THE JACK POT TEST.

HOW A MEAN GAMBLER SPRUNG IT ON SISTER ABIGAIL.

He Wanted Another Proof of a Theory Concerning a Womanly Weakness and Got It at the Expense of Uncle Uriah's Opponents at Poker.

Bent, but tall, with sparse whiskers seldom trimmed, nearly 70 years old, Uncle Uriah used to sit in the poker game in Omaha, his long, thin fingers tremblingly placing his chips and his old eyes glittering as he timorously skinned his hand. Pathetically like Little Nell's grandfather, he looked sometimes, but he was at no desperate shift to obtain a stake, for he was the possessor of a competence, and he brought into the game the saving grace of the parsimony to which he had been habituated in his earlier days in a New Hampshire home. He never bought more than $5 worth of chips at a time. These he would for the most part ante away waiting for aces or better, and when he finally did get a good hand a bare call represented the climax of his enterprise.

In those days there was always a game on Sunday afternoons, and Uncle Uriah, although a devout Methodist, could be counted upon to arrive directly after service and to sit in until the time for afternoon Sunday school. The boys used to joke him at first and ask him if he had sneaked his stake out of the contribution box, but to this question and to all others of similar levity he opposed a scared seriousness which showed that his passion for the game was more a weakness than a vice.

Uncle Uriah lived with his two sisters—Abigail, aged 63, and Ann, aged 55. In New Hampshire they had been called "the girls," but in Omaha the irreverent, with rude directness, referred to them as "Uncle Uriah's old maids."

It did not take the boys in the game long to discover that Uncle Uriah was in much fear of Abigail in general and in mortal dread that she would discover his besetting weakness. He would always shy at a new player, and he frequently held forth to the boys on the impropriety of talking on the outside about the features of the game.

"I sh'd hate to hev the parson know," he used to say. "I wouldn't keer so much 'bout Ann, 'cause she's easy skered, but I wouldn't hev Sister Abigail know for the biggest jack pot t'was ever played on this here table!"

There was never any solution to the mystery of how Sister Abigail discovered the obliquity in Uncle Uriah's life. Some officious neighbor may have told her, or in an excess of caution Uncle Uriah himself may have aroused her definite suspicions. At any rate, on a particular Sunday afternoon he arrived at the room at the regular time, but without the key with which he, in common with other participants in the game, had been provided. The negro attendant admitted him, and he was soon engrossed in the play.

There was a good jack pot on the table. Uncle Uriah was in and was dealing. It was his last say, and the two men ahead of him had bet $10 each. He had drawn one card, and the play was up to him. He had not, however, looked at his draw when the key turned in the snap lock of the front door, and Sister Abigail, pale with a righteous and terrible rage, strode into the room and up to the table.

"Gamblin'!" she cried. "And on the Lord's day, with the church bells ringin' outside and decent people flockin' to his worship. I expected to find you here, you hypocrite!" she went on, turning to Uncle Uriah. "You better get on your duds right now and come home."

"I was comin' in a jiffy," the old man said, weak with fear. "I guess I might as well go 'long with you as with anybody else." He rose and steadied himself by holding the chair.

Seth Coe was the coolest hand in the game. Even Sister Abigail had not disconcerted him. He reached over and turned up Uncle Uriah's hand. It was a flush.

"You better straighten this pot out before you go, uncle," said Coe. "You call, of course. I suppose a flush is good?" Coe asked, turning to the other players. They nodded assent. Coe stacked up the chips. "Forty-three dollars here," he said, pushing them toward Uriah.

The old man started instinctively toward the pot and then remembered Sister Abigail. He stopped and waited tremblingly for her decision.

It seemed to the players, who turned from the weak and timid old man to the dominant woman, that at this crucial test something of her moral rigidity relaxed. She did not sweep the chips to the floor. She said nothing about ill gotten gains. With a visible effort she overcame a slight nervous constriction of the throat. She grasped her skirts firmly and swept toward the door.

"Uriah," she said, with great dignity, "I will wait for you in the hall at the foot of the stairs."

After Uncle Uriah had obtained his $48 and departed Seth Coe said in his leisurely way:

"The old man didn't have a flush. I slipped in a card to fill it out for him. I reckoned you fellows wouldn't mind payin' once more for positive proof that, no matter what kind of a woman she is, she's always in with your play when you win the pot."—New York Sun.

Careful.

It is related of a certain clergyman in Edinburgh that he was so careful of his quotations and so fearful of the charge of plagiarism that once, in addressing the Deity, he surprised the congregation by saying, "And thou knowest, dear Lord, that, to quote a writer in a late number of The Quarterly Review," etc.

Though the French are the greatest mushroom eaters in the world, cases of poisoning very rarely occur owing to the fact that almost all the mushrooms eaten are raised.

Dandruff is Dangerous

When dandruff appears it is usually regarded as an annoyance. It should be regarded as a disease. Its presence indicates an unhealthy condition of the scalp, which, if neglected, leads to baldness. Dandruff should be cured at once. The most effective means for the cure is found in AYER'S HAIR VIGOR. It promotes the growth of the hair, restores it when gray or faded to its original color, and keeps the scalp clean and healthy.

"For more than eight years I was greatly troubled with dandruff, and though a young man, my hair was fast turning gray and falling out. Baldness seemed inevitable until I began to use

The dandruff has been entirely removed and my hair is now soft, smooth and glossy and fast regaining its original color."—J. A. VALLE, Allenton, Mo.

AFTER A SUSPECTED CRAFT.

Cutter McCulloch Makes a Rapid Run Up the Bay of Manila.

A San Francisco Chronicle special from Cavite of June 21 says:

"The McCulloch had an exciting chase up under the guns of Manila this morning on a mission that concerned the safety of Flag Lieutenant T. M. Brumby, who left Cavite in a small launch to go to the British cruiser Immortalite, at anchor with the foreign fleet off the mouth of the Pasig river. When he was well up the bay, the lynx-eyed watch on the Olympia detected a larger craft steaming out of Manila under a flag that looked like the Spanish colors.

"The McCulloch was ordered to get under way, and five minutes later the dispatch boat went rushing up the bay at a 15 knot gait. Every officer had his side arms buckled on, and the crew stood ready at their guns. She headed direct for Manila in order to get inside the fleet and cut off the retreat of the supposed Spanish boat. When she neared the fleet, it was discovered that the craft under suspicion carried the Austrian flag, and the chase ended. The McCulloch held her course, however, and made a careful examination of the batteries in front of Manila and a close inspection of the foreign fleet. No hostile demonstration was made."

A Maryland Testimonial to Schley.

Mayor Malster has accepted an invitation extended by General Joseph Sprigg of Oakland to assist in the work of raising funds by popular subscription to present Commodore Winfield Scott Schley with an enduring and substantial testimonial in recognition of his work at Santiago. The letter of General Sprigg says: "I think we ought to secure without much trouble $25,000 or $30,000 from the whole state. I am not now advised as to Commodore Schley's financial condition, but if a handsome homestead in which to spend his old age would be acceptable to him I would favor that. But what the testimonial will be can be considered later on."—Baltimore Sun.

Day School at Chickamauga.

An innovation in camp life at Chickamauga was introduced several days ago by Private Sam Tudor, one of the "rookies" of Company L, Second Kentucky, in the establishment of a school for elementary instruction in reading, writing and arithmetic. Tudor has about 20 pupils and more applications than he can attend to.—Louisville Courier-Journal.

Hymn of the Santiago Spaniards.

We're going home, we're going home, We're going home, mamas, And that is where we've got the bulge On the dagos in Havana.

We're going home, we're going home To tell the folks the story Of how we scoffed at and defied And bowed before Old Glory.

We're going home, no more to roam Through lands the Yanks are after, And you can bet we'll shun the beat Patrolled by big Bill Hafter.

Viva Toral! We're going home To give up war and folly, We're going home, and glad to get The chance to go, by golly! —Cleveland Leader.

A Cyclists' Paradise.

Cyclists in rural France are well catered for in delightful little country cafes, with open air tables often set in an arbor of evergreens. A franc and a half or two will get you a perfection of an omelet, a plate of stewed wild rabbit, soft cheese, wine and black coffee, and for an extra 4 sous or so the waitress, if the wheelman is ungallant enough to let her do it, will inflate his tires, the merest "marchand de vins" being nowadays the proud possessor of a standard pump.—Caterer.

$100 Challenge!

We again make the offer to pay to any charitable institution the sum of $100 for any item advertised by us that we do not offer for sale just as advertised. This is open to all searchers. We court investigation.

We positively will not publish untruths in our ads., and yet some people said, even after we had moved from the old building, that we would not build, but was only using it as an advertising dodge. But the excavating is being done and materials for the new building are being put on the ground every day.

The New Annex.

We found our quarters in the Y. M. C. A. armory too small for our entire stock so we have rented the room formerly occupied by the Carlson 10 cent store, one half square west of court house, north side of Main street, where we have installed our cloak and drapery departments. By way of introduction we will offer some rare values.
