OUR HOME MORMANS.

Quite a Number to Join this Peculiar Religious Organization.

It may not be generally known that two ministers of the Mormon church reside here, and have for six months or more, and that they are in the interest of the church seeking to obtain members for it whenever they can secure audience with persons who may be disposed to listen to them. The two ministers are Revs. Sprague and Kellison, and they reside at the Lewis House, on east Market street. The two have within the past few months secured the promise of quite a number of persons to join their church, and two ladies have lately been baptized by them. The men emphatically repudiate the polygamy feature that for years distinguished the Mormon doctrine, as do other ministers sent out into various parts of the United States, but adhere otherwise to the teachings of the Mormon Bible as revealed to Joe Smith over a half century ago. The two ministers here go around to the houses of those invited by them and deliver short lectures and exhortations on the Mormon faith. They would probably be perfectly willing if they could secure a hall or church in town to address the public by hundreds that might attend, but such is the prejudice against anything Mormon that this will probably not be done soon. It is probable that these men, however, will not disgrace their calling should they operate for years, to as great an extent as have Rev. Pettit, Rev. Leech, and other shining lights of other religious denominations. The heads of some six or eight families in town, we understand, have accepted their doctrines as expounded by these two men and ultimately will be baptized and become members of the Mormon church.

The Lane-Swain Feud.

A special from Rockville says: Preston Lane, who shot Mose Swain about ten days ago, using a shotgun, was tried yesterday before Squire Glass of this place and bound over to appear at the September term of the Parke circuit court. Swain is recovering from his wounds. The shooting occurred on the highway near the home of Mose Swain. The trouble was over some oats in a field belonging to Swain, which Lane attempted to haul away. There has been bad blood between Lane Swain and his brother Mose for ten years over the title to some real estate, and about four years ago Mose shot and killed Gabriel Bryant, an employee of Lane's, and almost killed Lane at the same time, for which Mose was tried and acquitted. Lane was employed by Lane as a farm hand when he shot Mose. A constable tried to arrest Lane and failed about three weeks ago after several shots were exchanged. More trouble is likely to occur soon.

Traveling by Water.

Mike Plant, who spent a week with LaPearl's circus, states that the show is doing a wonderful business. He says that LaPearl is traveling two weeks by water because the railroads refused to haul him. He is in a mining region and the railroads do not want a circus to get into their country and be the cause of the men not working for a few days. The loading and unloading of the circus on the lake is slow and dangerous. LaPearl will make two overland stands. He goes back to his train at Sheboygan, Mich., on Sept. 3.—Danville, Ill., Democrat.

$400 to Darlington.

There were 145 of the 146 members of the Darlington lodge of Knights of Pythias in Indianapolis last Tuesday, to compete for a prize of $400. Darlington won. The prize was offered to the subordinate lodge, outside of Marion county, Indiana, having a membership of over 160, for the largest percentage of the entire membership participating in the parade.

Is After the Doctor.

Samuel McClamrock, father of Grace McClamrock, who died over two years ago from the effects of a criminal operation, was in the city, one day last week, looking up evidence against the defendant, W. R. Stout, of this city. The case has been tried twice. The first time the jury failed to agree upon a verdict, the second time the judge took sick while the case was in progress and it was continued. Mr. McClamrock says it will be called again in the Parke county circuit court if it is in his power to bring it about. Thousands of dollars have already been spent by both the prosecution and defense and it begins to look like much more will be spent before the case is forever settled. About one hundred witnesses from this city might as well prepare to be yanked down to Rockville again.—Covington Friend.

The city schools will open on Sept. 12.

WANTS $2,500.

George Goben is After That Amount of John Tomlinson's Cash.

Last Saturday in the circuit court George Goben filed suit against John Tomlinson for damages for alleged slander said to have been circulated by defendant. This is an outgrowth of the burning of Tomlinson's barn in August 1896. It will be remembered that two of Goben's horses were in this barn at the time of the fire and both were destroyed. It further developed on an examination of their charred remains that their throats had been cut and it was surmised that the barn had been fired by some one with a purpose. As Goben's horses were insured suspicion rested upon him and he was arrested. A trial followed and he was acquitted. In his complaint Goben says Tomlinson was active in prosecution of the case, and avers that in spite of his acquittal the defendant continues to lay the crime at his door and frequently accuses him to others. On one occasion, the complaint continues, Tomlinson, in the presence of many persons said: "This is a hell of a country we are living in. George Goben burned that barn up there to get insurance." The plaintiff thinks he has been injured to the amount of $2,500 and has asked the court to grant him that amount.

Ex-Gov. Matthews Dead.

Ex-Governor Matthews, who was stricken with paralysis at Maharry's grove on Tuesday of last week, while addressing the Old Settlers at that place, never rallied from the force of the prostration, and died on Sunday last. Concerning him, the State Sentinel says: "The death of Gov. Matthews comes with unusual shock, for no one had dreamed of his health being affected in the slightest until the fatal stroke came. He was but fifty-two years of age on Dec. 14 last, and had always been of correct and abstemious habits and exceedingly careful of his health. He was apparently a model of manly strength and vigor, almost six feet in height, well proportioned, weighing about two hundred pounds, without any superfluous flesh. Any one would have named him as a man destined to long life, and therefore the stroke of fatal disease came like a thunderbolt from a clear sky.

Claude Matthews was a man who rose very rapidly in political life. Until he was forty-five years of age he followed the quiet avocation of farming, representing his county one term in the legislature, in 1876, but otherwise not appearing in official life. In 1890 he appeared as a candidate for secretary of state, and was easily nominated and elected. Two years later he was chosen governor, and at the end of his term, in 1896, his state unanimously presented him for the democratic nomination for president, but like all other probable nominees, he was passed by for the magnetic statesman, William J. Bryan.

"As governor of Indiana he became widely known throughout the United States for suppressing the Roby race track gamblers and preventing prize fighting in Indiana. His prompt use of the militia in maintaining public order which was threatened by the coal strike of 1895 also received wide notice. His administration was satisfactory to the people without distinction of party and gave him a certainty of lasting popularity. He was deeply interested in agriculture and gave every assistance in his power to advance its interests, officially and personally.

"Governor Matthews' private life was as creditable as his public career. He was married at the age of twenty-three to Martha R. Whitcomb of Indiana. Their two daughters survive him, the elder being the wife of Mr. Cortez Ewing, and the younger unmarried. Gov. Matthews was devoted to his family and to his home and in his home life was a model man in every respect."

Neighborly Sympathy.

Word reaches us, this week, that there is an exodus from Linden and that business men are preparing to leave. In fact the harness man is gone and Brennon & Son will leave soon. Two other firms want to go and the bank has failed to materialize. The Cellulose factory has hung fire so long that the people are getting discouraged. If these things be true, Linden people have the sympathy of every one who has the advancement of the country at heart, and although we have been free to poke fun at them in the hour of jubilation over future prospects of greatness, they have the sympathy of the Enterprise in the hour of their despondency.—New Richmond Enterprise.

Several wagon loads of chickens, sheep and hogs will be placed in pens at the fair ground to-day.

THE 158TH PLEASED.

New Camp at Knoxville a Pleasant Change.

With the One hundred-and-fifty-eighth Indiana volunteers, Camp Poland, Knoxville, Tenn., August 27.—The regiment is now in its new camp at Knoxville. We reached Lonsdale, a suburb of Knoxville, at 11 o'clock Thursday night, and at once left the cars, so that they might be sent back for the other regiments.

A cup of coffee was served to each man, and we lay down on the loading platforms to sleep until our wagons came, they having followed on another train. They pulled in at 3 o'clock in the morning, and then followed a scene both picturesque and exciting. Over thirty wagons were to be unloaded and probably 150 mules by the light of torches and locomotive headlights. The mules were frightened, the men were sleepy, the platform slippery, and it all resulted in many an exciting tangle.

Soon, however, we were marching to our new camp, two miles away.

This is in an inclosure called Lincoln Park, and is a truly beautiful place. We are up on a hilltop, the tents of the camp running down the slope. In the valley we can see part of the suburbs of Knoxville, and far beyond are the Great Smoky mountains.—Cor. Indianapolis News.

Sidener Family Reunion.

A reunion of the Sidener family occurred at the home of Allen Robinson, north of the city, last Saturday. About sixty of the family assembled at the home of Allen Robinson, north of the city, last Saturday. A delicious dinner served to which the guests did ample justice. Following is a list of those present: Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Sidener, of Indianapolis; Dave Sidener, from Iowa; Frank Sidener from Missouri; Mrs. Mollie Wilbitt, Washington, D. C.; Mrs. Neff, Mulberry, Ill.; George Sidener, St. Louis, and Harry Robinson, Indianapolis; Will Sidener and family, Yountsville; Newton Sidener and family, Andrew Sidener and family, Ladoga; Robert Smith and family, North Union; Mary A. Reeves and family, Samuel Hicks, Will Wright, Miss Imogene Osborne, New Market; Mrs. Mollie Smith and son, Whitesville; Charlie McBee and wife, Ed Coleman and wife, Linden; Samuel Davidson and family, Cherry Grove; Edgar Robinson, Brown's Valley; Edwin Henderson, Harry Robinson, Indianapolis; Mrs. G. B. Sidener, St. Louis; Mo.; Mrs. Rebecca Neff, Mulberry Grove, Ill.; Miss Etta Preibe, Yountsville, Ill.; Basil Merrill, Waynetown; Howard O'Neill, Yountsville; Alex Wilson and family, M. V. Sidener and family, T. J. Sidener, Mrs. Ryan and mother, Wm. M. Reeves and family, Mrs. Lucy Fry and mother, Mrs. George Fitchey, Mrs. J. R. Coons, W. K. Wallace and wife Wm. Watson and family, W. E. Coons, Miss Carrie Courtney, Tom Sidener and wife, Mrs. Lucy Reichard and niece, Miss Emma Lally, Miss Mary Harp, Miss Dora Sidener, Mrs. Harriet Dickson, Crawfordsville.

Killed at Muncie.

The following special from Muncie last Saturday relates the sad death of little Theodore Peters, who until recently resided in this city: "This forenoon, while raising the center pole for the tent of the world's greatest dog and pony show, the heavy pole got loose from the ropes and fell among a crowd of small boys. Theodore, the twelve-year-old son of Charles Peters, of the Muncie bottling works, was pinned to the ground and instantly killed, his chest being crushed in. He had just been employed to carry water to earn a ten cent admission ticket and this makes the show company liable. The street parade and afternoon performance was canceled as a result of the accident. It was marvelous that several others escaped the same fate."

158th at Knoxville.

A special from Knoxville says: Camp Poland, near this city, is rapidly filling up with troops from Chickamauga. The One hundred-and-fifty-eighth Indiana, Second Ohio and First West Virginia have arrived. All troops are unloaded from side tracks within a short distance of the camp, and not brought into the city. The health of the 7,000 men now here is excellent, and those sick in hospitals are improving, owing to the change of air and water.

Death of Mrs. Gunkle.

Mrs. Harriet Gunkle died at her home near Yountsville, last Saturday morning at the age of 74 years. The funeral occurred from the family residence Monday morning at 10 o'clock. Interment in the Presbyterian cemetery on the Terre Haute road.

President Burroughs and family are expected home from the east to-day.

CAMP POLAND.

Fred Tutt Writes Interestingly of the New Camp.

KNOXVILLE, TENN., Aug. 27

ED. REVIEW.
I will write to you this fine evening as I have nothing else to do. I returned back to camp last Tuesday night about 10:30 o'clock and found all the boys asleep but they were all glad to see me the next morning. Roy and myself are in the finest of health. I think that army life agrees with us. We have been moved to Knoxville and a finer place you never saw. We are in Lincoln Park and about a mile from the city and can see it from the park. We have water works back of each cook tent and everything is handy. I was up to the city last night and it is the finest city in the south. All of the boys are well satisfied and getting along fine. We can go to town as often as we want to so we have no cause to get in the guard house. Street cars and rail road run right by us and it only cost 10 cents to ride round trip. Well how are all the boys at home since I left? Give them my regards. I don't know when we will get home but we have a snap here. We only have to drill once a day but so far we haven't drilled any at all. We have no captain yet, but we have a man that is just as good. You know who that is. Well, I will close for they have just yelled "fall in for mess."

FRED TUTT.

Oscar Returns.

Oscar Stingley, the erstwhile proprietor of the Maud S saloon, who disappeared so mysteriously last winter, returned here last Monday. He would give no account of himself further than to say that he was now located in some Illinois town and was doing well.

Father and Son Killed.

John Gardner, a farmer of Putnam county, and his son, aged 14 years, were crossing the Big Four track, west of Greencastle, Saturday evening, when they were struck by the Knickerbocker Express and killed instantly.

The Masons of Ladoga will entertain on Thursday evening, Sept. 22. An invitation has been extended to the different lodges of the county.
