IT'S

THE ONLY WAY

A Washington dispatch to the Indianapolis Star says:

"During the tariff revision two men have headed the high tariff army's two divisions—Cannon in the house and Aldrich in the senate. The interests, always working under a common instinct of political graft, have been in control and Cannon and Aldrich have been the convenient instruments to carry into statutory law the wishes of these interests."

The same dispatch also says:

"It is clear as noon-day that the first opportunity to strike a telling and, it may be, a successful blow at the hard-and-fast combination of greed that is so potent in congress will be in selecting men for congress next year who will pledge themselves unhesitatingly and unequivocally to vote against Cannon."

And this:

"In many sections of the country the people, already aroused and inflamed by the betrayal of their interests, are preparing to go after such pledges. The issue of 'Cannonism' which first swept over the country like a prairie fire last fall, is now more vital than ever."

And again:

"In some sections of the country preliminary plans already are being made for the organization of 'Anti-Cannon clubs.' The indications are that greater than any other issue in the congressional campaign will be the personality of the speaker."

Let it be borne in mind all the time that the Republican party in congress endorsed both Cannon and Aldrich and enacted their infamous bill into law. Let it also be borne in mind that President Taft approved and signed this same bill as soon as it got into his hands. The only safe way to get at "Cannonism" is to elect a Democratic congress.

DEPLORES

HASTY ACTION

Most of the stockholders of the Decatur Furnace company and many more who are not stockholders, but who are interested in the welfare and the upbuilding of this city, deplore the hasty action that forced a receiver for that institution. There was no immediate need for such action as the plant had been closed and no further expense was being made that in any way jeopardized the interest of any one, be he stockholder or creditor. Plans of reorganization were under way which the application for a receiver has of course stopped, but aside from this it hurts not alone the Decatur Furnace company, but every other Decatur institution to have the affairs of business men settled by the courts. Besides this, settlements in the courts are costly experiments, which will also prove true in the case in question, unless taken from the jurisdiction of the court and settled by business men in a business way. It is to be hoped that good conservative business judgment will prevail, and if it does, Decatur lacks a whole lot of being a dead one.

In his platform, Jesse Grice, republican candidate for mayor of Fort Wayne, says: "I maintain that all the people should have all the water they want all the time." Not many voters will go back on Grice on that declaration, but what Fort Wayne voters want to know is, "How much beer can they have all the time?" or in other words, "Will the saloons be open or closed on Sunday and holidays?" On these propositions the clever Grice is not clear.—Columbia City Post.

FIREMAN SAVES CHILDREN
Hero Creeps Out on Pilot and Jerks Two from Death.

Wellston, O., Aug. 17.—Snatching two little children from the jaws of death, Charles Carpenter, fireman on a Detroit, Toledo & Ironton switch engine, proved himself a hero today. As the engine sped along the rails Carpenter noticed Pearl and Anthony Souds, 2 and 3 years old, respectively, playing in the middle of the track. Carpenter dashed out on the running board and leaning far out from the pilot, at the risk of his own life, caught the children in his arms.

INTEREST IS HIGH

he may not know a single law of speech and the adverse is true of a child coming from a home where no attention is given to the use of language. Yet this does not give us any reason why we should not teach good English. We should be all the more persistent in our efforts to overcome the evils of incorrect speech.

Tuesday Morning.

The opening song of this morning's session was the hymn "Unbridge." The devotional exercises were conducted by the Rev. Imber. "The Art of Expression" was the theme of Prof. Thomas' remarks this morning. Naturalism of expression is the thing to be emphasized, because naturalism is the first law of expression. The child upon entering school has, perhaps, a vocabulary of from thirteen hundred to two thousand words, yet it is our duty to still increase the number of words, and teaching the natural way of expressing them. Words do not become ours until we are capable of using them ourselves. To increase your vocabulary, get the dictionary habit, yet this alone will not suffice. Association of words will give an understanding of new words. The child gets new words by imitation, so the teacher should use the best. Every new word learned gives a better understanding of our old ideas. It gives a broader view of thought. Even though the child has a vocabulary, it does not use it all because it has not learned the art of expression. It is the person of largest experience who ought to be able to express himself in the most natural way. I would advise every teacher to have a collection of good stories and use them in connection with language work. The teacher with a good character, able to see the good in stories, is better able to present them. The most efficient help in language work in the lower grades is the story interestingly told.

The second period was used by Dr. Hanson in the study of music. The history of music dates back into antiquity. The very earliest peoples had some form of music. These forms, of course, were very crude in comparison with the forms of music of today. In parts of the Philippine Islands we find yet today, some of the crudest forms of music, while in other parts much improvement in this line is noticeable. It was the Italians who developed the melody in music, while the development of harmony came from Germany. The value of music in the school is so great that no teacher can afford not to teach it. The teacher who carries music and a love for music into a community, is worth more to that community than one who does not. The Dr. then gave thirty minutes practical work, which was highly appreciated by the teachers.

Dr. Ferris upon the "Care and Culture of the Teacher." The teacher should be careful in the selection of reading matter. You should read some for recreation. Read from Mark Twain, Josh Billings and such writers for pleasure and recreation. You should read for inspiration. Read from Emerson and Franklin. Inspiration is a power to every man and woman. We catch this inspiration from Emerson and Franklin. Don't read too much, but assimilate that which you do read. When I hear a man say "Ten years ago I could read Latin easily because I was just out of college," I think that is pathetic. Do not forget what you read. We can retain literature by making it a part of ourselves and using it. Be a reader of magazines, but be sure that the magazines are suited to your case. The main thing in the care and culture of teachers is associations. The higher aspirations of man come not through the intellect, but through the sensations and impulses of the heart. The good actor will teach a more lasting lesson than we may be able to get in any other way.

INSTITUTE NOTES.

The work of Prof. Charles Swain Thomas on the subject "English," is of a very high character. Prof. Thomas is an authority on language work.

Dr. Hanson is a singer. If you doubt it come out and hear him.

F. L. Sixby of Michigan, was a visitor on Monday afternoon, and gave an interesting talk to the institute.

Prof. George Suman, of Rochester, was a visitor at the institute Monday afternoon.

Dr. Ferris has won a place in the affections of his hearers by his forceful and masterful way of presenting his subject. He has a way of making a point, and then driving it home.

The teachers are very enthusiastic on the subject of music. This speaks well for the work to be done during the coming year.

The company seeks and confidently expects to place at least one-half of these additional $50,000.00 subscription among the business men of Decatur who reap the greatest benefits from the industry.

The company seeks an opportunity to show you; first, what they have to offer in the way of security and secondly what they have to offer you in the way of returns, direct and indirect, for your support of this bond issue,

Briefly this is what we can show you.

2. An industry for Decatur that has an unlimited market for its product and if the company prospers as its competitors are prospering and expands accordingly should within a few years number its employees by the thousands.

Your returns as a business man of Decatur with merchandise to sell to our employees do not stop with the payment of these bonds but continue as long as this industry prospers.

In the meantime we expect to use every argument in our power to convince you that you can afford to support this issue.

NEWS FROM THE COURT HOUSE

Squire Stone Holds a Session—The Beavers Will Was Probated.

Squire Stone held forth in the circuit court room today, where he was hearing the case of the Decatur Horse Sale company vs. Henry Koenemann, and in which fifty dollars or such an amount is in controversy. The case is before a jury of six, and there are many witnesses.

The will of the late Samuel D. Beavers was probated yesterday, the wife being dead, the entire estate, including 180 acres of land goes to the children, each getting one-seventh and the other seventh going to the three children of Ellen Mills, a deceased daughter. The will was written August 9th, 1904, and has been in possession of Attorney J. C. Sutton.

The witnesses were Judge Merryman and C. S. Niblick. Samuel M. Beavers, a son, was named as the executor.
