PLANKS

Mr. Taft is the leading Republican candidate for the presidency. The tariff plank adopted by the Ohio Republicans, in a convention that instructed for Taft's nomination, must be taken as expressing Taft's views. This plank—the same old, dreary, monotonous thing—is as follows:

"A revision of the tariff by a special session of the next congress, insuring the maintenance of the true principle of protection by imposing such customs duties as will equal the difference between the cost of production at home and abroad, together with a reasonable profit to the end that, without excessive duties, American manufacturers, farmers, producers and wage earners may have adequate protection."

Mr. Bryan will be the Democratic candidate for the presidency. In view of that fact the Democrats of his own state, in a convention that instructed for him, inserted the following tariff resolution in its platform:

"We welcome the belated promise of tariff reform now offered by a part of the Republican party as a tardy recognition of the righteousness of the Democratic position on this question, but the people cannot safely intrust the execution of this important work to a party which is so obligated to the highly protected interests that it postpones relief until after the election. And we call attention to the significant fact that the promise now made by those Republicans who favor tariff revision is wholly vitiated by the use of the very qualifying words under which the present tariff inequities have grown up. We favor immediate revision of the tariff by the reduction of import duties. Articles entering into competition with articles controlled by trusts should be placed upon free list; material reduction should be made in the tariff on necessities of life, and reductions should be made on such other schedules as may be necessary to restore the tariff to a revenue basis."

In connection with the Nebraska utterance, please notice the "qualifying words" in the Ohio platform.

If the Republican state convention indorses Governor Hanly, "as a matter of politics," what will it say about the last legislature, which Hanly charged with perfidy? If it indorses the legislature, which twiddled its fingers at Hanly most contemptuously, knocked the stuffing out of his favorite bills and mused up his nerves, what will it say about the governor? That convention is going to have a good many puzzles before it.

Lieutenant Governor Hug Th. Miller of Columbus, and one of the four Republican candidates for governor, was meeting his party friends here today. Th. Lieutenant governor is the only candidate of his party who is dignifying himself and the high office of governor by not engaging in a rough-and-tumble bar room method of securing convention delegates. If nominated he will represent good citizenship to say the least.

The Connersville Courier, a Republican paper, says that "it is worse than foolishness for a Republican congressman to go before his constituents and tell them that this is no panic that we are passing through." And then the Courier, with a justifiable impatience, asks: "If this is not a panic, what the hell is it?"

John Edwards has done a neat job of painting and graining on the interior of the new Carroll home.

OLD FOLKS HOME

Methodists Discussing Project—May Not Be Erected at Warren

BLUFFTON WANTS IT

And May Land It If They Can Raise the Required Money

Bluffton, Ind., March 12.—It will be of interest to every Methodist to learn that there is a movement on foot by which the M. E. old people's home, which it was proposed to erect at Warren, Ind., probably will be erected elsewhere, if at all, owing to the inability of the old home committee to raise the necessary funds for a home at that place.

The town of Warren came into prominence two years ago as a site for the home through the offer of William H. Chopson, a pioneer resident of that place, to donate $25,000 toward such an institution, his offer being subject to the stipulation that the church should raise a similar amount in order to secure the donation. Later he augmented his original offer by offering to raise his donation to $50,000, provided the church raised a similar amount.

Work hard as they might the committee could not get the pledges for the amount desired to balance Mr. Chopson's donation, and then it was that the committee began casting about for other propositions. There now seems to be a good prospect that Bluffton may land the home, as parties in this city have told the committee that they have confidence that if the home is promised Bluffton they can raise the amount desired to balance the offer of the Warren philanthropist.

There was a meeting of the old home committee at Warren yesterday and it was attended by Presiding Elder C. U. Wade, of the Ft. Wayne district and by the Rev. J. K. Cecil, of this city, and at this meeting Mr. Chopson said that he would agree, since it appeared that the money could not be raised for a home at Warren.

The Kalver-Hurst nuisance case to abate the operation of the fertilizer plant, north of this city, will begin next Monday and the witnesses are now being subpoenaed.
