OUR SERIAL STORY.
We call the attention of our readers this morning to our serial story entitled "The Golden Calf" which begins this issue. It will be added to from day to day, and we do not know when it will stop. We can stand misrepresentations and falsehood when we think it accidental, but when it is malicious and mean, done on purpose, and is persistent and aggravated, we will resent it, at last, after giving time for repentance. We ask a careful reading of this serial by every Democrat. We are attacking no one. We do not desire to be considered in that attitude, but simply showing up the inconsistencies of certain braggadocios who are living on deception.

No matter what differences of opinion seem to exist among different democratic leaders, they all fall back upon the principles enunciated by Jefferson. Many times the party has been divided upon some particular but passing issue, only to unite again upon the immortal precepts which lie at the very foundation of popular government. Democracy, like a mighty stream flows on and on, too great to sink into quick sands, of political disputes, too mighty to be lost in the sea of oblivion. It has run over shoals and shallows of doubt; and its flow has been disturbed by the rocks of dissension but always the main current has kept the even tenor of its way, undisturbed by froth and foam, and jutting crags because its channel was fixed in a course unyielding as adamant. Timeservers and demagogues have sought to guide its course, and have wrought it injury, but they have been crushed in turn, and the party of the people still remains. Upon the lines laid down by Jefferson the party must fight its battle. Its hope of perpetuity is fixed in these. If popular government is to ever prove a success, it must do so upon the principle of the equality of men, and the dealing out equal and exact justice to every individual. Any departure from that means not popular sovereignty, but something else. Many alluring promises may be made, and seductive suggestions of governmental good, but this alone must serve the Democratic party as a watchword. High sounding words will not serve the purpose, but promises must be kept. So long as that is done the life of the Democratic party is assured. When dies Democracy, then dies the hope of the success of popular government.

GOVERNOR Pingree is still after the trusts, and combines. He is very much in earnest, and his arguments are effective. This is one of the questions which is viewed by many people from the stand-point that is occupied by the Michigan governor. He views New Jersey in the light of a sort of Mother of Trusts, because the majority are there formed under her liberal laws. He gently suggests that it might not be a bad thing if she should just secede from the Union and take the trusts with her.

We call attention to an article in the next column from the pen of one of our distinguished citizens which will bear a careful reading for several reasons. We ask for it a careful and considerate reading.

Dr. J. CUMMING SMITH, of the Tabernacle Presbyterian church in Indianapolis, whose theories as reported for the solution of the race problem in America by the intermarriage of the races, caused much comment, states that he was not correctly reported. He meant after the lapse of four or five centuries, when the colored race had been subjected to the best influences and socially, morally and intellectually, become the peer of any race then that solution is possible. He spoke of it only as a possibility and not as a sure remedy to be applied immediately. He says that the latter idea is extremely distasteful to him and so far from advocating it he would be very much opposed. He thinks the problem will solve itself in the course of the elevation of the races. All this does not commit the Dr. to a very definite policy, and gives the widest room for speculation. The intermarriage theory has been much discussed and inasmuch as it is distasteful to the great majority of both races, there is no immediate danger of the experiment being tried. Four or five centuries is quite soon enough.

In Carter Harrison's speech at the Jefferson banquet in Milwaukee he gave utterance to the following sentiment that will receive the hearty endorsement of every true Democrat:

A STALWART DEMOCRAT.
"Stalwart young Democracy need not look for an incentive. The example is set for it in the person of our national leader. Two years ago the party made its fight under a leader with private life so stainless, with personal character so blameless, the people followed him, and follow him still with such zeal as the crusaders displayed in the paladins of old."

"Ours is the party of the people. Unless we serve the people honestly and fairly we are faithless to our trust. Duty requires us to strike the first blow at corruption within our own party ranks. Let the word go forth, the Democracy will not tolerate a man, no matter how profuse his professed devotion to the party creed, who does not place his obligation to the public above any and every personal consideration. If Democracy means anything it means the honest service of the people. No man can be a Democrat whose integrity is not above suspicion. He who seeks public office for private gain is a traitor to everything for which Democracy stands, and for him there should be no place within the party ranks. It should be the duty of every true Democrat to scourge him from the temple of the party faith."

The editor of the Cincinnati Enquirer in answer to some questions by a correspondent signing himself Broad Gauge, as to who is a Democrat, makes some very pertinent remarks. Among other things he says that it is his opinion that the prime original test of Democracy is in fidelity to the Republic as against monarchical forms. More specifically a Democrat is one who adhering to the broad, general principles of Democracy, and exercising all his right of free thought and free speech, yet is willing to concede to the majority of his party the right to prescribe the policy to be followed by that party. A Democrat believes in individual freedom, and chooses to exercise that privilege. At the same time he is not a good Democrat who does not yield to the will of the majority. In no other way can the principles of popular government be carried out. In conclusion the Enquirer says that a vote for Bryan in 1896 was the best test of a man's Democracy.

The one hundred and twelfth anniversary of the birth of Henry Clay was appropriately celebrated in the public institutions of Kentucky. So should ever be kept green the memory of the man who "would rather be right than President." The sentiment is worthy of an immortal memory, and all Americans can afford to do honor to the name of the man who gave them utterance. It is well to keep fresh in mind the great names in our history,—the Washingtons, the Jeffersons, the Adamases, the Jacksons, the Websters, the Clays, the Lincolns and the Grants. They were men of whom any nation might well be proud, not infallible, but strong in honest conviction, even if sometimes in error. In honoring them, we do honor to our country. The debt we owe is great; the measure of praise we may accord is small.

The Raleigh and her crew were welcomed home with genuine American enthusiasm, such as should be accorded to the vessel and men who fired the first shot at Manila. A solid creature is he whose blood does not stir and heart leap at the coming of the doers of such gallant deeds, and give them fitting welcome. All honor to those who so gloriously bore their part in that day of history making in Manila bay.

The assertion of a German correspondent that the first intimation given the inhabitants of Apia of an intention to bombard the city, was the falling of shells, is calculated to create considerable prejudice against the British and Americans. The truth of the assertion may be very reasonably questioned, because of its utter inconsistency with the general character of naval officers of those two nations, yet, sufficient credence may be gained among Germans to add greatly to the feeling of irritation now existing. It would be hard indeed to make Americans believe that it is true.

A good many Republican editors are greatly exercised because Bryan talks so much. They say he will kill himself at that. If so why do they want to stop the man? If he chooses a slow method of political suicide why should the Republican editor weep? His ready sympathy is as astonishing as it must be gratifying to the recipient.

The Ohio crop of gubernatorial candidates is a growing one. It will soon be one candidate to every six privates, after the manner of the Cuban army. Who is the man that sowed the dragon's teeth in the fertile political soil of Ohio? When he walks into the field, then what?

The net of the law is drawing apparently closer to Senator Quay. The loophole through which his escape is to be made is not yet visible. What the Senator's opinion of the law may be is not in evidence. It probably is not flattering.

Call Them by Their Right Names.
Give a highwayman the dress and appearance of a gentleman, persuasiveness in speech and a courteous demeanor, and he will work a ten-fold havoc.

Give a vile policy an innocent name and let that name be generally adopted, and it will be clothed with powers for evil such as it never could have acquired otherwise.
The Democratic press has been too careless in adopting the nomenclature of the Republican party. It should never speak of the tax imposed to keep out competition in the sales of manufactured articles other than as the "Tariff Tax." It is very well known that high protective tariff was instituted by the Republican party for a two-fold purpose—to enrich the manufacturer, and to create a powerful and active support for the party in the persons of those beneficiaries. The party has dubbed this iniquity "Protection," proclaims it the special guardian of labor, and the Democratic press, though devoting columns to the demonstration of the fraudulence of this title, nevertheless, continues to use it, without even quotation marks.
Drop it! Call it what it really is—Tariff-Tax.

Another spawn of iniquity, clothed with power and sent out to destroy by the Republican party, is the Gold Trust—that apocalyptic monstrosity that looks like a lamb, yet has the voice of a dragon of the pit. We all know the affectionate and endearing names given it by the Republican party—"honest money," "sound money," "the best in the world," etc. The Democratic press has, in some instances, repeated the first two names without a single mark to denote a repudiation of these terms, and almost invariably it speaks almost respectfully of the gold standard when it knows full well that it never was made the standard at all, save by a fraud which puts the stamp of illegality upon the act.

That the so-called gold standard is a gold trust, whose direct beneficiaries may be counted upon the fingers of one hand, requires no argument to substantiate. It is true it has not been compelled to go to that home of the trusts, New Jersey, to get itself incorporated, and to put itself under the protection of law, but this is because it has no need of such protection; it is more powerful than the law, the state and the nation—nay, this octopus holds all nations in the clasp of its tentacles, and cares not how they writhe and strike to get loose.
Call it always what it is—the "Gold Trust," and when the trusts are enumerated, if the press can spare sufficient space, put it at the head of the list, and in big caps, displayed to indicate its relation to the others.

"Expansion" is another term coined by its friends to hide the iniquity of the thing that it represents. It is the highest absurdity to apply a term so comprehensive to an act having such tenuity, and is wicked to impart such innocency to a thing so monstrous. The Democratic press makes itself a partaker in the crimes, by neglecting to characterize the thing as it should be. It is conquest, as ruthless and barbarous as that by which the robber Duke of Normandy overran the Saxon farmers, spoiled and enslaved them—only there was this difference. The Saxon opposed indeed target of bull hide to shield of iron, leather coat to coat of mail, unarmored men on foot to armored men on horseback, yet otherwise they were upon terms of equality—there were bows against bows, spears against spears, and sword against sword. So William's conquest has some title to consideration as warfare. But this swapping of one or two white men for two or three hundred yellow men whose nakedness cannot be covered by the details of maneuvers of troops or the exploiting of the hardships of heat, fatigue, the difficult passage of rivers etc. Why, if our troops had been merely practicing field maneuvers, with occasional sham battles, the casualties would have been as great as those entailed upon them by the "war" with the Philippino.

Did Spain have any title to the land and the people, such as a republic ought to recognize? Title by conquest, title by compulsion, may be suffered in other nations but such title cannot be recognized by signature, with the hand and seal of a republic like ours without a violation of the most vital principle of our government.

The republican party, in the past has left no change unrun when holding forth upon the subject of the sacred rights of the individual regardless of "race, color, or previous condition of servitude." But in the treaty with Spain its highest representatives deliberately bought 7,000,000 human beings and all their holdings, and now, because these unhappy people will not acquiesce in this "league with death and covenant with hell" (see old republican speeches,) they are directing their slaughter, and the desolation of their once peaceful homes. They are hurrying the job too, in order that before 1900 nature may have time to cover up the blackened ruins, wash out the bloodstains, and level the grave mounds of a people who never before had cause to hate us with a deep, undying hatred.

Drop "Expansion." Call it conquest or extermination.
