debt and a large surplus at all times in the treasury. There was no "billion dollar Congress" then to vote immense sums away of the public money. Had such a course been continued the end of the present century would have witnessed the extinguishment of the government debt. Since then the Republican administration has had hold, and reports of the reduction of the public debt no longer greet the eye. The following regarding the present financial condition of the government will demonstrate just how things are now running:

NEW YORK DEMOCRATIC.

The aim of the republicans of New York to steal a portion of the fruits of the last election in that state has failed. The Court of Appeal has decided the contests in favor of the democratic candidates. The party has now the control of the executive, the judicial and the legislative, and should act throughout in the interest of the people. That should be their highest aim, and in doing so a long continuance of power can be assured them.

NEBRASKA'S GOVERNOR.

Time at least, it is each sets all things even. This will prove true in the case of Gov. Boyd of Nebraska. In 1888 he was elected as the first democratic Governor of that state. The republican rascals were horrified at the thought, yet he had a good round majority and was duly inducted into office. The next thing was to throw him out and declare him ineligible. Having all the courts of the same political hue this was easily done. Although he had resided in the state thirty years he was declared an alien through some oversight of his father, a foreigner, in not taking out his naturalization papers. He was thrown out and Thayer, the former governor, assumed the position. Boyd transferred the case to the U. S. Court, and will be declared by it as the legally elected Governor. The determination of the court has been somewhat slow in its conclusion, but it is better late than never.

IS QUININEA GENUINE SPECIFIC.

Dr. Beyer, editor of the Goshen Times, has the authority of theory and practice behind him upon which to base a medical opinion. He was a doctor long before he became an editor. What he has to say on the prevalent malady may therefore be of importance. He says:

"Judging from present indications the grip bug will be a permanent fixture in this country, just like the potato blight, better known as the Colorado bug. But it is a fact that quinine is as effectual in the destruction of the former as Paris green is in the destruction of the latter. Take a small dose of the drug occasionally when the epidemic prevails, and when the grip gets its grip on you while you were not watching it, take a large dose two or three times a day, in the incipiency of the disease, and you will soon be master of the situation."

THE TREATMENT OF THE LIQUOR HABIT.

It is doubtful if the treatment for the cure of the habit of liquor drinking is to be a success. Hon. T. B. Ward, of Lafayette, went to the institute at Dwight, Ill., was treated for the habit, having been a confirmed drunkard for years. After a few weeks he was pronounced cured and was loud in his pride of the treatment. His enjoyment at his reformation, sad to relate, was short lived. He again began his old habit, sought the institute again, but was refused admission. He sought entrance at the institute at Plainfield in this state, was refused, and shortly after died before again beginning treatment elsewhere. While the Keeley treatment may permanently cure some of the disease formed from stimulants it cannot in many cases be relied upon.

THESE Seymour Democrat contrasts the position of the two great parties on the tariff issue very clearly and forcibly when it says:

"It is the policy of the Democratic party, in the interest of the people, to reduce tariff burdens to a minimum, to make the necessities of life and the raw materials of manufacture, so far as possible, free, to give every possible encouragement to industry, and to relieve the expenses of the government to the standard of actual need.

"It is the policy of the Republican party to increase tariff taxes so as to restrain trade, to encourage the business of the rich at the expense of the poor, to make the necessities of life dear, and to collect vast sums from the people, which may be squandered in ways calculated to purchase support for the party spending them.

THE MIDLAND'S LOSS.

The misfortunes of the Midland come not singly.

For the past several months of officers have been straining every nerve to complete the branch to Brazil by the first day of January 1892. The company was to receive a subsidy of $25,000 if the road reached the city by that time. It is within a half mile of its destination, and would have been finished in ample time to carry off the prize had it not been enjoined by the Fort Wayne, Terre Haute & Southwestern Railroad company, which claimed the Midland was trespassing on the former's right of way.

And thus it is that fate seems to be conspiring to defeat the company.

A KANSAS SENATOR.

A more indecent scramble for places has been rarely seen than in a number of Kansas republican leaders after the office of U. S. Senator to succeed Plumb, deceased. His death had hardly been announced when the contest among a half dozen of them began. A man named Perkins was finally appointed last Friday, and the selection is said to be none of the best. Perkins was engaged in some questionable transactions with some Indian tribes in Southern Kansas, besides he does not now and has not for some time lived in Kansas, but his home is in Washington City.

SENDING out electrotype puffs of candidates for state offices with pictures of the candidates to newspapers has already begun. Nye, of Laporte, candidate for Governor, is flooding the State with his electro, and Shaikh Matson, and the rest will be expected to follow suit. Our advertising rates for such matter is 25 cents per inch.

THE OHIO SENATORSHIP.

The contest for Senator between Foraker and Sherman on the part of their friends will be decided by the Ohio Legislature in a few days. There has been much bitterness engendered by the quibble, yet it would seem ridiculous that a cool experienced man, of many qualities of sound sense and statesmanship should be defeated by such a ranting fanatic and bloody shirt politician as Foraker. Yet stranger things than this have happened in political shuffles, and Foraker may be chosen. The chances of the two men are nearly equal at this time with the outlook most favorable to Sherman. The legislature would render much more credit to the commonwealth of Ohio by returning Sherman to the Senate and by sitting down on Foraker in a way that he will not soon forget.

NOT FOR HILL.

Gov. Hill may take ever so eloquent on matters relating to tariff, silver coinage, and of reforms brought about in New York State during his administration, yet the democracy of the west will not favor him as its candidate for President in this year 1892. The impression cannot be removed from their minds that while he was elected Governor by democrats in 1888 in New York Cleveland failed to secure the electoral vote of the state and that it was brought about through connivance direct or indirect of himself. This may be wrong, yet it is generally believed, and in a national sense will injure Hill for a long time to come.

A HUSTLER NEEDED.

The chairman of the democratic central committee in this county for this year's campaign must be a first class hustler in every respect, work early and late, or he will not fill the bill at all. He must be ready at any time after the battle opens to go to any point of the county at midnight if necessary to see to the interest of the party. During the months of August, September and October, all his time should be devoted to party interests, and his private business must always be secondary. A good chairman is a very useful man during a political warfare, a poor one a menace to the party.

WHENEVER a rich woman enters a store and purloins some of the goods she is a kleptomaniac, can't help it they say, and her friends are allowed to settle the affair without any prosecution of her. When a poor woman does the same thing she is a thief and is at once arrested and prosecuted, and may be goes to prison. The best cure for a kleptomaniac is to give her a dose of the same medicine administered to the less favored of her sex, having no wealth. Fine and imprisonment will cure most cases of kleptomania, and some store keeper should try it.

NEW YORK and adjoining states furnish a million and a half of Democratic votes for the National ticket. The west and south furnish over four million Democratic votes. Yet the east has for thirty years furnished the candidate for President. Let us have a new deal this year. Let the west furnish the candidate this year for the party. A change may work wonders, and it will do it in giving the country a Democratic President. Isaac P. Gray is the man for the place.

LOCATING THE CONVENTION.

The citizens of Indianapolis are raising a fund for the purpose of securing the National Democratic Convention which convenes about July 1st. The sum of $75,000 is the amount considered necessary for the purpose. The estimate is that $1,000,000 will be spent by visitors to the convention. The National committee will select the location on the 21st of this month.

CRANKS seem to be very numerous in New York ever since the attempt by one to take the life of Russel Sage. One was arrested the other day who wanted to compare Vanderbilt's brains with his, and another who proposed eloping with Jay Gould's daughter. It is noticed these cranks never get after poor people. It is always the wealthy that they prefer to interview.

A young man in Brooklyn has pleaded guilty to the charge of replenishing a bonfire with a show-case containing two mummies that were originally princes in their native Egypt, and worth over one thousand dollars at present market rates.

I've been suffering for the past three weeks with a strained wrist. I tried Salivation Oil, and find myself, after having used one bottle, entirely cured. Chas. Keyser, 126 Mulberry St., Baltimore, Md.
