

One Lost Day
is not much out of a lifetime, but to a business man it may mean the loss of a valuable opportunity. When temporarily crippled with any pain or weakness, for which an active and effective external remedy is needed, nothing is so trustworthy as Johnson's Belladonna Plaster. It touches the spot and gives the welcome relief. It is made to succeed—not merely to sell. Look for the Red Cross on all the genuine.

TOO MUCH MARRIED,
Was Albert Voris, and in Consequence the Court Cut Short for a Time any Further Matrimonial Intentions.
Albert Voris, son of Geo. W. Voris, has lately been getting himself into trouble through the mistake of having two wives from neither of which he was divorced. Many years ago he resided with his parents in this county, living north-west of town on the Covington road. He was married some ten or twelve years ago to a lady at Cincinnati, or at least near that city, and who is yet living. Leaving home some time after he went to Illinois. Shortly after the Haymarket riot he was appointed on the police force of Chicago. For the last two years he has been located in Chicago engaged in soliciting orders for Tom Maxedon's shipping bill business. In June of 1895 without the formality of a divorce from his first wife he married a lady of Danville, Illinois. Somebody got onto his first lesson in bigamy, and reported it. He was arrested at Chicago a few weeks ago, tried and convicted. Last week he was sentenced, as we are informed, to a year's confinement in the penitentiary, but for some reason the sentence was temporarily suspended and he has not yet been placed behind the prison walls.

JOHN H. BEADLE,
The Well Known Newspaper Writer and Author Dies at Rockville.
John H. Beadle, a well-known newspaper writer and author, died at Rockville last week. He was born in Parke county, March 14, 1840. During the war he served in the Thirty-first Indiana. While traveling in the wild west, he corresponded for the old Cincinnati Commercial, making a reputation "collected by bullet." Since then he has remained steadily in the newspaper work of late years being employed by the American Press Association of Washington. His history of Mormon life in Utah had a big sale; also, a book on "The Western World."
For several years he published the Rockville Tribune. He leaves a wife, three daughters and one son. Mr. Beadle came to Rockville last fall in poor health and he continued to decline.

Another Reliable Tip.
The friend has been informed from a reliable source that Maggie Keller, who was implicated in the Clara Shanks murder case, tried and acquitted, will bring suit in the federal court for damages. Recently Miss Keller went to Iowa ostensibly to make that place her future home. It was reported then that the object in her leaving the State was in order that she might bring suit in the federal court. This was only rumor, however, but now the friend has it from a prominent attorney of this city, that suit will be instituted without doubt and that some of the most influential and prominent citizens of Parke county and Jackson township, Fountain county, will be made defendants. The case will be watched with a great deal of interest.—Covington Friend.

Death from Chloroform.
Miss Maris Dunlap, a teacher in the High School at Lebanon, was found dead in her bed early Friday morning. She had been a great sufferer with the tooth-ache for several days. Thursday night the pain became so intense that she resorted to chloroform, as she had frequently done before, to gain relief. She evidently took an overdose of the drug and death resulted. Life had been extinct for several hours before the body was discovered. Her home was at Princeton.

Crap Shooters Arrested.
Thirteen crap shooters, composed of white and colored men were arrested Saturday night by officers Grimes and Bannister in a room over a saloon on north Green street. Most of them appeared Monday, plead guilty and paid or stayed their fines which was $11.35 for each person, while some have left town.

No More "Meharry's"

TWO BICYCLE STORIES.
How the Queen Was Told Some Plain Truths.
A well-known monarch, who, for obvious reasons, we will call the king of Ruritania, does not approve of ladies cycling, says the Gentlewoman. His daughter greatly enjoys the healthy exercise of spinning along the roads of her father's dominion. She was in the habit of rising early and going out before breakfast. Unfortunately her royal papa met her and her suite one morning and he was so angry that all the suite were well scolded and the princess herself was kept in the palace for three weeks and was not permitted to attend any of the court festivities for the following month. The queen of Ruritania agrees with her royal husband in his dislike for cycling, and very stringent court rules have been advertised, closing many paths and thoroughfares to the ever-whirling wheel. One day her majesty was walking out with her dogs when a cyclist came along one of the shady alleys near the palace. The indignant queen stopped the cyclist and informed him that bicycles were not permitted near the royal abode. The cyclist, who must have been an ill-bred churl, then proceeded to expostulate, garbling his language with sundry words such as in England are usually represented by the fourth letter of the alphabet and a dash. The bewildered queen started in astonishment, and her lady-in-waiting, coming up opportunely (for she had lingered behind to gather some flowers at her majesty's request) asked the rude bicyclist if he knew he was addressing the sovereign lady of his country. The abashed cyclist was so overwhelmed at this information that he said not a word but mounted his bicycle and fled away, and, report says, never stayed his wheel till he reached—let us say the capital of the adjoining kingdom.

"BEFO' THE WA."
The Sunsets Then Were Far More Beautiful.
Southerners who lived in more luxury before the war than they have been able to do since have a very natural way of dating everything by comparing every event of the present time to those palmy days "befo' the wa," says the Country Gentleman. It is quite unnecessary to add that all things suffer by the comparison. It was the custom of the guests at the sanitarium to assemble on the porch just before sundown, to watch the retiring process of old Sol as he slipped away to bed behind Mount Pisgah, one of the loftiest peaks of the Blue range. Some of the guests were asserting they could see the gray hairs on the back of the "Rat," another elevation, so called from its resemblance to that animal. A little patch of fleecy clouds had evidently caught fast on the pines in passing a cliff, and some one said Beancatcher peak was flirting with Beaumont; while the Balsam range, others said, had already put on a nightcap of mist, with now and then a blue-black peak projecting above the clouds. Otherwise not a cloud was to be seen save a few mackerel scales just above the western horizon. Just as but half of the sun's orb was left in view and shadows were rapidly deepening and the last departing shafts of sunlight were gliding the domes of the most lofty hills and every one was all but speechless with admiration at the splendor of the sunset, one woman, a northerner and a newcomer, was able to keep her tongue going. "Oh, I do think," she was saying to a southern lady, "that it is the most exquisite sunset I ever saw; tell me, is it a custom down here for the sun to set like that?" "Oh, that's nothing," was the reply; "you should have seen it 'befo' the wa'!"

A WOMAN'S LIFE.
Many Private Troubles Borne Without Complaint.
How many, think you, have any idea of the suffering endured by a large proportion of American women?
You will think us extravagant in expression, yet the fact remains, that diseases of the uterus and ovarian troubles are universal—you may note their ravages in the pale faces you meet—more marked indications are dizziness, faintness, irritability, melancholy, extreme lassitude, sleeplessness, severe backache and disturbances of the stomach. A Cincinnati girl says:—
"Words cannot express my gratitude for the good that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I have taken five bottles. The pains in my chest and abdomen have gone, my step is more steady, appetite better and feel better in every respect. Menstrues heretofore lasted too long, were very profuse and made me very weak. The Compound is a miracle. I had tried doctor's medicine, but of no avail. I would not give up the Compound for female complaints for all the doctor's medicine in the world. My friends want to know what makes me look so well. I do not hesitate one moment in telling them what has brought about this wonderful change. I cannot sing its praises enough. I hope every one who suffers as I have, will give Lydia E. Pinkham's Compound a trial. It has helped me, and I know that if taken according to directions it will not only help but cure others. Miss Grace Collard, 1434 Eastern Ave., Cincinnati, Ohio."

Did you ever stop to think what indigestion really means? It means simply that your stomach is tired. If our legs are tired we ride. The horse and the steam engine do the work. Why not give your stomach a ride; that is, let something else do its work. Foods can be digested outside of the body. All plants contain digestive principles which will do this. The Shaker Digestive Cordial contains digestive principles and is a preparation designed to rest the stomach. The shakers themselves have such unbounded confidence in it that they have placed 10 cent sample bottles on the market, and it is said that even so small a quantity proves beneficial in a vast majority of cases. All druggists keep it.
