PRES. KELLEY HERE

Head of Earlham College, a State Inspector of Schools, Pays Visit

TO DECATUR SCHOOLS

Reports Them to be Doing Well—Gave Address to High School.

President Kelley of Earlham college, Richmond, who is one of the state school inspectors, paid the Decatur schools the annual visit this morning and favored the high school with a most excellent address. President Kelley reported the Decatur educational institutions as particularly thriving and stated that should the present rate of growth be maintained the high school quarters would be so cramped that it would be necessary to enlarge the space. He is quite well pleased with the institution here and congratulated Superintendent Rice, the school board, the faculty and all to whom the present standard is due. President Kelley came to this city from Portland this morning and returned on the 1:11 train.

A Land of Beauty

other towns recently passed. About thirty miles to the west of Reno we arrive at Truckee, at an elevation of about fifty-eight hundred feet. We now have begun to ascend the Sierra Nevada range of mountains. A few miles south on the state line is Lake Tahoe, a noted pleasure resort for tourists. In our entire route, no village, town or city, so far as we have noted, shows so many "thirst quenching parlors" as Truckee. The saloon is in evidence everywhere. Truckee is the first California town I had the privilege of seeing. The train stopped "twenty minutes for dinner," and all seemed to enjoy themselves except two young men, who hurriedly alighted and returned with two bottles each of Budweiser or Anheuser Busch, and were summoning all their energies, greatly perspiring and swearing softly in their efforts to uncork their newly acquired "bottled enthusiasm." From Truckee to Clue Canyon is about forty miles. In this distance the train continuously rounds the mountain sides, out of one gulch into another, through tunnels and more than twenty-eight miles of snow sheds, over trestlework so high that one almost shudders to look to the bottom. The mountain scenery is wholly unlike the Rockies. It is varied and in places most beautiful, the mountainsides being covered with pine, cedar and other evergreen trees. Fine small lakes, made from the melting snow, and nice valleys of shrubbery also add to the beauty. From Blue Canyon westward is a grand decline to the coast.

From Sacramento to Los Angeles is about four hundred and seventy-five miles through a beautiful valley, which is perhaps from thirty to fifty miles in width, with the mountains plainly visible, both to the east and west. In this valley are vineyards and many extensive orchards of delicious fruit trees. About half way from Sacramento to Los Angeles is the city of Fresno, which is in the heart of the producing fruit district and is a shipping point of much importance. Stockton, another bustling city in this valley, is to the northwest of the noted Yosemite National park, in which are numerous natural wonders to be seen nowhere else in the United States. The Yosemite falls which is on catract, are fifteen hundred feet in height, with an additional thousand feet of cascades, is one of the highest in the world. The "big trees" in this national reserve are wonders in themselves. The great oil wells in the Bakersfield district are among the largest producers ever yet developed, west of the Continental Divide. The climate and scenery at Los Angeles is semi-tropical. Pepper trees, eucalyptus, orange, lemon, palms and camphor trees are largely in evidence here. Geraniums, roses, and other flowering plants, appear in great profusion in the parks, on private properties and around about the cottage walls, and mansions porticos and verandas. This is a land of pleasant sunshine, with cool evenings, yet where frosts seldom come and snow storms and blizzards are of infrequent occurrence.

Respectfully yours,

J. F. SNOW.

SORE THROAT WON'T STOP HIM.

Roosevelt Disregarded Advice and Cheered Troops at Goebertiz.

(United Press Service.) Berlin, May 11—(Special to Daily Democrat)—Disregarding the advice of Professor Fraenkel, noted throat specialist, Colonel Roosevelt today attended the military maneuvers and sham battles at Goebertiz, the guest of Emperor William. The colonel exhausted his voice completely in cheering the troops and chatting with the emperor. Chancellor Von Bettman-Holdt tonight will give a dinner which will take the place of the state dinner planned by the Kaiser. Frank D. Kellogg, federal trust buster, arrived in Berlin today and met Colonel Roosevelt, but declares the meeting had no significance.

DOCTORS' AVENUE

Third Street Will Soon be Known as the "Street of Doctors."

NINE WILL RESIDE

On The Thoroughfare Within a Few Blocks—Centrally Located.

"Third street in Decatur will soon be known as the street of doctors," said an observing person this morning. "There are at present just six doctors living on the street within a few blocks, and in a very short time three more will take up their abode there, making nine in all. Dr. Fred Patterson, dentist, lives at the corner of Marshall and Third; Dr. D. D. Clark just south of Jackson street, Dr. Costello one house north of Monroe street; Dr. Boyers, corner of Third and Monroe; Doctors J. S. and Earl Coverdale will soon be at home two doors south of Madison and Dr. W. E. Smith will soon be in his newly acquired home just north of the library; Dr. Neptune, dentist, lives a few doors south, corner of Third and Jefferson, and Dr. Thomas a half block south, between Jefferson and Adams street. The street being centrally located—while in one of the most beautiful residence portions of the city—is a most convenient one within easy reach of the offices of the doctors, the greatest number of whom have offices on Second street in the business portion of town.

A MOST HORRIBLE CONDITION.

Related by E. G. Moore, Whose Reputation for Truthfulness is Unquestioned.

As so many people of this country are taking Root Juice these days, and a majority of them, after taking a bottle or two of it, praise it very highly, those who have not tried the medicine are doubting the great good it is doing will last. However, they have no cause to do so, as there are many living proofs throughout the country of the lasting good results from the Root Juice treatment.

That Root Juice is making hundreds of those who are taking it, feel much better no one doubts. If those who are rapidly improving under the treatment could have a talk with E. G. Moore of Rural Route Number 9, Fort Wayne, Ind., (a man whose word is not doubted by those who know him) they would be convinced that the great good Root Juice is doing, is lasting. Mr. Moore said: "Three years ago my wife was in a horrible condition. She suffered a long time with her stomach and kidneys. Several doctors treated her, but all of the doctors and medicines failed to do any good. She was almost a living skeleton, and a bundle of nerves. Her stomach was so sore and weak that the slightest foods would lie in it and ferment, causing gas to form and bloat her up as tight as a drum. When she commenced to take Root Juice she was too weak to feed herself and was living on liquid diet, but after taking the medicine a short while she gradually began to eat solid foods and take on flesh and strength. The remedy seemed to soothe her nerves and in a short while she could sleep like a baby, and her sleep was refreshing. The medicine soon had her up and around. That was about three years ago, and her stomach continues to be all right. Her appetite is good and she can eat anything she wishes and digest it."

The evidence is here in abundance, and the Root Juice people can prove every claim that is being made for the great remedy that is now being sold so fast at the Holthouse drug store.
