Have you formed any opinion concerning the building of the interurban line south? It's a mighty big and serious problem and you should be considering it seriously. We are each day hearing opinions on the proposition, some for, some against it, and that's the way we want you to feel. Tell us about it, either personally or for publication.

John A. M. Adair, our congressman, has been appointed by Speaker Champ Clark as the assistant whip of the house, a position of high honor and much importance. He will fill the place as he has all other trusts imposed upon him with credit to himself and the splendid district he represents. It means also that Mr. Adair will, if he continues in congress, become the whip of the house. Even in his present place most of the work will devolve upon him, that being the understanding when named.

Clarence Andrews, son of John Andrews, who for eight years past has been out in Texas and Oklahoma, returned home Monday for a visit with his parents. He was accompanied by Mrs. Andrews, and came from Vernon, Texas, where he has been for some time, although his real home is at El Reno, Oklahoma, where he is engaged at the barber trade. He is doing fine since leaving here, but is glad to get back home and renew acquaintances after his long absence.

Happy Easter Thoughts. Oftentimes the hindrances that lie in the path of duty may be compared to the toll-gates upon our turn-pike roads: they are kept shut until we are just upon them, and then fly open, as it were of themselves. And that is true enough; if they had been open a week beforehand we could but have gone through at last—John Newton.

Sunday, April 2nd, was Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Sheets' eighteenth wedding anniversary and it was celebrated in a most charming manner. There were guests to the number of twenty-five gathered in on special invitation, and at high noon were ushered out to a most elaborate dinner with Mr. and Mrs. Sheets, the bride and groom of eighteen years being at the head of the table. Amid all the snow storm in the afternoon the guests enjoyed themselves beyond speakable words of expression. Games, which all, even the bride and groom of eighteen years ago enjoyed, were played. All parted in the evening, wishing Mr. and Mrs. Sheets many more such wedding anniversaries which they might help celebrate again. Those present were Mrs. N. Sheets and daughter, Helen, of Decatur; Mr. and Mrs. W. H. White and sons, Nole and Niles, of Preble; Mr. and Mrs. J. D. Elzey of Preble; Mr. and Mrs. S. K. Shackley and daughters, Fern and Georgia, of Peterson; Mr. and Mrs. S. P. Sheets and sons, Chauncey and Chalmer, and Mr. and Mrs. E. A. Mallonee of Root township; the Misses Esther Evans and Lola Baker and Miss Ruth Kettle of Celina, Ohio; Mr. Don Sheets and Masters Harold and True Sheets and Miss Florence Sheets. The guests were favored with some very fine selections on the organ by Miss Esther Evans.

The children of Mrs. Nancy Parrish of Monroe cleverly planned a happy surprise on her on last Sunday, in celebration of her sixty-fourth birthday anniversary. A very good social time was spent, during which a delicious dinner was in order. Mrs. Parrish was presented with some very nice gifts as a memento of the happy affair, together with a shower of good wishes. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Parrish and sons, Byford and Lester; Mr. and Mrs. Jason Essex and son, Gerald; Mr. and Mrs. Levi Johnson, Mr. and Mrs. G. H. Martz, Mr. and Mrs. Ordan Parrish and children, Qyneth and George; Miss Etta Johnson and Miss Erma Parrish.

The Brandyberry school, No. 6, of Washington township, taught by Miss Perle Miller, came to a close last Friday. At noon a dinner was served, which was brought in by the patrons. It consisted of all the delicacies imaginable, and the house was crowded with people to partake of the same. After dinner a lengthy program was rendered and every one acted his part well. An applause followed every selection and every one was well pleased with the entertainment of the day.

Saturday evening was a very pleasant one at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Troutner of near Williams, at which time many of their friends had gathered to meet Frank on his return home for supper. A bountiful supper was served, to which all did justice, and after supper the evening was spent in social chat and amusement. Those present were Owen Sims and family, N. L. Troutner, W. J. Case, Mr. and Mrs. Roebuck and family, Fred Troutner and wife, Jesse Langberry and wife, Mr. and Mrs. Krouch, Frank Young and wife, Will Young and family, Mrs. Lew Riker, Mrs. Aaron Folz, Mrs. John Acheson, Marks Riker and wife, Mrs. Jacob Shell and family, Clyde Beam and family, Mrs. Charles Pond of Indianapolis, Allie Stofor and family, Benjie Gause and family, James Strickler, Rufus Case, Frank Bollinger, Ward Acheson, Ralph Bollinger, Calvin Case, Dale Cowan, Lee Hilyard, Edna Durr and Mable Hilyard. Frank was heard to say "This isn't my birthday. What does this all mean?" The reply was: "Oh, it's only an April fool shower."

The home of James Manley, living west of Peterson, was the scene of an unusually nappy event, when a host of his son, Floyd's schoolmates and friends gathered at the home and reminded him of his eighteenth birthday, which was on the preceding Friday night, but was delayed until Saturday evening, to make it more of a success. The surprise was well carried out by his parents and brother, Chauncey. Muri Falk, his teacher, had called early in the evening and asked him to accompany him to Peterson, where he was to do some shopping, and remained until the signal was given over the phone, when they proceeded toward home, Mr. Fulk having an excuse to go in to fix up his school manuscript. They entered the darkened rooms only to be quickly lightened, without his assistance. After Floyd realized his situation, he turned the event off with a few jokes and began to interestingly entertain his guests. The evening was spent by playing games, among which were the "April Fool's Pie." Floyd Stoneburner, Jason Huffman, Earl Arnold, Lizzie Norris, Della Frauhiger and Bernice Andrews were the ones to draw the lucky numbers and surrounded a table, when Mr. Stoneburner, who had drawn No. 1, proceeded to cut the pie, but to his surprise found out that it had been made especially for the first of April. The merry crowd parted in the wee hours of the morning, wishing Floyd many more such happy events. Those present were Mr. and Mrs. James Manley, parents, Chauncey, Harry and Myrtle Manley, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Sheets (nee Miss Manley), of Van Wert, Ohio; William and Lewis Yake, Floyd Stoneburner, Noah Egle, Wilbur Worthman, Muri, John and Jacob Falk, Chester Olwin Jason Huffman of North Dakota, Frank Henschen, Harvey and Forest Manley, Earl Arnold, Dean, Clinton and Ray Byerly, Frank and Tony Andrews, Merritt Howard, Dorphus Drum, Chauncey Worthman, Misses Bernice and Lucile Andrews, Victoria Stoneburner, Cora Henschen, Margaret Longenberger and Della Frauhiger.

At high noon Sunday at the home of the bride's parents on West Main street, Mr. and Mrs. David Bixler, occurred the marriage of their daughter, Emma, to A. Clayton Smith, son of Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Smith, living east of the city. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Frank Hartman of South Bend, Indiana. Oswin Hilty of Indianapolis and Miss Ada Wittwer of this city were the attendants of groom and bride. The wedding march was played by Miss Esther Bixler. Little niece, Louise Hoffman, carried the flowers and Laura Reuser, another niece, served as ring bearer. A sumptuous dinner was served at the close of the ceremony. The marriage was the culmination of a romance which began in the Berne high school several years ago. The contracting parties are well known and highly respected young people of this community. Mr. Smith has been a successful school teacher in Adams county since his graduation from the high school and Miss Bixler is a prominent music teacher, having studied music in the music department of Oberlin college. They will locate on a farm east of Decatur, where they will farm during the summer and Mr. Smith teach school during the winter. The couple
