

THE COMING WOMAN.

Mrs. C. S. McDONALD, Editor.

WOMAN SUFFRAGE.

The Religio-Philosophical Journal, speaking of the Chicago Woman Suffrage Convention, says:

It is certainly a new feature in diplomacy, when women, gifted with all the great impulses and noble self-command of their nature, can put forth such incontrovertible arguments, such convincing logic, as to command the attention of the press, the pulpit and the scholarship of the age. Indeed, it will not be long before senators and presidents will hear them as the voice of a united people, who make senators and appoint presidents. The calm, dispassionate and earnest bearing of the great and truly eminent leaders in this movement, is significant of the genius and spirit of the times. The fact is proven that woman can face oppression, parry opposition, amend constitutions, appoint delegations and preside at conventions, with all the easy majesty and grace of one who knows the secret of her power and the final triumph of her cause.

It is truly most inspiring to witness the quiet, deep and earnest life of this movement. Like a stream, taking its tribute from every bursting spring and dashing rill, to empty its united power at last into the heart of the great ocean. These labors of the Woman Suffrage party are destined to preserve to America the fullness of fair and equal representation. The press that sneaks behind a covert or open attack upon a congress of the noblest women in our land, must be conducted by some poor "devil," who would abuse his own mother! When, in place of fashionable folly, dissipation, levity and heartlessness, such women as Mrs. Stanton, Livermore, Stone, Anthony, and their burning satellites, tear off the dark mantle of supineness and subjection, to lead on their less heroic sisters in the great battle of human rights and republican equality, the man who dare oppose, should be yoked to some heartless beauty or simpering vanity, till Grecian bends and helpless satins have cured him of his mistake.

But let the women of America know they have at last touched the right chord, and henceforth, all great and noble men, not only here, but across the Atlantic, are one with them in rolling on the car of human liberty. We say, God speed the day when constitutions framed in ignorance shall stand amended, and all enslaving enactments of the ancient rule be forever blotted from the pages of American legislation. All hail, then, to the noble women who speed the day of perfect freedom!

SAD HABEAS CORPUS CASE.

Child Taken From a Mother's Custody.

Some nine or ten years ago, says the Kansas City papers, a Mr. Brown was residing somewhere in Illinois, married a widow lady several years his senior who was possessed of property amounting to about eight thousand dollars. From this union a girl was born. Some time after Brown was divorced from his better half and left for parts unknown. It appears that lately he heard that his little daughter had grown to be an attractive child. He hunted up the mother and child and found them at Kansas City. A writ of habeas corpus was secured by Brown for the possession of this child, living with its mother, who seems to have again married. The result of the trial is stated by the Journal of the 21st as follows:

The habeas corpus case of Brown vs. Wadsworth, which has been in court for the past two days, and which has excited considerable interest, closed yesterday in favor of the plaintiff, Mr. Brown. The writ was granted and the hand of the law took little "Kittie" from her mother's arms and gave her into the keeping of her father.

The child is a beautiful child, with fair complexion and golden ringlets, and about eight years of age. The distressed mother clung to her child, and would not give her up, while the little one's tears and frantic cries to be left with her "mama" stirred up a sympathy among the by-standers, that threatened every minute to break out in some violent act.

The scene was painful and exciting in the extreme. The father, cool and determined, took his daughter from Marshal Oayden, and, amid her shrieks and cries, and the interference of her mother and other relatives, placed her in a close carriage, and was driven rapidly away. But before he got clear of the court house the civil authorities had the greatest effort to preserve peace. If the departure had been delayed ten minutes more, we believe that the citizens would have rescued the child and given it back to the weeping mother. The feeling was intense and a tear dimmed many a manly eye.

We learn that the carriage was driven opposite the residence of Dr. Thorne, in McGee's addition, when Mr. Brown got out, and wrapping the child in an overcoat, lifted her into a buggy that was driven up for that purpose, and the party drove off in an easterly direction. We understand that Mr. Brown lives in Illinois. So ended the domestic drama. We know but few particulars of the case but it seems a cruel law that will rob a mother of her child.

The Alumni dinner of the "University of Vermont," located at Burlington, was marked by an innovation characteristic of the times. The wives, sisters and lady friends of the Alumni were invited to the banquet, and their presence so intoxicated the hitherto lonely fellows, that every speech was full of their guests. How to address them was the problem—and the epithets Alumnae, Sorores, and Alumnisses were distributed with frightful prodigality. Some verses were read at the dinner, full of fun, of which the following is a specimen:

"WELCOME TO THE ALUMNISSES."

"I'd sooner be in Jericho,
Well bearded though I be,
Than here in this Jerusalem,
But for the Pharisee (fair I see.)
In this August Sanhedrin
Masterful Doctors,
A solemn Golgotha, as 'twere,
We'll not for these Sorores.

"Some twenty years or more we've sat
With publicans and sinners,
A company all Sadness (and you see)
At these Alumni dinners.
To us, at last there is revealed
The full Olympian glory,
The nectar and ambrosia
Of mythologic story:

"When goddesses with festive gods
Ate, spoke, and sipped their nectar,
With no Good Templar thereabout
As critical inspector;
When Jupiter on Juno smiled,
All loveliness bedecked in,
Forgetful for that blissful hour,
How often she'd heaped him.

"No longer may the Ages dark
Debase with vows monastic
The Church and fair Humanities,
The holy and scholastic.
The world does move; the present shows
A heavenward uprising
In learning, politics, and life
The age is womanizing.

"Against old Harvard's ived walls
A mighty force impinges;
Her gates, for ages locked and barred,
Are turning on their hinges;
And from her cloistered courts shall walk
Bre lustrous intervene,
Resistless, irrepressible,
A. B. s in crinoline!

The undersigned would most respectfully inform the public that the agency for the above, under letters patent celebrated manufactured paper goods, is established, and for the first time introduced in the United States.

Among the various accomplishments of science and art, this may be considered one of the greatest achievements of the age.

The renown which these goods have obtained in Europe for their exquisite elegance, flexibility, great durability and cheapness will at once recommend them to the American public.

The great demand for them, upon the manufacturers in Europe, prevented them thus far from sending a large supply. Thus the first invoice I will dispose of in small quantities only, merely to introduce and show their merit.

Wholesale dealers will not be dealt with for the present. No order will be filled for more than one dozen of any one article at one time to the same address.
