NO POSTAL SAVINGS BANKS THIS SESSION OF CONGRESS

Word from Washington is to the effect that if postal savings banks are to become an institution of the United States government at all, they will not be the creatures of the sixtieth congress. Leaders of the senate, where the bill to establish this kind of money depository at present rests, are said to have reached a determination not to forward the measure at this session. From this it would appear the senate does not feel that the duty is incumbent on that body to fulfill such part of the pledges of the republican party as is embraced in the postal savings bank measure. After attempts to obtain consideration for the postal savings banks bill by the senate during the latter part of the last session had failed, it was agreed that it should be made a special order for December 14. This was considered at the time as meaning the adoption of the bill and its friends were elated that a definite time was fixed for disposition of the matter. The leaking out of the news that the senate will not touch the bill this session doubtless is a rude shock. The Chicago platform under the head of "Postal Savings Banks" said, "We favor the establishment of a postal savings bank system for the convenience of the people and the encouragement of thrift." The republicans have claimed the postal savings bank proposal as a party asset. The future course of the measure will be watched with interest.—Fort Wayne Sentinel.

Important legislation is seldom expected from congress in a short session. The Sixtieth congress is not likely to differ from its predecessors in this respect, although owing to the president's recommendations the schedule may include questions sufficiently urgent to occupy the attention up to the last hour of March 3 next. Problems of labor and of transportation will not cease from troubling because of the passing of one bill or the defeat of many bills.

If promoters of "just as good for less money" articles would get busy on all commodities they might put a stop to clamor for a tariff to fence out stuff "made in Germany."

THE LODGE NEWS

The Royal Neighbor Officers
Other Social Items of Interest

The officers who were elected Tuesday night to guide the destiny of the Royal Neighbors lodge are Mrs. W. E. Smith, oracle; Mrs. W. H. Fledder-Johann, vice oracle; Mrs. Olie Scheiman, past oracle; Mrs. E. E. DeWitt, recorder; Mrs. Lettie Enos, receiver; Mrs. William Biggs, chancellor; Mrs. Anna Yahn, marshal; Mrs. William Jeffries, inner sentinel; Mrs. Cliff Lee, outer sentinel; managers, Mrs. Dorsey Hoagland and Mrs. William Richards; physician, Dr. W. E. Smith. The lodge has wisely selected the above mentioned, as they are all able to perform their duties efficiently.

Berton Kiefer and Miss Harriett Ritter were united in marriage at the home of Charles Hill in Van Wert last evening. The couple is well known to many Decatur people.

Those who forward social items by mail to the Democrat are kindly requested to write plainly, at least the names, so that no mistakes will be made in publishing the article.

The union young people's service to be held at the Evangelical church next Sunday evening should be largely attended. The service will begin at 6:00 o'clock and last for one hour.

The members of the Ben Hurs are requested to be present at Friday night's meeting. Business of importance will be transacted.

"Woman has just one duty in life," says A. Man, "and that is to look pretty." He makes the demand as if it were the easiest duty he could inflict on femininity, but what wots mere man of the price of face powder, or the cost of the manicure's services? How would he like to spend hours a day with the masseuse, having all the individuality rubbed out of the face, and doll baby nonentity left in its place. How should he, pray, like to restrain all expression of mirth, or sorrow, or anger, lest perchance a few tiny wrinkles or crowsfeet make their appearance? Emerson, our New England philosopher and mystic, exclaims, "Beauty is its own excuse for being," and so it is, if it's the right, sort, but perish the thought of too much and too patent loveliness. Better to scrub floors and wash dishes and sew endless seams for a living than to be a slave to the one duty of looking pretty. No woman should be ugly, but every woman if she thinks the right thoughts and beautifies her mind with lovely ideals will reap a harvest of loveliness that will shine in her face through the medium of her soul.

The union meeting of the young people's societies of the city to be held at the Evangelical church Sunday night, beginning at six o'clock, will be interesting, and the public is cordially invited to be present.

The members of the Eastern Star will meet tomorrow evening and a full attendance is desired as the election of officers will take place.

The Ladies' Mite Society of the M. E. church will meet at the home of Mrs. J. D. Hale tomorrow afternoon Dec. 11. All members and friends of the society are invited.

A SQUIRE SUMMONED

Failed to File Transcript and Must Do So—The Other Items

There came near being a law suit in circuit court this morning, but it didn't quite materialize. The cause William G. Smith vs. Merl Laisure, suit on account, demand $125, was set for a hearing. The parties and witnesses were here, the jury assembled and all in readiness, when it was discovered that the justice who had heard the case and from whom an appeal was taken, had failed to file a transcript. The defendant's attorney filed motion to dismiss the appeal and leave was granted plaintiff to file amended and perfected transcript of proceedings before the justice. Joel Liddy, who was summoned to appear in court this afternoon. He came on the 3:17 train and the case will be heard this afternoon, requiring about an hour. Peterson & Moran are attorneys for plaintiff and C. J. Lutz represents the defendant.

The Fort Wayne & Springfield R. R. Co. vs. Andrew Miller et al, condemnation proceedings, motion filed by plaintiff to strike out each and every exception. Objection filed by defendant.

W. G. McCormack, guardian of Warren and Savetta McQuiston, Silas W. Hale and W. W. Briggs, were appointed appraisers.

THE BOOKKEEPER.

His method of working is very appealing, and many a time have I stood in a state of dumb marvelling him add a column of figures from three to six feet long. Here is the way he does it, and it is exquisitely fascinating. He takes his pencil between his fingers, draws a deep breath catches his mental stride and is off. With the speed of a runaway automobile that deft hand shoots up the line, as with superhuman ability he annexes single, doubles, triplets and certainly combinations of greater number in mad haste. His eyes blink at the top, he relaxes for an instant, sets down a little figure with 42 to carry, and is off again. How he ever got the 42 to carry I do not know. I never could find it in my head or out, though I added it up at least fifteen times getting anywhere from 27 to 72 to carry. It was the largest single chunk of brain produce ever I witnessed. In desperation I divided the column into ten different installments and came within 3 of the correct solution, which being so small a difference and not worth fighting over, I let go. I would back that man against the best adding machine in the country, for the machine might break down; he never will.

Suits Worthy of Paris Artists

LITTLE details distinguish a Paris importation from the usual "shoppy" suit. This year there is the "Directoire" cut, the raised waist line, the sheath skirt effect, the high standing and lay-down collar, the patch pocket, the long sleeves, etc.

The "Bischof" models we are showing embody all these features. These goods are designed after the best creations of the leading foreign artists. You could go walking in Paris or Vienna and be in the reigning fashion with any one of these suits.

Come in. You can see the snap and smartness of these garments the instant you look in our mirrors. The wear is guaranteed both by us and the makers.

Mainly it is to your interest to make your selections now before the choicest patterns are taken. To give you even a greater inducement to come at once we have marked the most desirable garments far below their regular values.

We illustrate a few of the many we are showing. Look for the trade-mark "B. S. & S." in every garment.
