Owing to the absence of Miss Madge Hite, who is at Chanute, Kansas, Miss Frances Cole was leader of the study of the Kappa Kappa Kappas Tuesday evening at the home of Mrs. Jesse Helm. Her paper was on "The Great Wall of China and Its Legends," and a reading, "Meditations of a Hindu Prince," by Miss Jean Butler was appropriate. As Miss Hite is expected home by the first of next week, she will be the hostess at the next meeting, February 3, when Miss Florence Myers will be the leader.

The winners will be given a banquet at the close, by the losing side.

Miss Agnes Meibers entertained the Miss Cura club last evening, the Misses Genevieve Bremerkamp and Mamie Harting becoming members of the club. Practical Fashion Hints

By Alice Gibson

The draped dress is undeniably the most graceful model for the afternoon or evening. The folds of material cling to the figure and bring out all its best lines.

Any of the soft materials are suitable; charmeuse, crepe de Chine, the new silk crepes; there are qualities of cashmere that are quite ideal for these dresses.

No. 7895 is a design showing the drop-shoulder, a waist with the yoke cut in one with the upper part of the sleeve, a surplice vest and a three-piece skirt, draped slightly at the side front and side back.

An excellent suggestion for this dress is currant red silk crepe with the folded vest of chiffon in a soft wisteria color. It would also be attractive in a dull blue wool crepe with the vest of white and would perhaps be a bit more practical as it could be worn, often without one bedewing the shade.

This design may be made in size 36 with 5 1/4 yards of 36 inch material. The pattern is cut in 5 sizes; 34 to 42.

This is a Perfect Pattern. Be sure to state right size measuring over the fullest part of the bust for dimensions.

It may be obtained by filling out the coupon and enclosing 15 cents in stamps or coin to the Pattern Department of this paper.

BEAUTY AND SICK HEADACHES

These are sworn enemies and few women may keep both—some simple remedies.

If you are "subject" to sick headaches, then you may be pretty sure the marks do not disappear with the attacks, but remain to mar the beauty of your face. That drawn look, those circles under the eyes, the salowness of the skin—they are all traces left of the headaches.

In nine cases out of ten perhaps this may be effected by exercising a little common sense, for whatever the primary cause, secondarily headaches are due to disordered nerves. The first suggestion, then, is control your nerves. Shut off the tension. Let yourself down. Close your eyes and shut out thoughts. Remain thus for five minutes and tomorrow at noon repeat the performance, and then the next day and next and forever. Then put a watch over yourself and every time during the day when you catch yourself and your nerves getting tightened into knots "let down." A few weeks' attention, and you will find that you have those nerves pretty well under control, and if the headaches haven't stopped annoying altogether you are at least now in condition to deal with them.

Perhaps your system is in a weakened condition and you need a tonic which the doctor will prescribe; but ordinarily camomile tea may just what you need, and certainly it is harmless. The less medicine the better, and never, no matter how disturbing the headaches, be persuaded to "try" powders or sleeping draughts. Better let the headaches take their course than commence that habit.

Eat simply, avoiding rich foods, and eat regularly and often rather than too greedily at times. Drink plenty of water, including a glass of hot water with half a teaspoonful of baking soda in it once a week, and a glass of water with half a teaspoonful of baking soda in it once a week, and a glass of water with half a teaspoonful of tartar half an hour before breakfast one morning out of the six.

Take plenty of rest, snatching a nap if for only five minutes, in the middle of the day. Beware of eye strain. Keep the eyes in condition by dousing them with water with salt in it every night, and keep clear of colds. In fact, use common sense to eliminate the recurrent headache.—Ex- change.

Panama's "Flat Arch."

One of the most famous "flat arches" in the world is to be found in the ruin of the church of Santa Domingo, Panama City, and has stood for nearly three centuries. The arch, says a writer in the Wide World magazine, has an unsupported span of 36 feet 5 inches, and stands 20 feet from the ground. Tradition has it that the Dominican monks planned and built their own church. This arch was near the front of the entrance and supported the organ loft, and it fell down three times as soon as the supports were taken away. Then a monk, who was neither an architect nor an engineer, "dreamed" an arch, and drew up a plan according to his vision. When the arch was for the fourth time completed the designer stood beneath it while the supports were removed, staking his life on his inspired work. It stood and still stands. The church was destroyed by fire in 1727, and now nothing remains but this marvelous arch. The ruin is now the property of private owners, and unless the famous arch is speedily bought by the government of Panama it will be torn down and a modern apartment house will be erected on the site.

Warm Winter Camp.

In winter in the open tent or lean-to you will conserve as much heat from the campfire as possible. That which goes up is lost, but it can be reduced to a minimum by placing the fire as close to the front of the camp as possible and having a rather steeply pitched roof which will catch and reflect the heat waves that go diagonally upward. The heat that would ordinarily spread on the side farthest from the camp can be thrown almost entirely backward into the structure.

The fireplace must have a reflecting back, which is constructed by standing two heavy green sticks in front of the shelter, as close to it as it will be possible to have the fire, and with their tops inclined slightly away from the shelter. Brace them behind with forked sticks, and against their front pile green logs to a height of three feet or more. The fire will be built against these front logs. Better than this reflecting back, face the camp against a big rock if one is available.—Outing.

Hospitable, Anyway.

The mother of a three-year-old girl thought it was about time her small daughter learned the why and wherefore of Christmas. Consequently, one afternoon when they were lying down together to take their afternoon nap she began to tell the little one about the Christ Child and the lowly manger where he was born. As best she could she imparted the idea to the child that Christ was good, and that it was because of his having been born on the 25th of December that the day was called Christmas and was celebrated all over the world.

When she had finished her story she waited for her wee daughter's comment. Receiving none, she looked to see if the child had fallen asleep. She had not; apparently she was thinking, for her blue eyes were very serious.

"Mamma, what did you say that man's name was? I'm going to have a birthday party and invite him."
