BUSINESS AFFAIRS OF THE CITY AND COUNTY

Adams county is going some. Her tax rate for county purposes is the lowest in the last quarter of a century, and among the lowest in the state, improvements considered. She is also out of debt. While this is stretching the truth just a little, yet she has the money available for the payment of every cent of her bonded indebtedness, and after January first this money will be set aside and will draw interest until paid out in the settlement of the last of our bonded debt. We are all proud of such a record, and we congratulate those at the head of our county government for hastening the day when Adams county would clean the slate and free herself from the tangling alliances in paying bonds and interest. It is a clean slate. There has been no robbing of Peter to pay Paul. All the expenses of the county has been met, and there is not an outstanding unpaid order against the county. Nine years ago there were twenty thousand dollars of these orders, and the bonded debt was forty-five thousand dollars but it is all paid, and while the county tax levy has never been excessive, still it has been further reduced. It is due solely to an economical administration of the affairs of the county, to the good financial and business management of the business end of our county government, and we congratulate the officials in charge for their efficiency, and we congratulate the people and taxpayers in having them.

Congratulations are also due the Decatur city council, as they too, are proving their business ability in more ways than one. Notwithstanding the great inroads made upon the city debt, notwithstanding the payment of scores of accounts against the city, they challenge the admiration of their friends by a thirty cent reduction in the city rate of taxation. For the coming year the rate will stand at one dollar and fifty-seven cents, as against one dollar and eighty-seven cents which helped comprise the famous four-forty.

With this thirty cents reduction the affairs of the city were never better or cleaner than they are at this day and date. Whatever else may be said about the present members of the city council, they have a clean bill of sale when it comes to taking care of the finances of the city, and of transacting its business in a business way. There is no secret about the present city debt, or of the men who made it, or of the men who fostered it and permitted it to grow in size and volume, of the men who spent the most of the money paying interest at the local banks and permitted city orders to float and city bonds to go unpaid, of the men who permitted the city credit to be entirely withdrawn and the city disgraced. This is all a matter of city history, and the present council are entitled to the credit of redeeming it and making it possible to pay its debts.

For the fiscal year ending Jun 30th last the postoffice department had a deficit of $20,000,000. The deficit the previous year was $16,000,000. Large numbers of experts have been employed to find out what the trouble is. It is altogether probable that the deficit for the next year will show an increase, at least to the extent of the money paid out to the experts.

ONE MORE CHANCE

Curtis Johnson Sentenced to Prison, but Sentence Was Suspended

COURT HOUSE NEWS

A New Divorce Case—Two Marriage Licenses—Suit on Note Was Filed

A new case filed by Hooper & Lenhart was Ruth Garlock vs. Harry E. Garlock, suit for divorce. They were married December 19, 1902, at Keystone, Indiana, and lived together until June, 1906, when the defendant abandoned his family. Cruel and inhuman treatment and drunkenness are also alleged. A divorce and the custody of the five year old son are asked by Mrs. Garlock.

A marriage license was issued to Benjamin Rice, aged 21, son of David Rice of near Monmouth, to Bertha Bischoff, aged 17.

Curtis Johnson, who has been in trouble so frequently during the past ten years, and who served a term at the reformatory has one more chance to evade prison. He was arrested several months ago for burglarizing the west end saloon and spent the summer in jail. Late Tuesday afternoon, he appeared before Judge Merriman and plead guilty. He was fined five dollars and costs and committed to the state prison at Michigan City for a term of one to eight years. Sentence, however, was suspended, so long as the young man refrains from the use of intoxicating liquors and otherwise behaves himself. He will have to report to the prison officials regularly and on his first offense will be sent to prison. If this punishment held over his head for eight years don't reform him, nothing probably will.

CHRIST MEYER THE TAILOR DECATUR INDIANA

A HEARING TODAY

home of Mrs. Geo. B. McConnell, one of the big hearted women of Vermillion who has helped give the town the name of the "underground railroad" for fugitive children from the home. Humane Agent Lawrence had Sprunger arrested and placed the girls in the custody of Mrs. McConnell. Then, on behalf of Glatz, who wanted to adopt his grandchildren, the suit was started to investigate conditions at the orphanage. He charged sanitary abuses and that children were cruelly treated. Pa Sprunger, as the children are taught to call him, is an elderly thick set man. His speech is slow and careful.

The commissioners set a date for a special session at which time they will receive and open bids for the construction of the bridges and abutments, which were made a special appropriation by the county council. The object of the special session is because the board wants to get all the concrete work done before the cold weather interferes. The date is set for Monday, September 27.
