DON'T STOP TOBACCO.

How to Cure Yourself While Using It

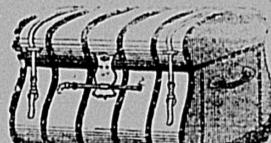

The tobacco habit grows on a man until his nervous system is thoroughly affected, impairing health, mind and body. To make matters worse, it is too severe a shock to the system, as tobacco to an inveterate user becomes a stimulant that his system continually craves. "Baco-Curo" is a scientific cure for the tobacco habit, a little known fact, and a well-kept secret. Formula of an eminent Berlin physician who has used it in his practice since 1872, without a failure. It is purely vegetable and guaranteed perfectly harmless. You can use all the tobacco you want while taking "Baco-Curo." It will not only stop the use of tobacco, but will also cure you of any disease or ailment that you may have. It can be carried in vest pocket. By mail $1.00 per package, or six for $5.00, with a positive written guarantee to cure or refund the money. Circular Laws. Address ROYAL MEDICINE CO., 27 Wabash Ave., CHICAGO, ILL.

CLAYTON, N.Y., Ark., Jan. 22, 1895. Eureka Chemical and Manufacturing Co., La Crosse, Wis.—Gentlemen: For forty years I used tobacco in all its forms. For twenty-five years I was a great consumer, from general debility and general illness. For ten years I tried to quit, but couldn't. I took various remedies, among others "No-To-Bac," "The Indian Tobacco Antidote," "Double Chlorophyll," "Baco-Curo," and "Baco-Curo" did me the least bit of good. Finally, however, I purchased a box of your "Baco-Curo" and it has entirely cured me of the habit in all its forms, and I have increased thirty pounds in weight and feel well, with no nervous aches and pains of body and mind. I could write a quire of paper upon my changed feelings and condition. Yours respectfully, P. H. MARSH.

AN ILLEGAL MARRIAGE

Leads to an Attempt at Suicide by a Woman.

One of those illegal and disgusting ceremonies of a marriage by cousins about three weeks ago, was the cause of an attempt at suicide by the woman on Saturday last on south Washington street near the public pump. John Bowen, living near Bowers, is a cousin of Miss Laura Sikes, residing four miles west of Yountsville. Laura went visiting to her cousin's home about a month ago, fell in love with him, and after a short courtship they were married, a neighbor of Bowen's, John Flanagan, accompanying him to the clerk's office and doing the necessary amount of journey work to aid him in securing a marriage license. The Sikes family soon learned of it, and the storm cloud at once assumed a very dark appearance. The family at once proposed to make it known for Bowen and they did. Lee Segant, a relative, appeared in a few days and made an affidavit for the arrest of Bowen. Constable Hierney went to Bowen Saturday, arrested Bowen and brought him to town, his wife accompanying them. The trial took place before Squire Stilwell. Sikes and family were present. Bowen sought bonds to secure $200, so that he might be free until trial before Circuit Court, but failed and was taken to jail. The girl, Mrs. Laura, in the meantime got into a wrangle with her parents over the affair. She soon after went down stairs, accompanied by her father. In the buggy, under a cushion seat, in which she had ridden to town, she had hidden a revolver. This she drew forth and at once sought to take her life and end all further worldly troubles. Her father, divining her intentions, at once seized her hand, but not the one containing the revolver. In the scuffle she fired the revolver at her breast, but missed, the ball entering her left arm and passing on through the shirt worn by her father, but luckily doing neither of the parties any great harm. An immense crowd was in a minute or two drawn to the scene. After considerable coaxing, quarreling and lamentation, the girl finally accompanied her parents home, while Bowen, in his cell, meditates on what might have been.

La Pearl's New Show.

Mr. J. H. La Pearl opened the tenting season for his show at Danville on Saturday last. Those who have watched the career of La Pearl for three or four years past in the show business will be surprised at the continued improvement and increased size of his circus this year over that of former seasons. From three cars of three years ago the increased size now requires seven to transport it. He has now thirty-six head of horses and ponies, and twelve large, strongly built wagons. Instead of forty-five to fifty people the number is increased to 145 at this time. The seating capacity is about 3,000, and his tent, a fine, large, new one is about 300 feet in length. Everything indicates continued growth and increased business. The entertainment given to patrons this year is much ahead of anything heretofore seen under his canvas. The riding, tumbling, trapeze and contortion work is certainly very good, while the band under Vanderhook is particularly fine, in fact as good music almost as it is possible to hear. The show gives a very neat street parade. The prices are the same as last year. The show will exhibit here on the 11th of May.

The Old Troubles Revived.

Crawford's road, the C. & S. which runs through Ladoga and Waveland to Brazil, is having its semi-monthly trouble with its employees regarding payments due them, as the following special from Anderson indicates:

"The Chicago & Southeastern, the old Indiana Midland, is in the hands of its employees again and trains are being held at this end of the line. Saturday the mail was the only one to go out, and the indications are that even it will be brought to a standstill this week. The road has been grievously behind in paying wages and some of the men claim that they are creditors to the amount of five and six months' wages. They have been compelled to dispose of their due bills to curbstone brokers at a great discount, grocerymen and other dealers finding it impossible to carry the men longer. The local credit of the road has become so poor that it is impossible for the men to realize much on the orders. During the past week the men at this end have been inaugurating a strike all along the line."

Will Visit Wolf Creek.

The jury that tried the Kellers expressed a desire at the time to visit the scenes and view the picturesque country of which they heard so much, and they separated decided that early in the spring they would make a trip to Wolf Creek Falls with Ira Kiser, court bailiff, and representatives of the press as escorts. This week we received a letter from Mr. Kiser inquiring how they could most easily reach the place and that they would make the visit within the next three weeks.—Veedersburg News.

FIGHTS HIS RESCUER.

After Being Shut Up for Five Days a Cat Becomes Fierce and Is Killed.

The family of Jacob Draudt, a grocer at Jackson and Madison streets, has been in a state of mind because of strange sounds, like the wail of a catamount, which have been issuing from their cellar for the last two or three days, says the Courier-Journal. The family was considerably inconvenienced, as well as intimidated. The case was laid before a police officer, who listened attentively to the sounds that came from within the cellar. They came from a part of the cellar which could only be reached through a narrow opening in the sidewalk; the man who went after him took his life in his hands. Officer Prather considered it his duty as a duly sworn officer to keep the public peace to go in after the disturber; so, armed with a hatchet, he began to grop his way through the narrow, dark opening. He had been gone but a few seconds when a wild scream came out of the pavement. Following this was a yell of pain from the officer. The crowd attracted to the scene was thrown into spasms. Some were for sending for a rescuing party, but all appeared to be more disposed to stand by and listen. Then a yell of triumph from the dark recesses reassured the group and two or three tried bravely to crowd into the opening. Following this appeared the form of a black cat, spitting and clawing, but clutched firmly in a bleeding hand belonging to Officer Prather, whose smutty and scratched face was not long in showing out of the darkness. The black cat was the property of Mr. Draudt. It had been in the cellar for five days without food or water and was furious. When the officer dropped the cat to the ground it flew at him fiercely and buried its deep claws in his uniform over his breast. He struck the crazed animal one blow with the hatchet and put out what was left of its nine lives.

AMBASSADORS IN LONDON.

Extraordinary Privileges They Have Against Laws and Customs.

The foreign ambassadors accredited to the court of St. James are, as in fact the law looks upon them, little kings, being privileged beyond any subject in the realm, says Cassell's Journal. The law of nations has decided that the ambassador, like the royal sovereign, is above the law, a statement which implies that he may do just as he likes. It is certain that he may commit murder and not be liable to arrest by the myrmidons of New Scotland Yard; he may be guilty of robbery with violence, and no judge can threaten him with imprisonment or "the cat"; he may forge, rob banks and even seriously assault the prime minister, and yet go quietly home to dinner without the least fear of being served with a police-court summons on the following morning. He can do more than this—he may actually endeavor to dethrone the queen, as did Mendoza, the Spanish ambassador, in Elizabeth's reign, or plot to take her life, as did L'Aubespine, the French ambassador, in 1584, and yet not suffer the penalties of the law, for, though the arm of the law can take hold of most wrongdoers, the ambassador is an exception. It may be asked what can be done to an ambassador who, for instance, commits murder or treason? Has the state no remedy? All that the state can do in such cases is to oppose force to force, expel the offending minister from the country and make a representation to the ambassador's sovereign, requesting him to punish him for his behavior. In the event of the sovereign ignoring the request this would probably be a cause of war between the two nations.

Died a Misspelled Word Cause War?

An ingenious explanation of the action of Dr. Jameson is given by the London correspondent of the Birmingham Gazette. According to this Jameson with his men, were waiting for some word from Johannesburg. It came in a telegram worded thus: "Revolution carried, in compliance with your desire." That was the telegram received. The telegram actually sent from the Johannesburg committee was, "Resolution carried in compliance with your desire." That "v" instead of "s" made all the difference. Jameson made his plunge into the enemy's country, expecting to find the settlers in arms waiting for his coming. Instead he found only great masses of armed Boers barring his way. The Boers were fully prepared and expected his coming. This raises the curious suggestion, had they anything to do with altering the telegram? Was it a trap for the English raiders to draw them on in order to justify the quaint vulgarism of Kruger that when the tortoise put out its head they would cut it off.

BIG Poultry Ranch.

Some hopeful speculators who have been counting unhatched chickens are about to start a poultry ranch near San Francisco which is to be the largest in the world. It is to reach its full capacity in three years, when it is to put on the market annually two million eggs and ninety thousand chickens for broiling. The plant will include two incubators, with a capacity of 2,000 eggs each, and no end of houses and pens, which will be contained in a forty-acre ranch. There will be nine hundred hens laying for the incubators and ten thousand laying for the market.

A Queer Collegiate Question.

Odds against horses were set forth, and candidates asked how they could win a certain amount in any event, in a problem of a recent London University paper. The religious newspapers have protested against the question, as improper.

CHEADLE, OF FRANKFORT,

Will Probably Run as an Independent Candidate for Congress.

A correspondent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, speaks of the probable independent candidacy of Cheadle for Congress as follows:

The silver republicans of this district the Ninth, do not like what was done at the Crawfordsville convention in regard to the money question. They are expressing themselves freely and have the assistance of the democrats in urging a bolt on the congressional nomination. The populists, too, led by John B. Ayers, a rich farmer and former republican, is taking part in the talk, all of which tends to the nomination of a silver man as an independent candidate for congress.

The man who is expected to get the support of free silverites, republicans, democrats, populists and prohibitionists, is ex-congressman Joseph B. Cheadle. The gold republicans gave been crowding Cheadle closely on account of his silver views. As he is one who never loses confidence in himself, something of recent years was always bound to happen in republican gatherings, state, district or county, whenever Cheadle appeared in behalf of the white metal, and what generally happened was his defeat by the supporters of gold. Cheadle has become weary of such treatment, and, while he did not actively participate in the Crawfordsville convention, the money resolution was the last straw, and he is willing to run for Congress independently. He was a candidate for delegate at large to the St. Louis convention, but a day or two ago he announced that he would not go before the State convention for that honor. He has with him in his new movement for Congress such men as Colonel Clark and Colonel Colby, of Frankfort, the latter Harrison's ex-postmaster there. They are among the most substantial and influential men in Clinton county.

Cheadle's nomination, they say, will lead to other independent Congressional selections throughout the State.

Republican Primary Election.

The republicans held their primary election on Saturday last for the selection of delegates to the county nominating convention to be held next Saturday. The day being fair there was quite an extensive outpouring of the faithful. The county ring got in its work in some places, and in others there was a complete failure to make the machine work, and many republicans are uttering very ugly maledictions against it. The following are the delegates chosen from Union township, and which township also furnishes two-thirds of the candidates:

Precinct 1—Charles Myers, Geo W. Hutton, J. W. Krause, Asa Pickrel. Each delegate selects his own alternate.
