ATTENTION DEMOCRATS:

On October 7th you will have your last chance to qualify for voting at the November election. If you have not yet registered, you must register then or you disfranchise yourselves. If you have already registered and have since removed into another precinct you must again register from your present precinct or lose your vote. A democratic victory may depend upon your vote. All that the democratic party has been striving for in behalf of the people for sixteen years is involved in your registration. Read the appeal from your state chairman, Mr. Korbly, and register:

There are almost 350,000 citizens of Indiana who have not registered and who can't vote until they do. There is every reason to look forward to a great victory for popular government if every democrat does his part and goes to the polls qualified to vote. The contest may depend upon the failure of men to register. A democratic victory may be lost through over confidence. I appeal to every democrat in Indiana to make himself a committee of one on October 7th to see to it that all his democratic friends and neighbors are registered.

Woodrow Wilson became president of Princeton university when that institution was slipping under the control of rich patrons and favored students. He stopped this movement, restored the branching democracy, which is the better half of student life, and gave the university back to the people. Woodrow Wilson was made governor of New Jersey when that state was a byword of reactionism and trust control. In two years without rant or bluster he has secured more real progress for New Jersey than most states make in ten years. Woodrow Wilson became candidate for president when the air was thick with denunciations and counter denunciations, when everything indicated that the nation was booked for a campaign of billingsgate and mudslinging. With one straightforward utterance, he raised this campaign from the muck into which Roosevelt had plunged it, and put it on the highest plane of political discussion that the country has seen for years. Woodrow Wilson has rendered signal service in every position he has been tried. He has been on the side of the people all the time.—Chicago Journal.

Ollie James, the big Kentuckian, the man who held the highest position in the Baltimore convention, that of permanent chairman, will speak at the court house in this city, Friday afternoon. Every man interested in the questions of so much importance, politically, this year, should hear this distinguished and able senator. He will discuss the issues in a way that will make you understand and it will do you good.

If you have moved from one precinct into another you will have to register again, and you will have to get transfer papers from the auditor's office before Friday. Don't neglect this, as it is most important.

Don't fail to hear Senator Ollie James, the big Kentuckian, at the court house, Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock.

(Advertisement) A VISIT TO PLEASANT MILLS AND RIVARRE

Two Prominent Trading Points of Adams County.

(By a Staff Correspondent)

In our ramifications throughout Adams county, we have had the pleasure of stopping off at both the town of Pleasant Mills and the village of Rivare, or Bobo station, and we can say with pardonable pride that their enterprising merchants are ever alive to the best interests of their large corps of patrons.

Harry Daniels.

The enterprising merchant of Rivare, takes rank among the most public-spirited business men as citizens of this section of the county and he is always fully up to the times. On entering his neat and well arranged store we were greatly surprised and pleased to see the fine display of the various products grown in St. Mary's township, which he has on exhibition. Mr. Daniels knows fully well how to do things, and he has inaugurated a new system to encourage the farmers of his district to try and excel each other in the production of all kinds of both garden and field products, by offering a liberal prize to those who bring in the finest specimen of every product raised in St. Mary's township. The scheme is indeed unique and original, and the display is greatly appreciated by all visitors to this thoroughly up-to-date store.

Henry Colter's Lumber Mills.

We herein also desire to call the public's attention to the large and well equipped hardware lumber mill of Rivare, owned and operated by Henry Colter. This gentleman turns out all kinds of native hardwood lumber for building and bridge purposes, and he does custom sawing for the farmers who bring in their logs to the mill. This gentleman is prepared to give the closest estimate for all kinds of native hardwood lumber and every contract and agreement is carried out to the letter.

Albert Mauller.

Enterprising general merchant of Pleasant Mills. It is most gratifying for this paper to make a few remarks of praise for the store so ably presided over by Mr. Albert Mauller, who is ever alive to the best interest of his large corps of patrons. The stock is well arranged and comprises dry goods and notions, hosiery, all kinds of produce, men's work clothes, staple and fancy groceries, garden and orchard productions and country produce all in excellent assortment and great variety. This gentleman also pays the highest market prices for butter, eggs, poultry and this gentleman runs a well-equipped huckster wagon in connection.

Henry Sovine.

Pioneer merchant of Pleasant Mills. The stock carried by Mr. Sovine comprises a well selected line of general merchandise, including dry and fancy goods, hosiery, novelties and notions, men's work clothes, overalls, jackets, gloves, choice staple and fancy groceries, cigars, tobacco and smokers' articles, candy, garden and orchard productions and country produce, and this gentleman pays the highest market price for butter and eggs, and he does a large exchange business with the farmers, and he is fully up to the times in mercantile ethics, and he is thus enabled to meet the most formidable competition.

Sovine, Mauller & Co.—Grain.

This firm pays the highest market prices for all kinds of oats, garden cereals, and do a large receiving and shipping business. They also deal in hay, chop, wool, salt, coal and feed-stuffs in general. Both Henry Sovine and Albert Mauller are widely and favorably known for their many sterling qualities and high personal worth to the public, and they have succeeded in making hosts of friends and acquaintances.

Brown & Son.

Merchants of Pleasant Mills. We

Sunshine Coats And Suits

Will comply with all the demands of the most critical. We take pride in announcing that a representative showing of Sunshine Styles is now on display in our Ready-to-wear department.

THE BOSTON STORE

cannot fail to make a few remarks of praise of the well known merchants above named. Messrs. Brown & Son carry nearly everything in the line of general merchandise, including groceries, canned goods, crockery, queensware, etc., and they also pay the highest prices for all kinds of produce.

GO TO LOS ANGELES, CAL.

Jerry Coffee and Family will make Home in Sunny South.

Jerry Coffee, a pioneer restaurant man of the city, will leave with his family October tenth, for Los Angeles, Cal., where they expect to make their future home. Mr. Coffee has sold his fine residence property on Winchester street, to Dan Erwin, and has advertised a sale of his household goods to be held Wednesday, October 3. Mr. Coffee has decided to go to California for the benefit of his health and should this become better, will undoubtedly enter business there. They go with the regret of all their friends made during their life-long residence here.

THE BIG GAME NEXT SUNDAY.

"Bones" France and his Columbia City base ball tossers are coming Sunday to meet Curley Ellis and his bunch of pennant winners for the independent championship of Northern Indiana. The Columbia City Greys have beaten about everything from Fort Wayne north, while the Snaricks have won the greater number of games from teams south of Fort Wayne. This will be a battle royal and if you like the game, you should be on hand when the gong sounds at 3 o'clock sharp. Biersdorfer will pitch for the locals and he has been practicing all week on some new ones that will fool "Bones" and his crew.

BUILDING FRONT.

Ramey & Lord, the well known contractors, are building a new front at the Miller building occupied by Callow & Rice. They are making good headway and will have the front finished in a few days.
