WOMAN'S CAUSE

AND BUSINESS SENSE THE BURDEN OF TALK LAST NIGHT.

The Meeting to Consider Co-ordinate Education at Wabash College an Interesting One.

The meeting called for last night by the Business Men's Committee to discuss the question of co-ordinate education at Wabash College was well attended, a great deal of interest having been stirred up over the question. It was discussed in all its different phases, both by citizens of the town and those in authority at the college. Judge Harney was made chairman and Walter Hulet, secretary. The report of the Business Men's Committee was read by George W. Graham, and was as follows:

MR. CHAIRMAN, LADIES AND GENTLEMEN:—I suppose I am called on as a member of the executive committee of the business men of our city, by whom this meeting was called, to state the position of our citizens as this committee understands it as regard to the matter of co-ordinate education in Wabash College.

The members of this committee in the past few days have had occasion to converse with many of our representative citizens on this subject, and we find a perfect unanimity of opinion, and we wish at once and for all time to set at rest any doubt that may be in the minds of trustees, faculty or friends as to the wish of the citizens of Crawfordsville for the admission of girls to Wabash College. The committee has called this meeting with an earnest hope that the meeting here to-night may be the means of leaving the loaf. That the bonds of friendship between the governing authorities of our college and our citizens may be more closely drawn, and a unity of purpose more clearly established. The committee in considering the proposition look at it only from the business or selfish standpoint. Not how much benefit would be bestowed on woman kind (for that is incalculable,) but how much would Crawfordsville be benefitted financially, and consider the benefits to be derived innumerable.

Think of the number of families that could be drawn to our midst for educational advantages for their sons and daughters who now go elsewhere, and consider the proportion of those families whose residence among us would be so firmly established during those years that they would never depart from our beautiful little city.

Think of the number of our own daughters who are now compelled to go abroad for higher education. I am told there are about forty of these. The expense of these forty girls will foot up a total of $20,000 per year that ought to be left in Crawfordsville, and if we consider the number of young ladies we could reasonably expect from our own county, it would certainly exceed the magnificent sum of $50,000 per annum. Now add to this the expense of a student body of 500 at $4.50 per week, and you have a grand total $275,000 that ought to be spent in Crawfordsville each year from this institution.

A gentleman of this city on going to the station recently discovered a party of eighteen young ladies, and on inquiring the cause was told they were all bound for school at Valparaiso.

Now compare this with the fact that there are to-day more pupils on the third floor of our central school building than there is in all departments of Wabash college, and you have what is and what ought to be. We desire to impress on those in authority in Wabash College that we approach them in a spirit of helpfulness. The welfare of the college certainly concerns this community deeply, and there is nothing for the betterment, its greater success but what will personally appeal to every citizen of Crawfordsville, and voicing the sentiments of the community your committee feels justified in saying nothing can so enthuse new and enlarged life as the admission of women to Wabash College.

Dr. Burroughs made the statement that to bring about what the people were demanding it would cost $100,000 to erect the dormitory, pay the dean's salary and endow chairs of art and music.

J. Maurice Thompson not having carefully looked the ground over was not prepared to state what should or should not be done. He knew that he was in favor of the equal education of the sexes and favored any plan looking in that direction.

O. M. Gregg, of the board of trustees, co-incided in the opinion of Dr. Burroughs that it would take at least $100,000 to properly prepare for the reception of young women into the college.

James E. Evans looked at the financial side of the problem. The most of this money would have to be raised right in Crawfordsville, and it would be impossible. He thought the amount was excessive, and thought a dormitory was unnecessary, that it would be preferable to have the girls in the homes of the town.

James Wright expressed himself in favor of co-ordinate education, and to get at the sense of the meeting he offered the following resolution:

WHEREAS, Wabash College with its many advantages is recognized as one of the leading institutions of learning, and

WHEREAS, said institution as now maintained furnishes education to men only, it is therefore

RESOLVED, that it be the sense of this meeting that it would be to the better interest of all friends of said institution to provide a co-ordinate department of said college for young women, and to establish co-ordinate education facilities in connection therewith, at which young women may receive an education similar to that which is now given in said institution, and be it further

RESOLVED, That a committee of seven be selected to canvass and solicit funds among the friends of such proposed college for the purpose of erecting suitable buildings, and providing an adequate endowment fund to carry on such institution.

P. S. Kennedy proposed the following amendment to Mr. Wright's resolution, without any whereases:

RESOLVED, That it is the sense of this meeting that the trustees of Wabash College should, at once, open the doors of that institution to all young ladies who may wish to enter it for the purpose of acquiring a higher education, and that their admission should be upon the same terms and conditions that young men are admitted. Wabash College is a public institution in law, and it should be so in fact. Its doors should be open to the public, and not to one sex more than another.

Mr. Kennedy pressed the adoption of his amendment in a vigorous speech saying that art and music was not what the young women wanted, but just what the boys were getting—a solid education. There was plenty of room in the college for 1,000, instead of the 190 they now had. One floor of the Central school building accommodated more pupils than the college had. Mr. Kennedy warmed up to his subject and quizzed Dr. Burroughs closely. The Dr. admitted finally that if 100 young men would come to the college he could find room for them. Mr. Kennedy replied that it took no more room for girls than for boys.

Mrs. J. M. Waugh said it was co-education and not co-ordinate education that the girls wanted. Dr. May, Mrs. McClure and others made speeches in the same strain. Judge Sellers closed the debate in a speech similar to that of Mr. Kennedy in which he said it was not lack of cash but selfishness which closed the doors against the girls.

At this point George Graham offered an amendment which was accepted by Mr. Kennedy in lieu of his, to the resolution. Mr. Graham's resolution was as follows:

RESOLVED, That a committee of seven shall be appointed by the chairman of this meeting to confer the trustees at their June meeting to discover what measures are necessary to carry into effect the above resolution.

The resolution went through unanimously.

The chair appointed the following committee: Peter S. Kennedy, chairman, James Wright, George Graham, Mrs. Jas. Waugh, A. F. Ramsey, W. P. Herron and Louis Bischof.

The meeting was not only interesting, but at times warm. Whether the end will be reached will be watched with interest. The invitation is extended to Wabash to open her doors to girls next September. It is with her to accept.

Alamo is preparing to give a grand horse show on June 3. This is in the fine horse section of the state and there is no doubt but the show of fine stock on exhibition on that occasion will bring lovers of fine horses from a long distance.

LINDEN HAPPY.

The Manufacture of Stuffing for War Ships Assured Thing.

Patience is a beautiful thing. It teaches men great lessons. The most marvelous exhibition of this characteristic on record has been shown in the town of Linden for the past two years. For that long the people of that thriving village have had supreme confidence that the Marsden Celulose people meant business and that at last there would be planted on the peice of ground in the angle between the Clover Leaf railroad and the Monon a huge factory which would eat up all the corn stalks in four counties and furnish everybody with a job. John S. Bennett, even amid the ashes of the burned stalks, stood up and declared that it would come, he knew it would come; he would wager his old gray head that it would be there. All the fun poked at the proposition never caused the sublime confidence of the old man to waver. His patience is now historic. At last the weary wait is over, and unbounded joy reigns in Linden. True patience has been rewarded and the celulose factory is to be erected. Yesterday a telegram was received at Linden from the Marsden people at Philadelphia which read as follows:

"We have decided to build the plant at Linden. The plans will be prepared immediately, and work will begin within thirty days."

Everyone in Linden now says: "I told you so," but the credit of sticking close and undaunted by the guns belongs to Col. Bennett. Others faltered and were inclined to doubt, but he never did. We are glad to see the factory come. It is also announced that a large paper mill will also be erected in connection, and paper made from certain parts of the corn stalks. There are several things manufactured from them not the least of which is paper. It will be a great thing for that section of the country, as every ton of stripped stalks brings the farmer three dollars.

THE CLOVER LEAF.

This Road to Be Gobbled by the Standard Oil Octopus.

It has been known for some time that the Standard Oil Company is quietly securing the stock and bonds of the Clover Leaf, and that when the reorganization of the property takes place the Standard will take control of it. This line runs from Toledo to St. Louis, through Ohio, Indiana and Illinois, and though the road is in the hands of a receiver, it is doing a good business. The new President of the Clover Leaf, Charles Miller, is one of the Vice-Presidents of the Standard Oil Company. The Standard Oil Company owns the Missouri, Kansas & Texas, and it is reported that the Clover Leaf is to become part of that system, with which it could be connected at St. Louis. This arrangement would give a line from Texas to Ohio, and a steamboat line from Toledo to Buffalo. The Standard Oil Company also owns the Evansville & Terre Haute.—Indianapolis News.

CHRISTIAN ENDEAVOR.

Tenth Annual Convention of the Crawfordville District at Darlington.

The annual convention of Christian Endeavor for the district composed of the counties of Parke, Vermillion, Fountain, Montgomery and Tippecanoe counties was held at Darlington Tuesday and Wednesday, and was by far the best and most enthusiastic convention ever held in the district. There were over one hundred delegates present. All the trains were met by large bands of Endeavorers, and the newly arrived delegates were escorted to the Methodist church where they registered and places of entertainment assigned. The programme was one of exceptional interest, many noted speakers being in attendance. The music was in charge of Prof. W. E. M. Hackleman, of Indianapolis, who has no peer in the conduct of convention and revival music. The delegates were welcomed to Darlington by O. W. Griest, and Miss Lucile Dunnington gracefully spoke a welcome to the Endeavorers from the Darlington Epworth League.

Wednesday afternoon there was a rally of Junior Endeavorers, addressed by Mrs. Isabel M. Newlin, of Bloomington, who is the district superintendent of junior work, Miss Anna Minnick, of Worthington, being unable to attend her place was filled on the programme by Mrs. Newlin. Mrs. Newlin resigned the superintendency of the district juniors, and Chas. L. Plymate was appointed to fill the place.

Wednesday evening Dr. Brumbaugh delivered an address on "In His Steps" to a large audience.

Thursday's session was filled full of good things. Addresses were made by Rev. R. V. Hunter, of Indianapolis, Rev. J. W. McDonald, of Logansport, and Rev. Wallace Tharp, of Crawfordville.

Miss Lota L. Cooper, of Ladoga, was re-elected district secretary.

While the delegates were waiting for the train to go home they sang "Blest be the Tie," and as the train pulled out the Darlington Endeavorers sang "God be With You Till we Meet Again."

The next convention will be held at Ladoga.
