THE BIG FAIR.

A WEEK OF FAST HORSES, FINE STOCK AND FAMILY REUNIONS.

One of Biggest Thursday's in History of the Fair—Notes and Incidents.

The monotonous cry of the army of hawkers, the crowing of the proud game rooster and sharp cackle of the premium hen, the vociferous neighing of the big stallions and infantile whinny of the lost colts, the lowing of over-fed cattle, the bleating of prize sheep (and those that didn't get a prize) accompanied by the disgruntled grunt of the fat porkers from the adjacent pens—all these and other familiar sounds officially proclaim that the big fair is now drawing to a close. By reason of so many counter attractions the attendance has hardly been up to former years, yet these conditions render it all the more pleasant for those who do attend and exhibitors have fared better as the premiums will not be divided among so large a number as heretofore. Fair exhibits are to be seen in all departments. It is believed the proceeds have been sufficient to make the association come out even. More extended notice of the various departments is contained in the notes that follow.

NOTES.

The poultry show was all right.

D. G. Legg, of Tipton, was expert judge on cattle.

Mr. Lehman was starter for the races again this year.

The water supply was as refreshing and plentiful as ever.

W. A. May, of Sharpsville, was expert judge in the swine department.

Mrs. Schleidler and Mrs. Beeson, of Indianapolis, were the judges in the floral hall.

Allen Robinson carried off the largest string of ribbons in the vegetable display.

The special police landed a man on Wednesday for selling liquor on the grounds.

W. D. Cox's cages of mice in the pyramid at the large fountain attract much attention.

The art display of Mrs. Julian, of Indianapolis, was an interesting feature in the floral hall.

The ribbons in the sheep pens were tied on by expert judge, J. K. Tomlinson, of Fairland.

There were eight herds of sheep on exhibition and the show was an unusually good one.

Lee Fork, of Knightstown, performed the difficult task of naming the ribbons in the horse department.

The fat tailed African sheep were there. They were exhibited by a sheep grower from Putnam county.

The Yount's woolen mills make an elegant display of blankets, worsted goods, yarns, etc., in floral hall.

McClure & Graham made a rich display in carpets, portiers, lace curtains and the like in their old space in floral hall.

The mammoth buggy tent of D. J. Woodward and Mort Beckner adjoining Mechanic's hall contained a rich and costly display. Their colored glee club was the envy of all side shows on the ground.

H. R. Tinsley & Co., and Cohoon & Fisher have neat and elegant displays in their respective lines in mechanic's hall. The former was under the supervision of Monsieur Grant Gould and the latter of handsome Howard Griffith.

Kostanzer's Sons occupied their old space in floral hall with a rich collection of parlor pieces, couches, carpets, etc.

An exquisite couch, combination book case and secretary and a handsomely finished extension table, three pieces in their fine display was sold before the fair was half over.

At their double store rooms on south Washington street may be seen a grand display at all times. Their leaders are furniture, carpets and stoves, and the stock is large and complete.

The track was so heavy on Wednesday that the races were uneventful.

However, the program was carried out, which consisted of a 3:00 trot, purse $170; the 2:50 pace, purse, $150; and the half mile and repeat run, purse $50. Joe Glasscock's Little Giff won the trot in three straight heats, with Julius Caesar a close second. The best time was 2:55. In the 2:50 pace there were 7 starters. Elijah Clore's Dan S. took the race in three heats. Roe

Byrd's D. M. B. got second money. Best time 2:44. The running race was won by Racelet, owned by J. R. Rankin, of Elmdale.

A high attainment in realism was reached in the quaint log cabin of Zack Mahorney & Sons, to be seen in the annex to floral hall. The wide fire place with the strings of dried apples and pumpkin hanging near, the wild skins on the wall, the tallow candlesticks and the old spinning wheel presided over by Mrs. Sarah Dunbar, all suggested the plain and comely living of earlier days. Just adjoining, and in striking contrast, were the modern and wealthy furnishings of a suite of rooms by Louis Bischof.

"Tis music that charms and soothes the throbbing multitude. Floral hall has been full of it all week. Over in the north wing of the hall the D. H. Baldwin & Co., under the able management of Geo. F. Hughes, occupy their old space with a rich display in pianos. Excellent performers have been at the service of the throng of visitors to render selections. The D. H. Baldwin & Co., now have three large factories—two at Cincinnati and one at Chicago. At Cincinnati are manufactured the Decker Bros., Haines Bros., Fischer & Ellington pianos and at Chicago the Estey and Hamilton organs. The concern has a large capital stock and has an equipment for business in their line that leaves little to be desired. Mr. Hughes, the home manager, can therefore offer a thoroughly reliable instruments at a low price with a guarantee to give perfect satisfaction. Visitors are always welcome at the music rooms on south Washington street.

Thursday's Races.

The track was in excellent condition and barring the sad accident to Gee Grimes, the races full of interest. Que Allen lowered the track record two seconds in the 2:28 trot, without a skip or aobble.

In the free-for-all pace there were four starters. Forest Wilkes took first money; Red Belle, second; Minnie R., third. Guerita was withdrawn after the accident. Time: 2:47 1/4, 2:35 1/4, 2:18 1/4. Purse, $500.

For the 2:28 trot four horses scored. Que Allen took first place in three straight heats. Little Billy second, Kafir third and Zulu Girl fourth. Time: 2:28, 2:30, 2:21 1/4. Purse, $300.

There were four fliers in the mile and repeat run. San Francisco, owned by our own Bob Goben, took first money, Ora Audrian second, McGoodrich third, War Whoop fourth. Time: 1:47, 1:51. Purse, $150.

Fell in the Creek To Die.

On Tuesday afternoon Mattew Scott, of Waynetown, was fishing in Coal Creek that runs along the north side of the town. About 5 o'clock he was presumably struck by asphyxial and fell in the creek. Alex McClure was soon attracted to the scene by the splashing of water, to find the old gentleman submerged up to his neck and struggling as if in great agony. He was immediately removed to his home, but up to the time of his death, which occurred at 4 o'clock the next morning never regained consciousness sufficient to make his ailment known. Mr. Scott was 80 years of age and a Mexican pensioner. He leaves a wife and several grown up children.

Gee Grimes Badly Hurt.

In the second heat of the free-for-all pace on Thursday afternoon, Gee Grimes, driver of Guerita, was badly hurt. Just before the wire was reached in the last round Guerita fell and Mr. Grimes was hurled headlong and landed by the side of his horse. Minnie R. was right behind and went over the sulky, receiving injuries about the fore legs. She went in the next heat, however. Mr. Grimes sustained a severe concussion of the spine and may not recover. He was removed to the home of his father on west Wabash avenue. He is conscious. It was a narrow escape from breaking his neck. He made a short turn with his horse to get the pole from Minnie R.

Ed Holloway.

Ed Holloway, in jail charged with wrecking a Big Four train by throwing the switch at Fontenay on the morning of July 13th, was allowed $100 by Judge Taylor to defray the expense of his defense. Holloway, through his attorneys, Sant C. Davis and Sam R. Hamill petitioned the court as a pauper, claiming that he had no money, neither had he relatives who could aid him in his defense against the State and the attorneys employed by the Big Four railroad company.—T.
