STORY OF SALEM

Democrat. I am now past seventy-five years old.

WILLIAM BROKAW.

P. S.—Now for the joke on John Shook as it was related to me. He had three or four men working for him, clearing, and he was very enthusiastic about his spiritualism, and how he could make his table walk and dance. He invited at least three of these hands to stay or come some evening to the seance he would perform. These were Jerry Tricker, Wash Gilpin, Dr. C. L. Rainier's father-in-law, and Geo. Tricker, that is Dora's son. These two, with Wash Loy, made it up to have some fun with Mr. Shook. He got them under the table to hold it down. He struggled and kicked and pawed and pushed, and Shook shouted like Balaam's prophets, "Come up, Come up," and soon the table began to creak and dance, and the big strong men were loyal to their job, and they tore the poor medium's table all to binders, and he took it all in a good humor, and thought the spirit done it. But the boys enjoyed many a good laugh over it. But they are now all in the spirit world, if there is any such place, but I presume if Shook comes across them and finds out they put up the job on him he'll break their necks.

THE SAME STORY FROM FOUR DIRECTIONS

Many People Are Getting on the Right Track.

From the Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette: "Four people came to Fort Wayne yesterday from different directions, met at the same point, and told practically the same story regarding the great medicine, Root Juice. The gentleman from Van Wert, Ohio, said: 'Root Juice has been going lots of good in Van Wert the last six months, and the people of my town think there never was a medicine like it. Frank Poroff, the druggist, who has the agency, said it is a pleasure to sell Root Juice, as we never have to listen to complaints, on the contrary, many who buy one bottle soon return for more, and persuade their friends to try it. It is certainly a great tonic and has done wonders for many who have suffered years with chronic stomach and kidney troubles.' The man from Columbia City said: 'It don't make much difference where you go, you are sure to hear some one talking about Root Juice. Hundreds of people of my town have tried the remedy, and I haven't heard a single complaint. It certainly must be a great medicine, or so many people wouldn't be praising it so highly.' An old lady from Bluffton said: 'If you want to hear talk about Root Juice, go to Bluffton. I tell you our people are crazy about it. I heard Mr. Gutelius, our local druggist, say he never saw anything like it in his whole life. He said he had sold nearly 2,000 bottles of Root Juice within the past four months, and the people still coming for it, in crowds, and none were complaining, but nearly every one praised it, and told of some remarkable good it was doing.' The gentleman from Kendallville said: 'Don't tell me anything about Root Juice. If you want to hear about the wonderful cures this medicine is making, go to my town and call on O. P. Raber. He has sold the remedy to hundreds of people and has heard them praising it for several months.'"

Such talk is very common these days at this point, as many local people who have tried the remedy are praising it to their friends and neighbors, and seem to have unlimited confidence in its merits. Much can be learned regarding this remedy at the Holthouse drug store.

Mrs. Robert Wetzel, Middleport, Ohio, February 18, 1910, writes the Leah Medicine Co.: "Dr. Hensley informs me this company is going to manufacture his remedies and call them 49. I can conscientiously recommend the Tonic to any one who has stomach, liver or bowel trouble. I tried all the doctors we have here and all the medicine I could hear of, and nothing gave me any relief. I wrote Dr. Hensley for this tonic, which cured me in a very short time. I weighed 109 pounds and you can see by the enclosed picture what I weigh. I have used this Tonic when I feel badly for eighteen years and expect to use it the rest of my life, and am glad you are going to manufacture it. I know when it is once used it will always be used. Dr. Hensley sends lots of the Tonic here to people I have told of it. Yours, Mrs. R. Wetzel."

Mrs. Wetzel has given her consent for us to use both this letter and her photograph. You will see her picture in this paper in a short time. 49 will readily relieve that chronic stomach, liver, kidney, bowel trouble and constipation. It builds up the entire system and gives new life where there is a tonic needed. Dr. Hensley has in all cases prescribed 49 Tonic to mothers nursing babies, and convalescing men, women and children.
