THE LYNCHING ACT.

The good name of the State of Indiana was again disgraced the other day by the killing of a citizen by a mob at Scottsburg, in Scott county. The man executed had murdered no person, he aimed to kill his wife and himself, but neither died from their wounds and both had since recovered. His reputation, however, was not of the best, and the mob concluded to terminate his earthly career which it did. Our State bears an unenviable reputation for affairs of this kind. During the past thirty years probably as many as fifty human beings have been lynched in Indiana, that is, murdered, and their murderers were never apprehended. They were all deliberate murders, as much as if an individual should plan for twenty-four hours just where and how to destroy his enemy and then step up behind, after dark, and send a bullet through his heart. It would seem impossible for the law makers and those having the execution of it to do anything to prevent it. No one has ever heard of a lyncher being apprehended and punished, and those hellish affairs go on to the everlasting disgrace of the State. Governor Mount in his message recommends certain things being done to prevent the frequency of lynching by aiming to hold the counties where they occur responsible for the acts, but that it will amount to anything is very questionable. Just what can be done to prevent these wholesale murders it is difficult to determine. They have resulted originally from a lax administration of the law in the first place and intimidation of those whose duty it was to enforce it. Prompt enforcement of law without fear or favor will do more than anything else to prevent lynchings.

THE STATE LEGISLATURE.

The State legislature convened at Indianapolis on Tuesday for a sixty-one days' session. The message of Governor Mount was sent to the assembled law makers. Our opinion is that this legislature will be one on the line of politics and place, and what it may do will be of little ultimate benefit to the people. It would seem now that it had assembled more in the interest of the candidates for U. S. Senator than anything else. It is not the talk of what necessary laws shall be passed, but who shall be the man to succeed Turpie. A powerful lobby has already convened to force or prevent the passing of such measures as will be contrary to the desires of various corporations and it will be found that it will get in its work in most instances. This legislature, we believe will be "receptive" in more ways than one, and from the material of which much of it is composed, will be of little benefit in its work for the people.

As usual it would seem Indianapolis politicians are aiming at this session to "hog the ring" in the way of appointments to official positions by the legislature, and there are applicants from that city for almost everything in sight. The "country jake" members seem pretty well aware of this, and vast numbers of office wanters will receive the cold shoulder, and be compelled to actually earn their bread and butter by work.

NEEDS REFORMING.

Over 600 township trustees of the State met in Indianapolis last week to protest against the proposed legislation favoring a reform in township government. For remarks made and conduct in general of the trustees at their meeting it would certainly indicate that if there were anything that assuredly did need reforming it is the system in vogue of running a township, and the sooner the reform is brought about the better.

Ed Porter and family, of St. Paul, Minn., are visiting friends and relatives in the city. Mr. Porter is an old Crawfordville boy but this is his first visit home in fifteen years.

COMPLIMENTARY VOTE.

One of the antiquated humbugs coming down to us in political history is the casting of a complimentary vote by minority members of the legislature for an individual who has no opportunity whatever to be elected. In this day and age it looks like a game of "playing horse," without any horse in sight. The democratic members are to give the complimentary vote to Turpie when the election for Senator before the legislature takes place. But what does it amount to? Turpie can live and take his three meals per day just the same even if he did or did not receive the complimentary vote, in fact he will be compelled. The question is would Turpie receive this vote were there any opportunity for the democrats to elect? Doubtful, we believe. The complimentary vote is a relic of a past age, and might not be made for all the advantage it is to anybody.

The knowledge possessed by geologists regarding either the abundance or shortage of the supply of natural gas is very limited and the public is disposed to pay little or no respect for their opinions about that question. The words of an experienced driller of wells in the gas belt are more important than the opinions of a half dozen geologists.

The readers of this paper will be pleased to learn that there is at least one dreaded disease that science has been able to cure in all its stages and that is catarrh. Hall's Catarrh Cure is the only positive cure now known to the medical fraternity. Catarrh being a constitutional disease, requires constitutional treatment. Hall's Catarrh Cure is taken internally, acting directly upon the blood and mucous surfaces of the system, thereby destroying the foundation of the disease, and giving the patient strength by building up the constitution and assisting nature in doing its work. The proprietors have so much faith in its curative powers, that they offer One Hundred Dollars for any case that it fails to cure. Send for list of Testimonials.

OUR NEW YORK LETTER.

Not Representing Divinity—Chinese Laundry Trust—Havemeyer's Double Plays.

(Special Correspondence.)

Unlike some of our police court officials, Magistrate Meade does not pose as a humorist, but there are at times a caustic wit and an epigrammatic force in his remarks which carry more conviction to the hearts of those whom he reprimands than such smart sarcasm as is often hurled from the judicial bench.

Well dressed and having an air of worn-out respectability, threadbare decency and honesty sadly frayed at the edges, a man was arraigned before Magistrate Meade in the Yorkville police court on Saturday, charged with intoxication.

"Why, you were before me yesterday on a similar charge, and I permitted you to go with a reprimand," said the magistrate. "Now, the officer says that he found you only a few hours later lying helplessly drunk on the sidewalk. What is your excuse this time?"

With downcast eyes the slave of drink mumbled something about having a wife and family to support. Then, as if seized with a sudden inspiration, he raised his head and said:

"Your honor, there is just one thing more I would like to say; one thing I would like you to remember."

Clearing his throat and striking a dramatic attitude, the man declaimed in husky tones the well known lines: "It is human to err. Forgiveness is divine."

The magistrate looked the fellow in the face a moment, then quietly said:

"Five dollars! And let me tell you, sir, to err as you do is inhuman. It is brutal. I am not here to represent the divinity. Go to prison for five days. Then go to your wife and family for forgiveness."

A Chinese Laundry Trust.

A trust of Chinese laundries is the latest. It is called the Dop Song Kong Sow, and it has its tentacles wrapped around more than 1,000 Chinese laundries in Greater New York.

Gradually the movement to amalgamate the Chinese laundries is spreading, and the organization in this city is practically the home of a commission that has branches in every large city in the country.

On the books of the state of New York the Dop Song Kong Sow is called the Greater New York American Laundry association.

It was incorporated in January, 1898, but not until within the last month has any active work been done by its officers.

Now there is great hustling at the headquarters, 28 Mott street, on the top floor, and expert Chinese scribes are busy every day placing the names of new members in a large book.

Last month the price of washing and ironing a shirt was raised by every member of the trust to 10 cents, and fees for polishing collars and cuffs were likewise increased.

Then the Hebrew Laundrymen's association started a laundry war, but Lowee Sing has arranged a conference with the Hebrew Laundrymen's association and hopes to come to an agreement.

Havemeyer's Double Plays.

"The sugar deal is puzzling Wall street," said a man well posted on matters of the street. "That is one of the missions of the sugar deal. It is always puzzling Wall street. This time the question is whether Mr. Havemeyer and his associates are going to start the market up from par or from some point below par, say 80 or 90. Another point about which Wall street would like information is whether the fight between the sugar trust and the Arbuckle-Doehs combination is genuine or a mere bluff organized for the purpose of deceiving the public as to the true intent of the men behind the scenes. The sugar trust is the only one of the great industrial trusts which runs along with unbroken success in both speculative and commercial channels. The men whose genius has effected other industrial combinations and who have tried to work Wall street as well as carry on a legitimate business have sooner or later been obliged to give up one or the other.

"Mr. Havemeyer seems to be equal to both. He goes along year after year adding to his millions, and it is a lean and hungry season with him when he is not able to build a skyscraper on Broadway or on some other great downtown thoroughfare. The margin of profit from the sales of actual sugar has been meager for some time, and he feels the need of swelling his bank account in some other way. He therefore turns naturally to Wall street, and a killing is at hand."

He Hypnotized the Sailor.

A Bellevue surgeon the other day subdued a maniacal sailor after five policemen had wrestled with him in vain. The doctor told the policemen to release the powerful man, and as they did so he caught the patient's eye. The strong man stopped in the middle of the street and eyed the doctor in wonder. His eye lost its fire, and he followed the doctor's movements to a "T." The doctor walked around the sailor, waving his arms all the while and keeping his eyes fastened on the sailor's. He was hypnotizing him, and he soon put him to sleep. The free show entertained a crowd of people, and after the ambulance rolled off with its hypnotized burden skeptics did a whole lot of thinking.

Organized War on Cats.

A secret Anticat league flourishes in the most fashionable quarter of the city. The aristocratic Angora and the patrician Persian cat out in the back yard singing to the moon die suddenly. Their bodies, still and voiceless, are found in the yard next day, and not until then is it known that the official Borgia of the Anticat society has passed that way. The active warfare on the felines of the smart set was only begun recently, but the havoc wrought has struck terror into the hearts of the cat show exhibitors.

FASHION AND FABRIC.

The trimmed skirt appears to advance more rapidly and more generally in favor than the draped or overskirted styles.

All the round hats this season which tilt over the face, almost concealing the eyes, have very wide, low set, flaring trimmings on the front and sides.

Tinted horse chestnut blossoms are very prettily worn on beige colored beach hats of milian braid trimmed with ficelle lace and brown satin ribbon.

Many of the black and white silk mulls, silk dotted batistes and figured organdie muslins, are made with a circular skirt and trimmed with countless narrow ruffles made of black mousseline de soie or black satin ribbon.

For the early autumn there are shown some pretty Paquin coat models in silk or satin, slightly longer than the spring and summer shapes, cut either in continuous lengths from neck to hem or finished with applied basques.

Some of the most stylish summer tailor costumes worn at Newport this season for morning drives, beach walks, etc., are made of smooth, fine Irish linen trimmed with rows of white braid or linen lace insertions and edgings.

Satin striped zephyr goods are very dainty and attractive this season, with plain white or neutral stripes in satin finish and woven about an inch and a half apart and filled in with little checks or lines of pink, violet, ciel blue, mauve, yellow or gray.

Many really beautiful dresses for the summer have been formed by using the partly worn silk gowns of past seasons for the foundation for new cut dresses of muslin, net, groundine, tulle and other transparent or semidiaphanous textiles.—New York Post.

What we don't understand about the Roentgen ray is how it will always apparently make transparent all the other matter and leave opaque only the substances you want to find.—Lowell Courier.

The battle of Santiago is considered to have proved the superiority of American armor plating and artillery, and it is believed that in the future European nations will give larger orders to American makers for armor, guns and the like.—Berlin Cor. London Mail.

According to late advices from Havana life in that city is extraordinarily gay and blithesome. The place is about as frisky and frolicsome as the Kentucky mule that played football with a can of nitroglycerin not knowing the precise nature of its contents.—New York Mail and Express.

ORCHARD AND GARDEN.

Remove dead and mildewed twigs at sight. Besides looking bad, they impede the light.

Nearly all of the rusts, mildew, smuts and rots that injure our crops are of a fungoid growth.

Do not go to an extreme and prune too much. Leaves are to a tree what lungs are to the body.

Slow growing trees and vines should be set on richer ground and fast growing trees on poorer ground.

To secure a good crop of gooseberries or currants the main thing is to keep them well trimmed and thinned out.

Dead wood is a deadly burden to a living tree. Letting the dead limbs remain robs the live part of needed sap.

Dwarf apples not only occupy little ground, but they come early into bearing, according to the variety to which they are grafted.

Dwarf apples are especially desirable for small yards or gardens where not much room can be spared, and yet some apples are wanted every year.—St. Louis Republic.

SPANISH FLOUNCES.

Indiscretion is the greater part of valz with Spain.—Washington Star.

The king of Spain is an example of how hopelessly a young man's career may be wrecked by bad company.—Washington Star.

One of the marvels of this war has been the manner in which General Weyler has been able to retain his martial ardor.—Pittsburgh Times.

A Madrid correspondent says that "the best people of Spain are the least demonstrative in their hostility against America." Certainly, the best people of Spain are underground.—Chicago Times-Herald.

The suggestion already made that we annex Spain should not be pressed. A colonial government for the acquisition would be expensive, and the natives are not sufficiently civilized to justify admitting their territory as a state.—San Francisco Bulletin.
