A COMPARISON

—CONTINUED

Yesterday we published a table of the disbursements in the governor's office in 1907 as compared with the expenditures in that office during 1893. It showed a wonderful result, namely, that the money necessary to bring comfort to Governor Hanly was over $46,000 more than the cash necessary for Governor Mathews, a democratic governor. But as surprising as those figures and even more so is shown by a similar comparison in the state auditor's office, officially given out as follows:

STATE AUDITOR'S OFFICE.

Special elections are being held over Indiana today to fill vacancies where necessary for representatives to Hanly's special session of the legislature. It should furnish some light as to how the people feel on state issues up to date and the leaders will use it as a guide from now on.

Rev. Sam Small will deliver a democratic speech at Hartford City tonight. A few of the faithful from this city will go down on the 6:40 o'clock car to hear the illustrious gentleman. Small was at Decatur last night.—Bluffton Banner.

Harmony in New York, and among the Democrats. It does sound queer, don't it? Tammany and the gold men and the Bryan men and all the rest of them are for the party and with the turmoil in the Republican ranks it looks like a runaway at this stage of the race.

Now comes a most deplorable coincidence in the life of the well known minister, Rev. W. E. McCarty, of Portland, known and at one time admired by hundreds of Adams county people. The fact that his bride of but a few fleeting months has filed a divorce complaint wherein sensational charges questioning the reputation of the aged minister, are inserted, will in all probability, greatly incapacitate him as a spellbinder in behalf of Uncle Nate and in connection thereto, annul the effect, if there has been any, to the letters he has written in behalf of the congressional candidate.

Walter Wellman says concerning Hughes nomination for governor of New York: It may easily be imagined that the leaders who fought Hughes almost to the last ditch and yielded only because the country, the state, the president and the candidate for president were against them, are anything but happy in their surrender. In the convention hall today they sat silent and sullen. They could be forced to vote for Hughes, the man who has snubbed and ostracized them, but they could not be compelled to cheer for him. Leader after leader voted his delegation for Hughes in a voice which sounded more like a groan than an approval. Rarely, if ever, in the history of American politics have the active men of a party found it necessary to swallow as bitter a dose as the New York Republicans gulped down today. Rarely, if ever, has a party carried a fairly close state when its active workers were as sore and disheartened as are the organization men here at the close of this well-nigh unprecedented contest.

couraged in his efforts. The offense for which he was arrested was committed over a year ago. It was charged that he made out a check on an Elkhart bank and passed it on Ditzler. Later it was learned that he had no funds in the bank and never had had. As a result the grand jury indicted him, but the indictment was quashed. Another grand jury reindicted him. He has been in jail about three weeks awaiting trial.—Bluffton Banner.
