A tickling cough, from any cause, is quickly stopped by Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. And it is so thoroughly harmless and safe, that Dr. Shoop tells mothers everywhere to give it without hesitation even to very young babies.
The wholesome green leaves and tender stems of a lung-healing mountainous shrub, furnish the curative properties to Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. It calms the cough, and heals the sore and sensitive bronchial membranes.
No opium, no chloroform, nothing harsh used to injure or suppress.
Simply a rich plant extract, that helps to heal aching lungs. The Spaniards call this shrub which the Doctor uses "The Sacred Herb." Always demand Dr. Shoop's Cough Cure. W. H.

drugs and is in a yellow package.

Wouldn't Tip It
A Toronto man who visited England last summer appears to think that country the champion tip taker. He says: "Well, I had tipped every man down the well gent who seemed to own the house of commons down to the hireling who gummed the wrong labels on my luggage, and I went into the waiting room on the landing stage at Liverpool to wash my hands of everything English, and what do you think stared me in the face when I had finished? A placard saying, 'Please tip the basin.' I'll be hanged if I did!"

Monuments.
Dr. Griffin—I must say the world is very ungrateful toward our profession.
How seldom one sees a public memorial erected to a doctor! Mrs. Gollighly—How seldom? Oh, doctor, think of our cemeteries!—London Answers.

Doesn't Always Follow.
Because some men get over a fence safely with a loaded gun it is not always safe to assume that they won't examine a mule's heels to settle a bet.
—Washington Post.

The Difference.
Upgarson—Doesn't Weerins bore you nearly to death? He talks like a phonograph. Atom—Not at all. When a phonograph runs down it stops.—

Motoring.

tion."

"No; even then—it's blank verse!"— London Opinion.

"Why don't we see men like the novelists describe?"

Courier-Journal.

Gave It Up.
A friend of the writer recently made application for a public appointment in a small Scottish town, and, thinking that his chances of success would be greater by a little judicious canvassing, he resolved to call upon a few of the town councilors, in whose hands the appointment lay. Of the civic dignities' position in private life he knew nothing. Journeying to the town in question, he hired a cab at the railway station and requested the Jehu to take him to Councilor Bisset's, the treasurer. The councilor was found in his blacksmith's shop shoeing a horse.

"I'll see somebody of more importance than this, anyhow," said the candidate to himself, and, turning to the driver, he said, "Drive me to Councilor Maitland's office."
The cabman thereupon drove him to the local joiner's shop. This was worse even than the smithy, and in despair he ejaculated:
"Drive me to Councilor Gray's."
"I am Councilor Gray, sir," replied the cabman.
The answer staggered the candidate.
He quietly paid his fare and disappeared, resolved to leave his fate in their hands without prejudicing them in any way in his favor. — London Standard.

When Life Was Little Valued.
The 223 capital offenses which the old English law recognized as punishable by death did not keep down crime, and with the abolition of the death penalty for all crimes but murder crime in England, as well as everywhere else all over the world where the death penalty has been modified, lessened markedly, notes the Boston Traveler.

Edmond Burke said that he could in his time obtain the assent of the house of commons to any bill that carried the death punishment.
A man's life was not very valuable in those strenuous days. If he scratched his name on Westminster bridge, if he wore a wig or false mustache or any other disguise on a public road, if he cut down a young tree, if he stole property worth more than $125, if he had been transported for crime and returned a day ahead of the expiration of his term of punishment, if he wrote a threatening letter, if he stole a hide from a tanner's, for any and all of these things and for 200 more than these he was hanged by the neck until he was dead.

Animal Instinct.
A friend of mine saw two cats approaching each other on the top of a board fence. There was no room for them to pass each other, and he wondered what would happen. When they were near each other one of them stopped, turned around and retreated till it came to another board fence that joined at right angles the one they were on. The cat stepped off on this fence and waited there till the other went by. My friend thought this act showed an appreciation of the problem beyond the reach of instinct. No doubt those cats had met before, and one was master of the other. What more natural than that the defeated cat should retreat before the superior and when it came to the other fence step off upon it and let the victor pass?
The action involved no mental process any more than when two inert bodies in motion meet each other and one gives way. There was no other course open to the cat. If she or he had turned back and taken to the side fence solely to accommodate the other cat, why, that were another matter.
The Gordon setter that met a train of cars upon a railroad bridge and stepped down upon one of the timbers of the bridge and stood there while the train passed gave no proof of reasoning powers. It was the only thing the dog could do. Nearly all animals know enough to get out the way of danger. If they did not, what would become of the race of animals?—John Burroughs in Outing Magazine.

Old Roman Laws.
The old Roman laws, according to Columbun, conferred on the husband complete empery over the wife. All she owned or earned was vested in him, and he acquired the same rights over her person and property as if she were his natural daughter. The wife, on the other hand, acquired all the rights to a child and to her husband's name and succession in the event of an intestate estate, and she could exercise all the privileges to which her sex admitted. The power of the ancient Roman father over his offspring was originally perpetual, nor could the child be emancipated from the father's control during the father's life except by that parent's consent, nor did he become sui juris until the father (being himself sui juris) died, when the son was emancipated by the law. In those simple days the father had legal permission to scourge his children or to send them, fettered like slaves, to work on his estate or even to kill them, choosing whatever means for their taking off he thought proper.

How the Brahman Cleans His Teeth.
When the Brahman cleans his teeth he must use a small twig cut from one of a number of certain trees, and before he cuts it he must make his act known to the gods of the woods. He must not indulge in this clearly habit every day. He must abstain on the sixth, the eighth, the ninth, the fourteenth, the fifteenth and the last day of the moon, on the days of new and full moon, on the Tuesday in every week, on the day of the constellation under which he was born, on the day of the week and on the day of the month which correspond with those of his birth, at an eclipse, at the conjunction of the planets, at the equinoxes and other unlucky epochs and also on the anniversary of the death of his father or mother. Any one who cleans his teeth with his bit of stick on any of the above mentioned days will have hell as his portion.—"Hindoo Manners," by Abbe Dubois.

The Way to the Station.
A party of automobilists was touring through Virginia. An accident to the car forced them to take a train home. As they walked down the road seeking some one from whom they could inquire their way they met an old dandy, says the Success Magazine.
"Will you kindly direct us to the railroad station?" one of the party asked.
"Certainly," he responded. "Keep a-goin' right down this road till yo' gets to where two mo' roads branches out.
Den yo' take de left one an' keep on a-goin' till yo' gets to where de ole postoffice uster be."

Creative.
A certain man coming from abroad was taken up by the smart set.
"We'll make a lion of him," quoth they, "for the distinction he will thereupon reflect upon us."
But the man was too little. It takes much material to make a lion.
"Then we'll make a monkey of him," said the smart set, determined to have some exercise for their creative genius.
Nor was the world the worse off.
For, after all, it is the contribution to the gaiety of nations that is especially needed.—Puck.

Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional, but both are important, both essential.
Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local.
Dr. Shoop's Restorative is the constitutional.
The former—Dr. Shoop's Night Cure—is a topical medicament suppository remedy, while Dr.
Shoop's Restorative is a systemic, internal treatment. The Restorative reaches throughout the entire system, seeking the repair of all nerve all tissue, and all blood ailments.
The "Night Cure," as its name implies, does its work while you sleep. It soothes sore and inflamed mucous surfaces, heals local weaknesses and discharges, while the Restorative, eases nervous excitement, gives renewed vigor and ambition, builds up wasted tissues, bringing about renewed strength, vigor, and energy. Take Dr. Shoop's Restorative—Tablets or Liquid—as a general tonic to the system. For positive local help, use as well
