GOVERNMENT BY "FAD."

The St. Louis platform pronounced in favor of the "existing gold standard." The "existing gold standard" is maintained solely and exclusively by the whim of the President, and not by any law of the land, established by Congress with the consent of the people. Bi-metalists have always known this and have so contended, but only very recently have the gold standard advocates admitted its truth. By statutory enactment the unlimited coinage of silver has been abolished ever since 1873. According to the act of 1873, the gold dollar was decided to be the "unit of value." By the Bland-Allison act of 1878 the old ratio of 16 to 1 was re-established and the silver dollar made a legal tender for all debts public and private except when otherwise mentioned in the contract. There is no command given in this law to the President or his financial advisors to thus use silver dollars as a medium to pay public indebtedness. So acting under the high inspiration to be kind to their friends, the capitalists, they have not used them as the law permits. By their "whim" or "fad" they have continued to regard them as unfit coin with which to liquidate claims for interest on bonds of the United States, but good enough for the labor of the country. When any creditor of the government exercised his "whim" and demanded gold he got it, no matter how his contract read. Thus one of the vital national interests is in the hands of the faddists and governed according to their whims. This "fad" and "whim" business did not exist in our government from 1792 to 1873. It is entirely a new sort of financial hydrophobia and is world wide in its disastrous effects.

The single standard advocates are moving heaven and earth to destroy even our present lame and inefficient system of bi-metalism, and force the single gold standard upon the people and make it the law of the land. When it is done a dangerous financial revolution will have been accomplished. They maintain that there will be no perceptible difference. But there is enough difference to cause capital to use every effort, legitimate and illegitimate, to bring it about. Concentrated capital never works and spends its substance in charitable work. It is all for self. The average voter it would seem ought to have learned that long years ago. Capital wants a statutory enactment to fasten the yoke on the people. They are afraid there will be a President sometime without a "fad." They want a sure thing. The ratio of 16 to 1 can probably never be bettered. There is no possible method of ascertaining the true commercial ratio between gold and silver. So long as silver is discriminated against, so unwisely and unfairly as it has been, by law and by our financial officials discarding it and spitting upon it. If we were to be guided by the annual production of gold and silver we would decrease the size of our silver dollar rather than increase it. Look into this matter, ye voters.

The bill authorizing a convention to make a new constitution for Indiana, introduced by Senator Hogate, was defeated in the State Senate after a lively fight. The grounds upon which it was defeated were good ones. In these days of trusts and combines, it will not do to begin to tamper with the fundamental law of the State. We have lived under the old constitution a long time, and have prospered. We can run no risks just now of letting the various specimens of devil-fish trusts get a chance to entrench themselves behind any such bulwark as the State constitution. The constitution may be as claimed "antiquated" and not up-to-date, but it still answers our purposes very well. Let it alone.

The proposition to build a public building at Indianapolis failed to pass Congress. Mr. Overstreet did not appear to have the lead pipe cinch on it when the time came that he told the people he had when making his canvass.

GENERAL MILES stands a fair chance of being immolated to save Alger and the rest of them from disgrace. The only thing that will save him is a wholesome fear that he will tell the whole truth if he is touched off.

THE precedent has been set, and Indiana is now in the pension business. The Legislature has granted Mrs. Morton a pension of $100 per month. This lets down the bars and opens the way for the pensioning of the widow of every prominent man of the State. An appropriation of $100,000 for Mrs. Morton, let it be just or unjust, would have been far better. It could easily have been ascertained whether the State owed the late Governor anything or not. But the sentimentalists have set a precedent now which opens wide the gates, and we may now expect such propositions to come up before every Legislature and no telling when it will end. We cannot but admire the nerve of the Legislature in this matter.

Dr. Scott, professor of Ethics in the University of Ohio, has come out flat footed in opposition to expansion. He says "Divine Providence no more called us to take the Philippines than it directs us now to seize the aurora borealis." For this remark the good doctor is being roundly scored by the jingo press, but he is right all the same.

It may be a bluff after all, that proposition of the Republican legislature for county and township reform. They have commenced to back out of the difficulty by defeating the bill providing for a uniform system of bookkeeping.

For the first time this season we begin to hear that the peach crop is ruined. This is an indication that we have had a "cold wave".

WHEN Spain let go of the Philippines for $20,000,000 she relieved herself of an awful burden. She got out of it easy.

ROMNEY.

Will H. Eltzroth put on a large list for THE REVIEW last week.

The Fairfield township teachers' association will have a show at the school hall next Saturday night. Everybody invited.

Quite a number of the friends of Rev. Claypool met at his residence Saturday afternoon and had a splendid time in the way of a young ladies' social.

We are all pleased with the change for the better in THE NEW REVIEW. The Cunningham boys were raised near here and are thoroughly reliable scholars. Romney can now rely on this paper to the fullest.

Dock Newbon has a fine girl baby at his house, and John Entsler and Will Cox each have a boy at their houses, and we think their names will be Dewey Entsler and Sampson Cox. Good luck to you, boys.

George Oglesby is having a lot of nice stove wood cut by J. P. Crose and Ed Cullingham. Don't work too hard, boys, or you might get the grip. Cullingham says: "We have already got it. We have a terrible grip on the darned old saw to make her cut."

George Oglesby and Mike Rodgers will have some fine cattle to ship in the near future. Those gentlemen are both hustlers and they know what good stock is. John Oglesby still runs the meat market here. Success to you, John. We cannot get along very well without you.

We are glad that we live in a land of plenty. A stranger would naturally suppose so if he would hear the roar and rumble of corn wagons on the streets every day. It tickles Parker Simmerson, the elevator man, to see them roll in. A good man to sell to and a good price will always bring them.

The lynx is not heard any more in Romney. It scared some of the boys till they did not know their best girls. One fellow got scared so badly the first time that he heard it he got a man to take him home. Now he don't go out after night any longer. Young man, it was only the shrill screech of a toy whistle blown by a mouth organist.

Oh my, did you get your toes stepped on. Herald, you have the liberal patronage of the people of North Salem and have no right to raise a howl against THE REVIEW any more than the Crawfordsville Journal which comes into our town, and is patronized by parties that you think give you all, but you are off and when you make brags of having one man in town that gives you all of it, be sure you are right, go after the Crawfordsville Journal. They are the people you should roast.

We live in a country of which the principle scourge is stomach trouble. It is more wide-spread than any other disease, and, very nearly, more dangerous.

One thing that makes it so dangerous is that it is so little understood. If it were better understood, it would be more feared, more easily cured, less universal than it is now.

So, those who wished to be cured, Shaker Digestive Cordial, because it goes to the root of the trouble as no other medicine does. The pure, harmless, curative herbs and plants, of which it is composed, are what render it so certain and, at the same time, so gentle a cure.

It helps and strengthens the stomach, purifies and tones up the system. Sold by druggists, price 10 cents to $1.00 per bottle.

To be entirely relieved of the aches and pains of rheumatism means a great deal, and Hood's Sarsaparilla does it.

HUMOR

HARD TO EXPLAIN.

He Made a Mistake, and She Soon Told Him So.

The evil of having "pretty" photographs is growing and is becoming a decided nuisance.

There is at least one young man in town who is ready to denounce the custom forevermore, and it happened this way.

One evening he went to see a young lady whom he liked very much indeed. She was bright, she was jolly, she was pleasant in every way, but she was not pretty.

However, he did not mind that, and things were getting on finely until this unlucky night when he spied upon the mantelpiece a new photograph in a brand new Florentine frame.

It was the picture of a bright, saucy looking girl, with big appealing eyes and waving hair, and it interested the young man immediately.

"Who is it?" he asked, going up in front of the picture, "mighty pretty girl, but I don't believe I know her. Wish I did. Won't you introduce us?"

He was going on, but suddenly became aware of a certain frigidity in the atmosphere and stopped. "Wh-wh-wh-wh, what's the matter?" he questioned, because the girl looked wrathful and yet ready to cry.

"That picture," she exclaimed with a slight explosion, "is a new picture that I have just had taken of myself."

The young man looked from her to it and then sank weakly down.

And he has not yet succeeded in making her believe that it was all a joke, and he really recognized her. That girl may not be pretty, but neither is she slow.—Cleveland Plain Dealer

Injudicious Metaphors.

"We are living," shouted the agitator in Kansas, "in perilous and portentous times. We stand in the eve of great and momentous events. Darkness, wild, ominous and uncanny, is settling over the land. The gloom becomes more and more intense. A black, heavy cloud is rolling upon us, voluminous and vast."

The room was entirely emptied in 33 seconds. It was in the cyclone belt.—St. Louis Globe-Democrat.

Remarks Unnecessary.
