DEFEAT FOR HILL.

At this distance it looks that defeat would certainly overtake Senator Hill in his candidacy for Governor of New York. Politics assumes many shapes in that State. There are many good, and a large number of bad men in control of both parties in New York. Speaking of Hill alone we believe it to be better for the party in that State and out of it that he be defeated. He may be smart, he may have brains, but he represents some of the worst elements that ever cursed any political party—Tammany for instance—a secret organization for years running the politics of New York City, and having among its leaders some of the worst unhung scoundrels that has ever existed. What do honest, well-meaning democrats care one copper how soon such an organization is defeated and wiped from the earth. Do decent democrats any where countenance such an element as Tammany?
We believe not. It has too often dictated who should be the democratic nominees for President and Vice-President and then cowardly like failed to give them its cordial support. Why should we desire the continuation of such a corrupt scheming people? Better go down in honorable defeat than have such a crowd dictate the policy or principles of the democratic party. What Tammany is and has been is best shown by the investigations of a committee of the best people of New York City which has been going on for a month or more.
The decent people of all parties are interested in seeking to defeat Tammany.
And they will do it next Tuesday, and Hill will go down with it in the general tumble to occur. A man whose mission seems to be to defeat every measure of this administration, the same as a republican Senator would do, has surely no sympathy of the democracy. Hill has seemed, during his career as Senator, to aim to oppose anything favored by most other democrats. He is a Tammanyite, and that is enough with all decent democrats. The sooner he is set down upon, kicked out and rolled away the better for the party in New York and elsewhere. He is a stumbling block to its progress, and should be effectually quelled next Tuesday as the signs indicate he will be.

IRON HALL FEES.

The Iron Hall, a sort of mutual insurance and banking concern, flourished like a green bay tree up to three years ago at Indianapolis. It was run in the interest of sharpers whose business it would seem was to get as much money as possible from the poor and middle classes of the people giving them as little in return as they could. It went up the flame, several of the officers disappeared, and the gudgeons were left to reflect on the meanness of mankind in general. A receiver was appointed and he has been acting as such since. He made a report the other day. He paid out $35,000 to attorneys alone, and his bill as receiver will amount to many thousands more, but just what the many thousands who invested their money in it, and will lose much of it will get, is not yet known. The "Iron Hall" was no worse swindle perhaps than scores of other concerns all over the country whose rotten foundations have not as yet been exposed to the light of day, but which will in time be made known and which will leave many verdent stockholders to mourn.

Don't scratch your ticket, democrats, but support each and every one of the nominees of the party.

THE COLORED VOTERS.

J. M. Turner, of Missouri, a colored man of prominence, and a U. S. Minister to Liberia during the administration of President Grant, in speaking of the position of the colored voter in the hands of the republican party, said the other day:

"The colored man in the hands of the republican party is like a man under water struggling in the grasp of an octopus. Every time you cut off one arm of the devil-fish you are seized by two or three others."

It is somewhat remarkable that during the thirty years the colored men of the country have exercised the right of suffrage they have to so great an extent failed to comprehend the animus of republican party leaders toward them.
Original abolitionists were true to their faith and words, and were willing and anxious that all colored men should enjoy every privilege that they themselves enjoyed, while the republican party on the other hand favored this only to the extent that the colored man vote the republican ticket. Aside from this the republicans had no further use for them and had no interest in their welfare whatever, and have been careful to see that he enjoyed no office of trust or profit aside from what party policy might dictate. Regardless of fitness the party does not propose now or hereafter to give any colored man high official position. It never has to any extent. When the colored voters learn, as learn they must, that they are wanted solely for their votes then they will begin to act intelligently and independently. Until that time, however, they must remain as described in the above extract, in the arms of an octopus struggling vainly to be released.

THE LAST CALL.

The campaign in Indiana for 1894, so far as argument and speeches are concerned, virtually closes to-day. The issues have been clearly defined and it only remains now for the voters of the country to show by their ballots their desire what doctrines, what principles, what party shall prevail during the ensuing two years. We leave aside for the time national issues and refer to those relating to the State alone.
Where is a State in the Union that has been better managed, or had more wholesome and beneficial laws enacted for its benefit than Indiana during the past ten years? We know of none.
Take the tax law, the election law, the school book law and many others, and where is any State with a better record?
Who and what party should have the credit for this? Without question the democratic. All these laws were created by democratic legislatures. Such being the case the party is surely worthy of further approval and continuance in official position. It has merited in Indiana the commendation "Well done, good and faithful servant," and should be continued in good work. Remember by your votes next Tuesday that you will indicate your approval of the democratic measures heretofore prevailing in Indiana. If you favor these late laws and their enforcement, then vote for the party that created them. Vote the democratic State ticket next Tuesday.

HOW TO VOTE.

Next Tuesday will be election day.
You have probably determined how you intend to vote, but if you do not want your ballot thrown out you must be careful to mark it according to the legal requirements.

To vote a straight ticket, stamp once and once only within the square surrounding the emblem at the head of the ticket you wish to vote.

If you wish to vote a mixed ticket, stamp within the square before the name of each candidate for whom you wish to vote, but do not stamp within the square surrounding the emblem at the head of the ticket.

Fold your ballot so that the initials of the poll clerks, written on the back, will be exposed.

Be careful to use a blotter on your ticket after you have used the stamp, so that it will not "blur" or "smut." Any additional marks on your ballot may cause it to be thrown out.

If you are not sure you know how to stamp your ballot you have the right to ask for instructions from the election board.

There will be three ballots this year:
The State on one sheet printed on red paper; Congressional and county on another printed on white paper; township on another printed on yellow paper.
They must be folded separately.

From the energy displayed by colored republicans in Indianapolis in mobbing one of their own race who differed from them politically it is evident they have been apt scholars under the leadership of the lawless republican element that has always abounded in that city.
During the war and for years after mobs led by republicans during political strifes were numerous in that city.
The business has just simply been transferred from the white to the black element, but it is all republican.

Hon. J. A. Mount, of Montgomery county, Ind., shows his confidence in the coming restoration of values in the flocks. He has bred 90 high grade ewes which, with his usual good management, will add considerably over a hundred head to his flock next spring—Indiana Farmer.

DEMOCRATIC STATE TICKET.

"Indiana democrats," says the Evansville Courier, "point to an unbroken record of pledges fulfilled in the past as the best reason for asking that the people will give them an opportunity to carry out the pledges the party has made in its platform during the present campaign. These pledges are all in the interest of the plain people. They are:

The upholding and continuance of all the wise laws which the democratic party has placed on the statute books.
Vigorous warfare against the false and pernicious principles of tariff protection.

Steadfast opposition to monopoly and corporation rule, to trusts and combines.
Continued advocacy of the principle of electing United States Senators by popular vote.

Support to the proposed constitutional amendment requiring Congress to meet immediately after its election.

Undying hostility to every movement that, like the American Protective Association, would deny any privilege of citizenship to any person because of his religious belief.

The absolute maintenance of law and order at all times.

Unwavering fidelity to the interests of the workingman, whose steadfast champion it has ever been.

Advocacy of laws to keep out vicious and pauper immigrants and to prevent the importation of alien contract labor.

A system of arbitration for the settlement of wage disputes between capital and labor.

The three candidates for the republican nomination for President, McKinley, Reed and Harrison, are all hard at work with the object in view, although Harrison has confined most of his labors to Indiana. At this time it would be difficult to say just which one had the inside track. Allison, of Iowa, another candidate, is more modest and has not hippodromed it all over the country as the others have done. It may be that his modesty will hold him well in hand, and that his party will recognize brains more than brass when the time comes for the election. Allison is probably as well equipped and better than most of them for the nomination.

The necessity of a full party vote being polled in the county is apparent to all. This county is very evenly divided politically, yet whenever the democracy polled a full vote most of the ticket has been elected. Come out then, democrats. Allow nothing to keep you from the polls. You can elect an entire democratic ticket if you will.

REMEMBER the contest next Tuesday is being fought on one hand, and the muscle, labor and future prosperity of the country on the other, and that democrats by their votes will sustain the latter.

EARNEST, determined work will elect each and every man nominated on the democratic ticket. Therefore give your share of labor in behalf of them and the party whose principles you sustain.

No democrat should allow his personal feelings toward any candidate to overcome his fealty to party, but vote an unscratched ticket.

Read the names of all candidates on the State and county tickets of the democracy and then vote for each and every one of them.

Let every democrat turn out to the polls next Tuesday. Let nothing keep you away. The country needs your vote.

Stamp the rooster only and let the remainder of the ticket go unstamped.

Vote early and remain at the polls to work for the ticket.

Stamp the rooster.

$100 Reward, $100.

The reader of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one drugged disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages, and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires a constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly on the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative pow-
