LOCAL FIRE INSURANCE.

The arbitrary actions of fire insurance companies within the past few years in the raising of rates for carrying insurance to 50 per cent increase and also to their dictatorial manner of adjusting and paying of losses, has created much feeling against such institutions and the necessity of forming local or home insurance companies is being considered. The eastern companies present a vast array of figures to show that they have made no money but have lost during the past dozen years or so, and give this as their grounds for doubling the rates for carrying losses. No one outside the companies knows anything about the reliability of these statements, nor in what manner the figures may have been juggled for convenience. Few or none who suffer loss by fire know just what they are to receive for the damage sustained. A smooth tongued individual known as the adjuster, appears soon after a fire has occurred, looks over the situation and arbitrarily tells just what the company will give in cash for the loss sustained by fire, and the insured can accept it or not. The insured anxious to resume business, or again have a house, as the case may be, will most times accept, although often not receiving one-third or a half of the amount for loss that he had been led to believe he would. These things have created in many localities a united outspoken feeling against outside insurance companies, and a belief that home insurance companies managed on strict business principles and created only for the benefit of those insuring with them, and not for the purpose of enriching anybody, are wants long felt and needed. As it is outside insurance companies have things entirely too much their own way. There should be laws more stringent regulating them regarding the payment of losses, or a more correct understanding of just what an insured individual is to be paid for loss sustained. If they can compel patrons to pay 50 per cent increase for insurance, why cannot laws be enacted compelling them to pay an additional amount over the insurance to the individual who loses. We believe local insurance companies in every Congressional district of the State affording cheaper insurance to its patrons, and conducted on strict business principles will eventually be incorporated and put under way. The old companies are gradually driving the people into such action.

A WELL SUCKED ORANGE

It is stated that Langsdale, one of the managers of the Soldiers' and Sailors' monument at Indianapolis, has drawn in salaries from the state treasury the sum of near $12,000, during the past six years. What the rest of the decayed politicians have received is not stated, but no doubt they have all been well paid, much more than they should. The monument is a well sucked orange for political leeches of the state, and will continue to be. It is not near complete yet according to the program laid out and it will be years yet before these politicians let go their hold unless some honest men can be elected to the legislature who will pass a law preventing further appropriations for that purpose. The monument has become a political machine, as it were, to be worked in the interest of partisans. The sentimental part of it is of secondary consideration. The new law abolishes the monument commissioners and establishes a "board of regents," but under whatever name it will always be observed that they are office holders or political aspirants who expect and intend to get money out of their position from some source or other. Non partisans or people who have the interest of the public at heart rarely are called to occupy such positions.

M'KINLEY VS. SILVER.

The coaches of Governor McKinley, of Ohio, who are grooming him for the presidential race of 1896, are very much alarmed over a reported assertion of his a few weeks ago, that he desired no silver plunk on the platform upon which he should stand. He and all other candidates of every party next year so far as the west and south are concerned must stand in favor of silver, of bimetallism, and if not their chances for election will be very slim. Millions of voters of the west and south see too plainly the interest and operations of the gold monopolists from year to year, of the alarming strides taken by Wall street in the affairs of this government to the injury of the masses, and are determined to counteract it if possible. If silver was the equal of gold before the war there is no reason that it should not be now and the masses are determined that it shall be. If McKinley represents the gold interests he would do well to decline the nomination before it is offered him.

A SYSTEM OF SEWERAGE.

The Journal has had occasion frequently in the recent past to call the attention of the city council to the great and crying necessity for a system of sewerage for our beautiful and conservatively growing town. There is no improvement more loudly demanded than a system of sanitary drainage.—Journal: Yes, your intense interest in the matter is real pathetic, and we might add somewhat suspicious from the frequency with which you urge the city to adopt a system of sewerage. Nobody sees any necessity for a special hurry in the matter. Crawfordsville is just as healthy a city now, and has been for years as many of those cities having costly sewerage appurtenances. While the Journal is so zealous in the matter it would be nothing but fair to give the probable true cost of sewerage to the owners of property or the city, or whoever would have to pay for its construction. Let the public know all about this subject pro and con. The Journal, we believe, urged the city to construct and operate its own electric light plant. It did so, and the city ever since has had to carry a debt of from $50,000 to $75,000, paying a high rate of interest for money borrowed, and all, or in part, resulting from the Journal's advice in the matter. It would have been much better from a financial standpoint for the city to have had no ownership in light works. When the city gets to a point where her debt amounts to but little, it may do to talk and urge sewerage upon the tax payers, but at present it may be safely asserted that a majority would oppose it spite of the Journal's opinion to the contrary.

DENOUNCED LANGSDALE.

The State encampment of the G. A. R., in session at Muncie a few days ago, took occasion in a series of resolutions to denounce Langsdale as chairman of the Soldiers' Monument commission, and request that he be not appointed as a member of the new board of regents to continue its construction. It seems that the G. A. R. don't like Langsdale and that is about all there is in it. His efficiency in the work has not been questioned. He was a soldier too in the late war, but the G. A. R. don't like him and says so. The G. A. R. seems to labor under a misapprehension. The monument does not belong to it, in fact the amount contributed by it will not amount to one-sixteenth of its cost. Because its erection is to commemorate gallant deeds by gallant men is not of itself proof of ownership. The State of Indiana has contributed over $300,000 in its building, the G. A. R. something over $20,000. If the State is satisfied with Langsdale he should remain, and the opposition show more modesty by keeping quiet.

A MINISTER at Indianapolis who attended the lecture of Bob Ingersoll on the "Bible" in that city a few days ago, has been roundly abused by some members of his congregation for so doing. This looks unfair and decidedly puritanical in this acting. A minister may be better able to properly denounce the fallacies of infidels by listening to their arguments if they have any to offer in opposition to the Bible. The religious community greatly applauded the work of Rev. Parkhurst, in New York city, in visiting the slums and dead falls of that place, because he could, they assert, more thoroughly denounce the law, laws and corruption of the officials, and expose the wickedness of the people by an investigation and witness of them. The same with the preacher who heard Ingersoll. He did no wrong in attending, and is better fitted to combat infidelity by learning its doctrines from one of its chief oracles.

A article headed "Big Blunder," the other day, in a dispatch from Indianapolis to the Cincinnati Enquirer, said:

"A defect was discovered today in the fee and salary act which is exciting considerable apprehension. Under it a man takes provision in section 126, it is first made obligatory upon the Auditor, Treasurer, Clerk, Sheriff and Recorder to collect fees sufficient to offset the salary before they will be entitled to the full compensation as stated under the law. In other words, if the fees fail in the aggregate to equal the salary, the deficiency cannot otherwise be supplied."

It is a remarkable fact that "Big Blunders" in favor of the people are so rarely found out, but if in favor of some blood sucker and raider of the treasury they are very soon discovered.

100 POUNDS NAILS FOR $1.00.

A hardware store in town had a sign out for several days last week bearing the above words. It may that the nail makers have suffered greatly through the reduction in iron, but the poor man who desires to build can come nearer doing it now than before for many years. Lumber also is much lower than a few years ago.

MAY NOT BE UNDERSTOOD.

Concerning Section 2 of the new Indianapolis law, the Indianapolis Journal apprehends there may be a difference of opinion as to the construction of the law and the courts may have to pass on the same. It says: "This section does not interfere with the sale of cigars and tobacco in saloons nor require any special license therefor, while it leaves it optional with county commissioners to grant or refuse permission to carry on any other business in the same room, it is explicit, however, that no devices for amusement or music of any kind or character shall be permitted in such rooms. Under these provisions the question may arise whether billiard and pool tables are to be classed as a business or devices for amusement. If the former they may by special license be permitted in connection with saloons, but if they are devices for amusement they cannot be. There is a chance for some fine judicial hair splitting."

CUBA.

The Island of Cuba is just now attracting more than the usual amount of attention. The natives of the island, which belongs to Spain, desire to be freed from the domination of that country, and under some native leaders are doing some fighting worthy of a people desiring to be free. Spain will have over 15,000 armed soldiers on the island within the next few days. It may be that this country will be drawn into the trouble or will be called in to assist in adjusting the troubles. Really the United States should possess this Island, and instead of fooling time and spending money on the distant country of Hawaii, and aiming as the intention of some to have it annexed to this country, much better would it be to seek the annexation of Cuba.

The Nebraska legislature passed a law providing that a bounty be paid for raising sugar. As that state has become almost a pauper on the entire country for charity it would be better that they let the sugar question alone until they have supplied themselves with bread and meat.
