The 1909 session of the Adams county teachers' institute closes this afternoon, and it has been a very successful event, thanks to the energy of County Superintendent Opliger. His selection of instructors has proven most excellent and the teachers have not only derived much good from the week's work, but it has actually been a pleasure to them. The attendance was splendid and the interest could scarcely be improved upon.

Robert J. Ale, the state superintendent of public instruction was the guest of those in charge of the Adams county institute today, and many citizens met the distinguished gentleman. Dr. Ale is an able man, and as a state officer has proven himself worthy of the support given him at the ballot box. He has done much already toward the betterment of school work in Indiana and before his term is completed will make many more strides in that direction.

The lecture by Prof. Woodbridge N. Ferris at the M. E. church last evening was an event of pleasure and profit to the many who heard this famous educator. Dr. Ferris is a thorough gentleman and a scholar. In his native state, Michigan, he is recognized as one of the brainiest men in any line. He is president of the Ferris Institute at Big Rapids, Mich., and four years ago was a candidate for governor of his state. The teachers of this county have appreciated his work here this year.

If a man with a chest measurement of 44 inches should wear a 34 inch coat, he would attract attention—but he would not prosper, nor be comfortable, presentable or happy. If a store which is big enough to indulge in whole page ads. uses only column ads., or less—or even half-page ads.—it will not prosper fully nor adequately, nor be looked upon as enterprising or aggressive. Running a big store, yet advertising it as though it were a small one, is not store wisdom; for the store will come to "measure down" to advertising which does not "measure up" to the store.

A SUDDEN ILLNESS

Mrs. Butler of South Ninth Street Suffers Stroke of Apoplexy

WELL KNOWN LADY

Is Very Low at Her Home—Condition Extremely Serious

Mrs. Butler of Ninth street, sister of Mrs. J. M. Miller, is very low, having suffered a stroke of apoplexy yesterday morning at nine o'clock. Since Mrs. Butler's residence in the city she has made many friends, having been a very lovable woman, and those who know her here, as well as friends out of the city, are saddened by her sudden fatal illness. Yesterday morning a Miss Graber, daughter of Henry Graber of the county farm, went to Mrs. Butler's home. The afflicted woman was very pale, but she asked Miss Graber to sit down, having the stroke immediately after. Her brother-in-law, Dr. J. M. Miller, was summoned, bringing another physician to assist him, but little could be done. The sick woman was unconscious yesterday, but this morning was able to speak a little. It is hoped that she will recover.

Mrs. D. P. Reynolds Says Adams County Looks Mighty Good to Her.

Mrs. D. P. Reynolds arrived home yesterday from Oklahoma, where they have lived for a year past, spending a part of the time at Noble, and the last few months at Dill City. She says the hot winds have burned up the corn crop in that section, also the other products including garden stuff and many of the people are actually in want. She says she does not believe that many of them can get through the winter without help. Her husband has gone to Robstown, near Corpus Christi, Texas, to assist a son, Will Reynolds, who has a big contract there. Mr. Reynolds will come here as soon as his work is complete. DEATH MARKS RACE

Two Men Killed in the Auto Speed Races at Indianapolis Yesterday

AN EXCITING EVENT

Frenzied Audience Witnessed Thrilling Close of Day's Sports

Indianapolis, Ind., Aug. 20.—Two lives were lost and two records broken during the inauguration of the Indianapolis motor speedway yesterday afternoon. William A. Bourque, driver of the Knox car in the 250-mile race, and Harry Holcomb, his mechanic, were killed in the frenzied carnival of speed. Barney Oldfield, driving a high-power Benz, covered a mile in forty-three and one-tenth seconds, breaking De Palma's mark of fifty-one seconds, and Chevrolet in a Buick, negotiated ten miles in the marvelous time of eight minutes, fifty-six and four-tenth seconds, cutting Oldfield's time of nine minutes and twelve seconds. Both of these are new American track marks. Robert Burman won the 250-mile race, the feature of the day and the contest that cost Bourque and Holcomb their lives. The winner's time was four hours, thirty-eight minutes and fifty-seven and four-tenth seconds—slow because of the many accidents that marred the race. The Stoddard-Dayton (Clements) was second in four hours, forty-six minutes and one and eight-tenth seconds and the National (Merz) finished third in four hours, fifty-two minutes and thirty-nine and seven-tenth seconds. Another National, with Kincaid at the wheel, was the only other car of the ten starters to finish the long grind. The death of the two men caused the American Automobile association to issue an ultimatum to the owners of the big track that certain changes must be made by today or the sanction for the event will be withdrawn. The American Automobile association demands that the track be freed from the many and dangerous ruts, which are said to be unavoidable in a new track, and that every inch of it be thoroughly oiled and tarred. Today only a short portion in front of the grandstand was oiled, and the dust on the other parts is blamed for the collapse of two drivers in the long race—Louis Chevrolet and Fred Ellis—who were blinded by the dense white mist that covered the major portion of the track. Two records were broken and the first day of the immense track proved fair to be an unqualified success, when a pall was cast over the crowd of 12,000 speed-mad spectators by the sudden death of Bourque and Holcomb. The Knox car was in second place with Burman in his Buick leading and had covered nearly 150 miles when the crash came. While coming down the home stretch the car suddenly swerved and tore into the fence at the left of the track, turning completely over and pinning its two occupants beneath it. Both men were alive when taken from under the ill fated machine, but Bourque died in the ambulance on the way to the Emergency hospital. Holcomb lived a few minutes longer, but was dead soon after he arrived at the hospital.

Parker, former Chief Judge of the Court of Appeals of New York state, which appears in the September number of the National Monthly. What Judge Parker has to say in regard to this new tax on corporations will carry weight and as the article was prepared especially for the National Monthly it will be found in no other publication. Hon. Champ Clark, minority leader of the House of Representatives, has reviewed the work of the recent tariff revision session of congress for the National Monthly, and this excellent article also appears in the September number. Miss Bertha Deininger Becomes Bride of Salesman

A WEDDING TOUR

Will Be Made—Will Be Gone Six Weeks in the West

Although mysteriously, the public did not become aware until today Miss Bertha, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. U. Deininger was last Monday evening at 8:30 o'clock united in marriage to Edgar H. Kilbourne, a traveling salesman with headquarters at Fort Wayne, the ceremony having been performed at the Catholic parsonage. Friends of the couple have known for some time that the compact existed, but as to the time the marriage was to take place they were unaware, hence the announcement coming now five days subsequent will cause no little surprise among the people. The words which made the happy couple man and wife were cleverly spoken by the Rev. Father Wilken in the presence of only the parents of the bride. Mr. and Mrs. Kilbourne will leave tomorrow for a six weeks' wedding tour in the west, after which they will return to Fort Wayne for future abode. The bride is a young woman of many attainments. She has moved in the best of society and has enjoyed that popularity which only comes to those who meritoriously win a place in the esteem of the people. A host of friends extend to the bride and groom well wishes for a prosperous future. The groom has been a traveling salesman for years and is now representing the Pierson-Haugh company of Detroit. He is a man of ability and is admired by a large acquaintanceship who join in offering congratulations. While gone Mr. and Mrs. Kilbourne will visit the exposition and many other noted places.
