In speaking of the scandalous mismanagement that is charged against the trustees and superintendent of the Jeffersonville reformatory, the Indianapolis Sun says:

The "policy" of Superintendent Whittaker and the reformatory board of trustees, under which good and hard working and "handy" prisoners are held in bondage to work for contractors, or to earn money on which others may draw interest; the policy under which men of clear records are robbed of the liberty the law gives them after the terms of their minimum sentences have run out, is being attacked on all sides.

Such a policy if pursued, should be attacked and condemned. It is an outrage on civilization. According to charges that have been made prisoners have been held for years after they had earned a parole, largely because they were good workmen and valuable to the prison contractors.

The terms of the custodian and engineer of the state house expired the middle of April. These officials had been appointed by the Republican governors for twelve years under the terms of an act passed in 1897. Governor Marshall, convinced that he had at least equal authority to make these appointments, issued commissions to two Democrats. Thereupon State Auditor Billheimer and Secretary of State Sims, proceeding under an act of 1895, which Governor Matthews had vetoed and which no one considered of any validity (although the redolent Owen had printed it in the official acts of 1895) appointed two Republicans. And now the supreme court has decided that an act which neither Governor Mount, Durbin nor Hanly would recognize, which no subsequent legislature heeded, and which no administrative officer thought valid until a Democratic governor was elected, is all right. By this decision the Republicans will continue to hold a large amount of state house patronage.

AIRDOME TONIGHT

A Three Reel Show and a Big Orchestra for a Five-Cent Piece

IS THE OFFERING

The New Place Promises to Become a Popular One During Summer

The Airdome will be open this evening, according to the announcement of J. B. Stonburner, the proprietor. The sun has warmed up the atmosphere to such an extent today that John figures that the air will be just about right for an outside show this evening, and he has accordingly arranged for the same. He will give a three reel exhibition and with this will entertain his patrons with a four-piece orchestra. He will strive to please the public and no one can say that John isn't the kind of a hustler who gets there. From time to time he will have special entertainments at the airdome and will at all times provide an excellent picture show, with the price the same as indoors, five cents. The first show last Saturday night was a winner, and he is looking for a big crowd tonight. The airdome is located on the vacant lot just east of the Star. You can't miss it.

Mrs. John Johns who suffered a stroke of paralysis about a week ago is able to be up and around at times. If nothing else unforeseen sets in she will be out again in a week or so.

The latest piece of boosting gossip is to the effect that a handsome row brick buildings is contemplated from the Winnes shoe store corner to the alley by the postoffice.
