torate, but will be remembered after he has departed this life.

Among the principal things of his stay here was the erection of the parsonage at a cost of several thousand dollars, facing on Fourth street.

This will also mark the twenty-ninth anniversary of the arrival of the Sisters of St. Agnes, who, since that time have had charge of the teaching in the St. Joseph's schools. Sister Aloisia was the first to arrive, and was here ever since. Four years ago the twenty-fifth anniversary of her arrival here was celebrated in a very appropriate manner, long to be remembered by the members of the St. Mary's parish. The sisters now number ten, and Decatur is known as one of the best places of the order. The Sister's home was also built under Father Wilken's instruction, and the St. Joseph's school, for which the congregation of St. Mary's is heartily thankful. As the time went on it became a necessity to furnish more room for the children, and a two-story brick building was added, which gave them ample room for teaching purposes. Just a few years ago another building was erected, which now serves as the gathering place for the members of the different societies and the conservatory of music, which for the last few years has brought much credit to the Sisters of St. Agnes. In the year 1888 a great honor was conferred upon the congregation as well as upon Father Wilken, when he was made an irremovable rector of the Right Reverend Bishop Dwenger of Fort Wayne. As a spiritual director he is surpassed by none, and St. Mary's congregation is among the foremost of the diocese. As a friend he is the same to all and his acquaintance is not only to those of his congregation, but to all other denominations, to rich and poor alike. He is an industrious and progressive citizen and has helped in many ways to build up the city to the high point it has attained. Among the many congratulations which he will receive on next Saturday is the hope that he will be able to celebrate the golden anniversary of his ordination to the priesthood, which is but twelve years distant.

ISHOME FROM WEST

Dr. J. W. Vizard Spent Three Weeks Seeing the Western Country.

THE COUNTRY GREAT

But Not Half as Great as the Country Comprising Good Old Indiana.

Dr. J. W. Vizard of Pleasant Mills arrived home Sunday morning from an extended trip through the west. He left here on the first day of July, going direct from Chicago to Reno, Nevada, where he witnessed the Jeffries-Johnson fight, having a good seat right up in front. He says that Jeffries was not given the credit in the newspapers for the good fight he made, and that while he was outclassed in every way, yet he fought it out as long as he could. From Reno Mr. Vizard went to Lake View, Oregon, then to Clammoth Falls, the summer home of E. H. Harriman, then to Redmond, Portland, back to Surprise, California, Mt. Shasta, San Francisco, Ogden, Utah, Salt Lake City, through the grand canyon to Denver and then home. He saw all the beauties of the great country, and while he was impressed with them, yet the doctor comes home admitting that the Hoosier commonwealth of Indiana is several blocks in advance of any state in the Union, as far as he knows and he has been in most of them. He made no investments while there, and we are inclined to think that he likes Adams county investments better than any he saw while gone.

Miss Roxsy Syphers went to Fort Wayne for the afternoon.

Diedrick, the little son of Mrs. Herman Dierks, who was badly burned about the face July 4th by the explosion of a giant fire cracker, is getting along remarkably well.

tence of from two to fourteen years in the penitentiary. It is said that the boys will put up the plea that they simply sold the horses as agents for another party.

NEW HARTFORD CITY P. M.

(United Press Service.)

Washington, D. C., July 18—(Special to Daily Democrat)—O. C. Johnson will get the postoffice at Hartford, City, Ind., this being a second recommendation made. About a month ago Senator Beveridge recommended Henry Geisler, the present postmaster and editor of the Hartford City Gazette, and a few days later he withdrew this recommendation and now comes the announcement that Johnson is to be the favored one.

Miss Roxsy Syphers has returned from a visit at Fort Wayne.

Ralph Johnson returned this afternoon to Fort Wayne after visiting over Sunday with his brother, Guy Johnson.
