WEATHER FORECAST

Fair tonight and Sunday, with slowly rising temperature north and central portions. Sunday fair.

Mont Fee will spend Sunday here with his family.

Mrs. C. B. Andrews went to Fort Wayne this morning.

Mrs. Martha Spuller and Mrs. Earl Butler went to Fort Wayne this morning.

James Hendricks of Monroe was numbered among our business callers here today.

Ed Lyons returned home from his regular trip and will remain over Sunday with his family.

Mrs. H. C. Ten Eyck of Burrell, Mich., who has been visiting here with relatives, left this morning for Berne to spend a short while there.

Will Colchin returned from a business trip to Fort Wayne.

Fred Linn was working with his force of men at Monroe today.

Attorney D. B. Erwin was at Richmond today looking after business affairs, returning home this afternoon.

Ed Ahr, J. B. Rice, D. W. Beery, John Weber and Abe Boch went to Fort Wayne this morning on business.

Professor Hemstreet gave the best hypnotic entertainment ever given in this city.—Crawfordsville (Ind.) Journal.

Mrs. J. B. Stanley returned this morning to Logansport after a visit with her daughter, Mrs. L. W. Coppock.

Miss Dorcas Kuntz of Geneva returned yesterday to her home, being here to take her regular musical instruction.

John Heller left yesterday for Indianapolis to attend to some business affairs and shake hands with the many friends he has at the capital city.

Mr. and Mrs. L. N. Grandstaff returned this morning to Monmouth after spending the night here after attending the W. R. C. and G. A. R. services Friday evening.

L. C. Waring went to Fort Wayne yesterday afternoon on the 4 o'clock car.

Hemstreet, the hypnotist, is certainly a past master of the art.—Fort Wayne Journal.

One week from tomorrow the forty hours' devotion will open at the St. Mary's church.

Joe Miller, the candy man, of Fort Wayne was numbered among the business callers here this morning.

G. T. Burke made a business trip to Fort Wayne yesterday afternoon to call on his wife at the hospital.

Attend the chicken pot-pie dinner to be given Thursday noon, November 23rd, at the K. of P. Home, by the Pythian Sisters. Twenty-five cents.

Professor Hemstreet is certainly the greatest expositor of the weird art, and has developed many refreshing variations of the old-style hypnotism as many still practice it.—Toledo Blade.

Pure, delicious confections, the kind everybody in the house will enjoy, bear the trade mark, He-Mi-La. Ask for them and be sure you have the kind you ask for. Name protects them as to quality.

Ben Ashbacher and Arnold Ashbacher went to Decatur this morning where they will look after some business, connected with the new piano store Mr. Ashbacher is going to start in Decatur.—Bluffton News.

Mr. and Mrs. M. B. Costello of Portland, Oregon, who have been visiting with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. James Brunnergraff, will leave Monday for Champaign, Ill., to visit with her sister, Mrs. Robert Swartz, before returning to their home.

Robert M. Blackburn this morning received a postal card from George M. Shanton, a nephew of the late Mr. Woy, whose death occurred yesterday at an early hour. The card was written previous to receiving the sad news of the death of his uncle.

The P. W. Smith force of men who recently returned from Berne, where they had been working for several months, are now busily engaged at the local plant. A number of men are constantly kept busy and things are moving at a rather fast clip.

Mrs. Henry Ten Eyck of Vicksburg, Mich., who has been the guest of her sister, Mrs. L. H. Purdy, left this morning for Berne to call on her brother, Marshal William Tucker, who is ill with consumption of the bowels, following an attack of typhoid fever during the summer.

Those who attended the play, "The Squaw Man," at the Bosse opera house last evening witnessed one of the best entertainments ever pulled off in this city. Only a small crowd ventured out on account of the bad weather, but those who did were well repaid for the time spent at the play house.

Harry Shaffer, who is working in California at his trade as a painter, writes that he saw C. P. Rodgers complete one of the last flights of his cross-continental trip. Rodgers' machine is named Harry Shaffer and the Bluffton painter is well acquainted with him, forming his acquaintance while the two were working for the Standard Oil company at Pittsburg, Pa., several years ago.—Bluffton News.

"The office of the justice of the peace is clearly a township office and elections can only be made by vote of the entire township. If a vacancy exists it can only be filled by appointment by the board of county commissioners and the election of a justice of peace in New Haven last week is clearly void." This is the ruling handed down by Secretary of State Law G. Ellingham and received by County Clerk Gerding yesterday. Upon this decision the clerk refused a commission to William H. Bowers, justice of peace to which Bowers was elected at a recent town election. Adams township already has two justices of the peace, the township's full quota, and there is no emergency existing for either the election or appointment of a new justice there. Mr. Bowers was one of those seeking the office at the last town election and, in some manner, the town ticket of each party gave place to a candidate for the township office. When Mr. Bowers, the lucky candidate, filed his certificate of election with the county clerk's commission was held up until Secretary of State Ellingham could be heard from.—Fort Wayne Journal-Gazette.

A. J. Smith was a Fort Wayne business visitor today.

J. D. Winterberg of Berne was here today on business.

The Henry Doehman family are moving into the Parent residence.

Attorney D. B. Erwin was in Indianapolis today on professional business.
