"AMERICAN" TIN PLATE.

There has been a vast amount of gush among republican newspapers over the alleged manufacture of tin plate in this country, and the vast benefits to arise from it. The truth seems to be that there has not been any tin plate at all yet made in this country, or if so, it is a very inferior article. In order to ascertain if there were any tin plate made in this country, the Secretary of the Tin Plate Consumers' Association sent out 115 inquires to numerous dealers in the article. Here are the replies of a few of them, yet the answers of the entire number were the same:

California—San Francisco: We have not been able to obtain any American made tin orterne plates so far.

Connecticut—New Haven: We use only highest grade tin plate, and we have not heard of any of these being manufactured.

Illinois—Chicago: Haven't been able to find any.

Dundas: The tin plate which we use is not made in the United States.

Highland: Obtained none up to date. None of any kind except a sample box of 20 by 28 terme.

Indiana—Vincennes: We have not had any American made tin plate yet.

Indianapolis: We have obtained no American tin plates whatever.

Kentucky—Louisville: I cannot buy any that I know of.

Louisiana—New Orleans: As yet have not been offered any.

Maryland—Baltimore: Have not been able to obtain any. Have neither bought nor been offered any American tin plate.

THE RECIPROCITY DELUSION.

Concerning the reciprocity scheme, the creation of this great saint Blaine, Congressman Brookshire in his recent speech in Congress said:

Reciprocity seems to be the slogan of the republican party at the present time. Sir, in my judgement, this whole scheme of reciprocity is a snare and a delusion, and falls far short of developing necessary markets for the surplus of agriculture, and it is but an artful contrivance for the perpetuation of the most selfish, oppressive, and unjust system of taxation ever fastened upon a free, loyal, and self-respecting people. [Applause on the democratic side.]

Sec. 3 of the McKinley tariff law is certainly very extraordinary indeed. It confers unprecedented and unheard of powers upon the president of the United States. It provides, in substance, that whenever the president shall be satisfied that the government of any country producing and sending us sugar, molasses, coffee, tea and hides, imposes duties on the products of the United States, which the president may in his judgement deem too high and unreasonable, he shall then order to be levied and collected and paid a tariff tax upon the articles which I have named, coming from such foreign countries. He can order a tax of 3 cents a pound on coffee, 10 cents a pound on tea, 1 1/2 cents a pound on raw hides, 2 cents a pound on certain grades of sugar and 4 cents a gallon on a certain grade of molasses.

He might well have added that the whole thing was aimed to perpetuate the republican party, and not for any particular benefit it would be to this country.

The Covington Friend favors the re-nomination of Mr. Brookshire, and says nine-tenths of the Democrats of Fountain county are of the same opinion. As far as we have heard in Parke the Democrats are unanimous for his re-nomination.—Rockville Tribune.

CLEVELAND SENTIMENT.

It is probable that 90 per cent. of the democrats of the country prefer Cleveland as candidate for President to any other name mentioned. They have faith in him. They believe he is sincere, honest, and if elected would be true to the people. Many of the scheming politicians of the party, however, do not want Cleveland. They desire spoils instead of statesmanship. They care nothing for tariff reform or any other kind of reform that might injure their chances of self aggrandisement. Cleveland would enforce honesty in all departments, and they don't want him. The aim to boom this or that man in behalf of the nomination as against Cleveland is not meeting with the favor it was anticipated. Tammany may run New York, but it cannot change the current of opinion in favor of Cleveland. If the majority of the party favor a man then he should be nominated. The sentiment almost everywhere seems to favor Cleveland. Yet there is another side to this question. If nominated can he be elected? Will he be any stronger next November than in November of 1888 when having an administration with him he was defeated? Can he secure the electoral vote of New York, and if not, can he obtain enough aside from it to carry him through? He will need 223 electoral votes to elect him. Allow that he can obtain the entire electoral vote of the South numbering 169, where are the other 54 votes to come from? Of course every one will figure what northern states may give their electoral votes for him but will there be enough? It would seem that the general verdict is that if Cleveland with his prestige cannot secure the 223 electoral votes necessary to a choice then no other democratic candidate can. If such is the fact then, of course the nomination should be made and present indications point very strongly that such it will be.

THE OPPORTUNITY.

The democracy of this city have not had a better opportunity in years to elect all or a large part of the ticket than is now presented them. There are scores upon scores of republicans who will this year vote with us if we put a good ticket in the field. They say, firstly, a change is needed and would be beneficial to all, secondly, men of the "Scott ring" have been carrying things entirely too much their own way and they desire to rebuke them in a way to let them know that they do not own the city; thirdly, they desire an investigation thoroughly of the books of the corporation for years back by persons who will actually investigate. Therefore they aver that they will this year vote with us if we put up a ticket of good men. This it stands us in hand to do both for our own success and in the interest of the tax payers. There is plenty of good timber in the party to select from for the offices of Mayor, Marshall and the other offices. Men who are taxpayers should always have preference. General speaking it is not good policy to choose as candidate for these offices of councilmen men who are exceedingly anxious to serve as such. Too often they have an ax to grind, and expect the tax-payers to turn the grind stone. But the opportunity is now given to us, the minority party in the city, to elect all or most of ticket if we act with prudence in the selection of candidates. Let it be done.

THE CAUSES THEREOF.

Mr. Byrd who aspired to the position of a candidate for Congress from this district on the democratic ticket in opposition to Brookshire seems to have been repudiated by his own county, Clay. The matter of his fitness was not called into question, but two things would appear to have operated against him, the first being the championing of him by John E. Lamb, and secondly the satisfaction Mr. Brookshire is giving as a Congressman ever since first being elected. Lamb may have influence in some of the wards of his town or among a few who loaf around hotels at Indianapolis, but in the 8th district the people are done with him permanently. The long and the short of it is they do not like him. Mr. Brookshire has indulged in no dress parade, cannot be found among a lot of congressional drunks, but is at his post, in sentiment with the voters who elected him on political questions and should and will be, we believe, re-nominated.

THE BLAND BILL EXTINGUISHED.

The Bland bill which favored the unlimited coinage of silver has met the fate expected of it, and it is probable that there will be no more free coinage discussions in the House during the present session of Congress. It was ascertained that there were 80 democratic representatives opposed to the bill, and although many representatives of both parties favored it, there was not enough to pass it. The coinage of silver will not probably be one of the leading issues of this year. The people are beginning to think it would do more harm than good, that it is good crops that will make business lively more than an abundance of silver at a much greater depreciation than now, that the safest men and best financiers look upon free coinage as a disastrous move, and one which will be regretted. Candidates for notoriety by introducing free coinage measures will hereafter find their occupations gone.

SENATOR JOHN PAIMER, of Illinois, announces that he is in no sense a candidate for the presidency, and further that he wants the country to understand that he is personally for Cleveland and is anxious to see him nominated. He says the logic of the situation points to Cleveland; that he is the strongest, biggest and best man in the party; that he presents an issue that no other man could, and to fail to nominate him would plunge the party into confusion. The senator believes that Cleveland's position has been unchanged from the first; that he would take the nomination if called but would not scramble for it. He believes that Cleveland will be nominated and elected. And to discourage any further use of his own name in connection with the nomination, Senator Palmer calls attention to the fact that his retirement from the United States senator would imperil a democratic seat in that body.

The railroads.
The express companies.
The telegraph companies.
The telephone companies.
The banks.
The Republican leaders (for political effect.)

These are the real kickers against a new tax law which increases the valuation of railroad property in Indiana 130 per cent. against an increase on farm lands of 44 per cent. Let em kick.

The democratic party always camps, in the march of progress, upon some ground previously occupied by the republican party.—Journal.

From the sound thrashing the republican party received in 1890 it would seem that many republicans had strayed away from the camp, and from the multitudes of the party that are at outs with the administration it would look like the camp was badly demoralized.

A Word Explanatory.

The Review disclaims all responsibility for the appearance of the name of the "Royal" in the list of baking powders inserted in this paper recently, the whole article being merely an advertisement from a competing baking powder company.

The statements in the article referred to, unfavorably reflecting upon the Royal Baking Powder, have been investigated and proven entirely untrue. A careful examination shows that the reports from which the quotations in said article are alleged to have been made, where they refer to the Royal Baking Powder or its constituents, class it as a cream of tartar powder, show it to be of superior purity, and wholesomeness, and the greatest in leavening strength of any baking powder tested.

Although it is unlikely that such statements incorporated in a paid advertisement could harm an article of such high reputation and well-known purity and excellence as the Royal Baking Powder, we make this explanation that our readers may understand the true character of the publication.
