The story of "The Farmer's Daughter" which will be the attraction at the Bosse opera house for Friday, Sept. 24, while not a new one to stagemod, has been treated so cleverly by the author, that it has developed into a stage offering of more than usual merit. It deals with the story of a beautiful girl, the daughter of a New England farmer, who marries against her father's wishes only to find that the man who she has married has deceived her into a mock ceremony. The father is unforgiving and casts her from his home. But through the efforts of two kind-hearted friends everything turns out right. The play introduces two characters that are destined to leave considerable impression on the audiences. They are two children of nature: characters that we find in nearly every village, and the author's clever drawing of "Hy" and "Thankful" will prove well worth seeing.

By a deal made at Uniondale today Dr. J. H. Holcomb bought of Ambrose Schoonover the residence property which he, the doctor, owned a year ago and which he sold previous to his trip south. He and his family will occupy it as a residence. Included in the residence is Dr. Holcomb's old office. This purchase probably will end a controversy between Dr. Holcomb and O. L. Cupp over the residence which the doctor has been occupying. Another deal was made at Uniondale by which Emmett Scott, the new meat dealer, bought the new house which Charles Elick built the past summer.

A Constant Stream of New Things Charming every one of them

WE started this fall with an even more extensive showing than ever before. As you glance over hundreds of styles, you will quickly see that there is a decided tendency toward closer fitting garments and coat-dress effects; also that the dominant feature in everything is the Moyen-Age effect—the newest, oddest, most attractive style introduced in years!

Colors were newer prettier—and there are enough fashionable shades for everyone to find a becoming one. There seems to be almost a passion for all tones of violet from the deepest purple to the softest and palest shades of lavender; raisin is good, catawba, taupe and slightly deeper tones of blue, brown and gray.

These models are made expressly for us and are characteristic Bischof garments. This means more than usual care in tailoring and a positive genius in selecting fabrics, trimming, buttons, etc. This is so important this fall as strong contrasts are extremely fashionable.

You couldn't find more attractive garments than these Bischof models. You couldn't find greater values; better clothes can't be had.

Come in now and you can find many simple moderate priced styles that are charming.
