DON'T BE AFRAID OF BEING RICH!

"Many a warm heart," says Robert W. Chambers, "beats beneath the waistcoat of a plutocrat."

Which reminds us of a little incident that recently happened.

He was bright and lively and neatly dressed and showed a proud mother's loving care. He was a newsboy and in his daily round he blew into a bank and sold one of the officers a paper. The officer was not connected with the Savings Department and not familiar with its depositors. He talked to the lad about the importance of saving money.

The youngster cocked his small head to one side, listened with a shrewd twinkle in his eye and then into an inside pocket of a neat little jacket he thrust his chubby fist and brought forth a Pass Book and placed it in the Official's hands.

It showed the boy had in the Bank, nicely tucked away, $71. As the bank officer passed it back the little fellow said:

"Huh! I ain't afraid of being rich!"

If that had been your boy, wouldn't you have been proud. Wouldn't any mother in Decatur be proud of him?

Why not teach your son to save? Why not bring him around to the First National Bank of Decatur and open an account. $1.00 does it. It will start your son right.

We want to meet your boy! Wouldn't you bring him around to see us? We like boys at the First National Bank.
