From present indications the democrats will be compelled to make another choice for their nominee for councilman in the first ward. T. M. Mr. Bulger went to Huntington a few days ago and will return Sunday with the view of packing his household goods.—Bluffton Banner.

Dozens of men wading about the weeds along the edges of the lakes near Warsaw, with pitchforks as spears, is not an unusual sight just now. The lakes abound with carp, which are spawning in the shallow water where they flounder around in a way that sounds much like pigs in a mudhole. Fish weighing from two to ten and twelve pounds are being pitched from the lakes by the dozens. All the fishermen of the town are taking part in the war of extermination, the carp being held responsible for the killing of hundreds of good fish.

Unmarried girls, unless they have reached the age of dignified spinsterhood, must run for home when the curfew whistle blows every night, in Royal Center, or Marshal Gaby will get them. Marshal Gaby has started a war on girls walking about the village streets after nightfall, and they must be out of sight when the whistle blows, or he will escort them home. He says that there has been entirely too much "spooning" going on, and he is not going to permit it. The fact that a girl has passed the age of twenty-one years, in his opinion, does not give her the right to "gad" the streets all night.
