J. H. HELLER, Manager.

It does not look good to see the council expending money concretizing the face of the earth.—P. L. It was a dirty trick.

Even a man who was cutting a figure in the industrial and business affairs of this country to the extent Harriman was, can drop into his grave and the world will move on as usual. So it is foolish for fellows who fill a very much smaller sphere in life to imagine that the welfare of an entire community rests upon them.—Columbia City Post.

The public schools of the five boroughs of greater New York opened Monday with sixty thousand children unable to gain admittance for the full courses, and they will be compelled to attend half sessions. A little more money applied to schools and less to salaries and fees of political adventurers in that locality would mean a brighter promise for future generations.—Port Wayne Journal-Gazette.

We do not want to be understood as accusing Mr. Archbold of anything officially wrong. We still maintain that we have the utmost confidence in his official integrity but we fear that in his intense zeal for party success he is forgetful of the real history of conditions or is looking at them through glasses darkened by prejudice.—P. L.

How magnanimous, and how grateful we are that the official stamp of honesty is thus placed upon the brow of one Decatur official. While the rest of them are all rascals, and are jingling the coin of ill-gotten gain, have no knowledge of business or regard for the rights of property, thank God, we have Bill. And since we think of it, we still tremble for his safety. Think if you can, of being passed upon by such an eminent authority, and then given a clean and honorable record. Heretofore, we have been led to believe that there was but one in our midst, but now we have P. L. and Bill. Thank God again.

In his article he endeavors to make it plain that he is neither defending or faulting but reading between the lines, it is evident that an effort is being made to fix responsibility for present conditions several years back and by that means relieve the present administration from fault of every kind and description for present troubles.—P. L.

Tut, tut, P. L. How dare you? Why some of those administrations were Republican business administrations, plucked because of their great statesmanship, supreme knowledge of municipal affairs and other reasons too numerous to mention. While they perhaps failed, yet let's draw the mantle of charity over these black periods and allude only about the Democratic administrations. While it may be true that municipal ownership was first inspired by them, and that the city debt is largely of their origin, yet let's keep it dark, P. L. However, do not think us unmindful of our privilege in having Bill.

A NARROW ESCAPE

Edgar N. Bayliss, a merchant of Robinsonville, Del., wrote: "About two years ago I was thin and sick, and coughed all the time and if I did not have consumption, it was near to it. I commenced using Foley's Honey and Tar, and it stopped my cough, and I am now entirely well, and have gained twenty-eight pounds, all due to the good results from taking Foley's Honey and Tar."

ELECTED OFFICERS

The Adams County Horsethief Association Met this Morning

OFFICERS REELECTED

A Splendid Meeting of this Association Held in the Grand Army Hall

The Adams County Horsethief association held a meeting in this city this morning at the Grand Army hall, and from the secretary, John D. Stults, we publish the following report of the meeting. The association was called to order at ten o'clock, and about the first business transacted was the election of officers, the old ones being unanimously called to serve for another year. The officers are T. J. Durkins president, John D. Stults secretary, Michael Miller treasurer, and James Hurst captain. During the year past they have served the association faithfully and well and their re-election was well merited. A special meeting will be held on October 16, and at that time Captain Hurst will appoint his twelve lieutenants. The executive committee is composed of Homer Faust, C. H. Oetting and C. A. Clark, and the delegate to the national meeting was given to James Hurst, with Fred Fruchte as alternate. The past year has been a successful one for the association, and the reports made were all pleasing to every member. The association is a benefit to the community and to every law-abiding citizen of the county, and they deserve the respect and confidence of everyone.

GOES TO GENEVA

Will Open Up an Ice Cream Parlor at That Place.

John Joseph, who for a number of years has been connected in running an ice cream parlor in this city, will leave on next Monday for Geneva, where he will open up an ice cream parlor at that place. He will also carry a fine line of candies and intends to give Geneva a nice clean and up-to-date store. Heretofore Geneva has had no store of this kind and Mr. Joseph is bound to succeed. While here he has won a host of friends and was always patronized by a large number of people, who wish for his success in his new place of business.

DICK BURRELL PAINFULLY HURT

Train Hit Truck and the Truck Handle Struck Dick on the Leg.

Dick Burrell, employed on the baggage line for the Fashion livery barns, was painfully injured at noon today. He started to pull the big truck out of the way of the train, just as the westbound passenger started out. The train hit the truck which was loaded with trunks, and threw it around in such a manner that the handle of the truck hit Mr. Burrell on the right leg. He was assisted home and is suffering considerable pain. It is not known whether or not any bones are broken, but it is feared this may be true as he is suffering such intense pain.

Rev. Spetnagle Will Begin an Interesting Series Tomorrow Morning

GREAT BIBLE THEMES

Last Sunday Was Introductory—Everyone Invited to Be Present

On last Sunday morning Rev. Richard Spetnagle, pastor of the Presbyterian church, began a series of sermons on "Great Bible Themes," and a large audience was present, to hear the introductory sermon, thus assuring the minister that they are interested in such a subject. The remarks by the pastor last Sunday indicated that the people will not be disappointed in the class of sermons to be given. They will be instructive and of much good to all who hear them. Everything possible will be done to make these meetings profitable and interesting. The first regular subject will be taken up tomorrow morning at 10:30 the regular service hour and the pastor and people of the church join in extending a cordial invitation to everyone in Decatur to hear this series. There will be something for all of you, some point explained, some advice, something good. You are, of course, invited to all the other services of this church as well.

SAUL OF TARSSUS

Famous Biblical Production
Will Be Here on Wednesday, Sept. 29

AT OPERA HOUSE

Mr. Eugene Moore, One of the Good Ones Will Play a Leading Part

There is no more dramatic and no more interesting figure in the Bible or in the history of Bible times, than that of Saul of Tarsus, later known as St. Paul. His was a strenuous character and he lived in a strenuous time. He was a forceful man, and whatever he did he did with his whole heart, and his whole mind. When he persecuted the Christians, he was one of the most vindictive of all the persecutors. When he became a Christian, he was one of the most earnest and most ardent of them all. In the play, "Saul of Tarsus," a drama in four acts by Henry Thorn Hum, the dramatic features of this man's life are woven into a story of absorbing interest and presented carefully and with an attention to detail that is surprisingly effective. The play is in four acts and deals with all of the great acts of this most remarkable man. His conversion on the road to Damascus, one of the most dramatic features of his life, is handled in the second act with telling effect. The dazzling white light which prostrated him; the mysterious voice which arrested him on his way to persecute the poor Christians, and all the other features are presented in a dignified and beautiful manner. The stoning of St. Stephen, one of the first martyrs, is one of the dramatic climaxes of the piece, and St. Paul's wonderful defense before King Agrippa, which has not another parallel in literature outside of Marc Anthony's oration over the dead body of Caesar, is another high point in the drama. The play is replete with powerful situations and heart-gripping scenes. There is a beautiful love story running through the piece, also which lends an added interest. It is a play that not only appeals to those who are fond of dramatic entertainment, but also to those people who seek historical and educational forms of amusement and entertainment. This splendid attraction will be at the Bosse opera house Wednesday, Sept. 29.
