THE A. P. A. IN POLITICS.

What need there has been for the creation of the American Protective Association in this country is apparent to no one aside from those perhaps who look upon it as an aid to political performance. Such organizations are dangerous to the institutions of the country. They would ostracize one class of citizens from enjoying many of the blessings of a free government. Where all are united in the support of the government, the A. P. A. tends to create factions, misrule, anarchy and riot.
The organization teaches that Catholics must not be favored with official positions. It matters not that Catholics in all the wars in which this country has been engaged have given their money, their blood and their lives for its maintenance, still they must not be intrusted with official positions. Rev. Wm.
E. Bartolett, the head of the parochial schools in Baltimore, and who stands nearer to Cardinal Gibbons than any other priest, is out with a reply to the American Protective Association. He says: "The present agitation against Catholics by prominent ministers of religion and by members of the American Protective Association is most deplorable and disedifying. No one in his sober senses could for a single moment sincerely believe that Catholics are trying to overthrow the public school system of our country. I, for one, and I speak, I am sure, for all Catholics, believe that the fundamental principle of the school system, that of affording a primary education for every child of school age in the United States, is a vital one for the Nation, and that we Catholics do not yield to any one in our allegiance to American principles.

That ministers of religion, whose mission it is to preach the doctrine of the grace of God's will, should persistently misunderstand us and endeavor to fan into flame the fast-dying embers of religious persecution, is a contradiction that I leave to their own conscience to understand. We are Americans as much as they are; we love our country and its institutions as much, if not better, than they do, and we should be the very first and the foremost in any movement to protect our public schools if they should be threatened or attacked."

Every line of this is true, and should satisfy any right thinking citizen that the intentions of the A. P. A. are wrong, and should have no encouragement whatever. There is no demand for such an organization in the country.

THE MESSAGE ON HAWAII.

The message of President Cleveland to Congress last week explained thoroughly the situation in Hawaii at Honolulu. It showed without question that a very few ambitious individuals by and with the consent of the American minister, aided by 160 sailors from a U.
S. ship, had deliberately overthrown the native government and forced the queen to abdicate. It is quite probable that the government was not run to suit them and there was money in it to them to have it changed. They had no more right to do the way they did than would a regiment of soldiers to invade Cuba or Canada and drive out the regular constituted authorities. The actions of these few people in forcing the queen to abdicate is entirely un-American, and will not have the approval of the American people. They seem to have gone on the principle that might makes right, and hoped that their actions would receive the approval of the world and that the islands would be annexed to the United States. Congress will probably pursue the policy of non-intervention and allow the government and the queen to work out their own salvation, but no U. S. sailors with war ships should be allowed to take a hand in the matter. It is simply not the business of this government, and it should keep its hands off.

WANTS THE PLACE AGAIN.

The signs pretty fairly indicate that Harrison will seek the nomination again for President by his party. He is on the move quite frequently now, and can be heard of here and there in different parts of the country. He, like the average republican, thirsts strongly for place and power, and his ambition is not easily satisfied. Last week he was in New York and Philadelphia, and early next year he goes out to California.
Nothing like keeping himself prominent.
He likes to be interviewed by some newspaper reporter, but is exceedingly cautious to say nothing that may likely be quoted against him hereafter. Smart Benny! At least smart to that extent.
Harrison was only an ordinary President. Any of the other leaders of his party could have filled the chair of chief executive as well as he. He could make a neat little speech about our "glorious flag," "protecting our infant industries" and such like drivel, and that is all there was in his administration. He found a treasury full of money, but left it nearly empty. At one time he proposed to send the U. S. navel fleet to whip the little one-horse country of Chili, and received a wonderful amount of slush from his party organs for his grand determination to uphold "our glorious old flag." He appointed a fool for Commissioner of Pensions, who, if he had been permitted to retain his office a year, would have bankrupted the government, and then succeeded him with a man who proved himself a first-class knave and rascal.
But Benny, we believe, has had his day.
McKinley and Reed are in the path to bother him. He managed to secure many determined enemies in his party, among them Quay, Clarkson, Platt, Farwell and numerous other influential republican leaders, and they will throw him the next time. He will not again secure the nomination.

BRIDGE CONSTRUCTION.

There seems to be entirely too much cost attached to bridge construction.
The iron bridge builders seem to all belong to a ring whose business is to force up prices, and the stone men in many instances seem to be governed to a considerable extent by ring rule. The "Jim" bridge, now nearly completed is an instance of costly construction. The tax payers will pay out nearly $11,000 by the time it is completed. In the hands of some one who knew just what he was doing, it could have been constructed for 15 per cent. below this sum or say $9,000. But there is entirely too much red tape in the whole business.
There must be a contractor, then a surveyor, then a superintendent, and then the commissioners, and how many more persons to look on the work, say what is good or bad, what should be accepted and what rejected, the Lord only knows.
If any man were putting up such a work for himself, is it to be supposed that it would cost any such sum of money? Not at all. The county would have saved money by doing away with so much red tape, bought the stone and hired men by the day to put up the work. Eleven thousand dollars is a good deal of money—too much in fact to have spent on the "Jim" bridge, or any other in the county for that matter.

If protection makes everybody rich, as the republicans claim, why should there be any suffering or destitution among the people? Crops have been bountiful. Flour and fowl are cheap.
After thirty years of protection, designed they say, to benefit labor, there are thousands of people, laboring people employed by protected industries, who are in need at the very beginning of winter.

If labor is helpless after thirty years of protection, who has received the benefits? Is Carnegie and his kind in want or destitution? Are the 30,000 men and women who own and control half the wealth of this land, in need of anything during the present panic?

Are the protected classes, whom the government has made rich by exempting from taxation, showing any great concern for the toilers whom they have thrown out of employment?

CONGRESS has adjourned until January 3d. Without any long-winded debates when it convenes a quick disposition should be made of the Wilson tariff reform bill. There is no need of a long continuous debate over it, as every member has, no doubt, already made up his mind just how he will vote. The democratic members have a sufficient majority to pass it in spite of any filli-bustering that may be attempted by the republicans, and they should not permit any long delay in the matter.
By Feb. 15th at least all arguments, pro and con, should have been heard, and the matter settled.

The secret society business in this country is being overdone, and is being run into the ground. Entirely too much time and money is spent by many men on the secret societies. Many men neglect their own pecuniary interests in dancing attendance at the secret society, and the money there spent would be better employed in attending the needs of their families. There are several men right here in Crawfordsville who belong to as many as three or four secret organizations. How some of them manage to pay their dues, attend regularly, and support their family in good style is a mystery.

The indictments against Haughy, the president of the defunct Indianapolis National bank, fill 592 closely written pages, and in it he is charged with many things relating to the management of the institution. But will he be convicted after all this is the question? He was pious, belonged to church, has sacramental ways, and is gray with the weight of many years. In spite of all this, however, he did wrong, hundreds have suffered and are suffering from his mismanagement and he deserves the punishment meted out to all embezzlers and bank wreckers.

The Indianapolis republican postmaster, Thompson, seems likely to be soon removed and a democrat put in his place as should have been done six months ago. The office is worth near $4,000 per year, and some democrat should have been receiving the income for months past. Just let the republicans elect their ticket in 1896, if such a disaster should overtake the country, and they will show you quickly how to bounce democrats from office.

REPUBLICAN professions of love for the ex-soldier is always measured by the probability of securing his vote for that party. The office of Commissioner of Pensions has generally been used by that party to simply strengthen it with the old soldier element. The question was not whether an individual was or was not entitled to a pension, but will he vote the republican ticket?

The republicans were sure of electing their Mayor in Chicago last week, and majorities ranging from ten to twenty thousand were freely predicted. They did not, however, and in spite of the extreme close times which are always against the party in power, Hopkins, the democratic candidate triumphed and Chicago will remain in democratic hands.

BON PIERCE, rather than be indicted and dogged by U. S. Marshals for his business relations with the defunct Indianapolis National Bank, walked up to the captain's office last week and paid out $68,000, which releases him completely in the matter. Pierce is not so rich as he was, but has much valuable experience through this bank trouble.

The people under the provisions of high tariff laws have for many years been compelled to pay a tax to wealthy manufacturers. Now what is safer for the goose should be equally palatable to the gander. An income tax as proposed by Congress to be paid by corporations would tend to equalize things very materially.

The new tariff measure is evidently based on sound principles, and has been framed with an honest purpose to afford relief to all who now labor under the burdensome exactions of the McKinley tariff. Under the Wilson tariff there will be an equalization of taxation, and not the upholding of one class or interests to the injury of others.

"Enclosed please find check for your bills of May 2d and 12th. I repeat the gratification I expressed before as to the convenience, the economy, and the real artistic beauty the National Lead Company's Pure White Lead Tinting Colors have proved to me in using them. It would seem as if the old way of trying to produce the desired shade of color by mixing many colors together with much labor and guess-work must be abandon-easy method. My painters wish to in-

Cure Yourself.

Don't pay large doctor's bills. The best medical book published, one hun-

Two famous Parisian prisoners will shortly cease to exist. They are the Roquette, near Pere Lachaise cemetery, and the Prison of Ste. Pelagie, with its so rowful souvenirs of the reign of terror. The government intends to build a large prison in their stead.

The best medical authorities say the proper way to treat catarrh is to take a constitutional remedy like Hood's Sarsaparilla.
