THE WORLD'S NEED

The President of the United States recently made an appeal to all Americans to remain calm during the European conflict. He declared that the United States owes it to mankind to remain in a position to help the rest of the world during the present crisis.

President Wilson puts the appeal on high and true grounds. The world has such need of America as it has never had since this country was established to be a refuge for the poor and oppressed of all nations. The world has need of America, and America cannot, must not, fall in it, the hour of its greatest need.

Motives of the highest self-interest dictate calmness and common sense to America at this moment. These motives alone would have furnished a sufficient justification for the President's counsel of wisdom and moderation. But over and above this aspect of the case looms the higher reason that by such a course America will serve humanity.

The United States owes it to humanity to remain calmly neutral, peaceful, self-collected, so that at the proper moment it may proffer its good offices to restore peace among the warring peoples of Europe, and back that proffer with all the prestige of a great and friendly nation that has kept her material and moral resources unimpaired amid the conflict.

During recent events in which our country has been involved President Wilson's reference to humanity seemed to many people a trifling academic. Today, in the glare of the great conflagration that is bursting over Europe, we see clearly how noble is even the will to serve humanity, how great the obligation, how priceless the opportunity which the European situation presents to our country.

Strong, calm, self-contained, self-confident, fearing nought, realizing that by what almost seems a special interposition of Providence, our country is the only one of the great powers of the European race that is beyond the widening ring of war, the only one that remains to speak with disinterested voice for peace, let us wait the favorable opportunity that the President desires to serve humanity.—Chicago Herald. INDIANA DEMOCRATS

The record of the accomplishments of the Indiana Democratic party since it has been in power is an open page for all to read. It is a page filled with achievements to make every man who owes allegiance to the party that still adheres to the principles of Thomas Jefferson hold his head high with pride.

Indiana never had a legislature that put on its statute books so many progressive laws as that of 1913. It was of this legislature that some of the most prominent men in the republican party wrote in the annual report of the Indiana State Board of Charities that:

"The past year is notable because of the large number of excellent laws enacted by the general assembly of 1913."

That report was signed by John H. Holliday, president of the Union Trust company, formerly owner and editor of the Indianapolis News. It was also signed by Demarchus C. Brown, state librarian, an eminent scholar, formerly professor at Butler university. Mr. Brown is the brother of Hilton U. Brown, present business manager of the Indianapolis News.

The 1913 legislature passed the vocational educational law which Superintendent of Public Instruction Chas. A. Greathouse declares the greatest piece of constructive legislation since the adoption of the constitution.

It gave to Indiana a Public Service Commission.

It passed the housing law which insured to the poor, decent living conditions. It gave the educational and benevolent institutions a tax levy of their own which makes it possible to conduct these state universities and benevolent institutions on a business basis, with a fixed sum for maintenance.

These are a few of the great legislative acts of the democratic party national and state—who will say that it does not deserve the endorsement of the people at the November election?

Governor Ralston will open the campaign in Indiana next Tuesday night at Indianapolis and from that time on until November 3rd there will be plenty doing in the old Hoosier state.

The democrats will open their campaign in Adams county about the 21st. Plans are now being made for meetings in various parts of the county. The issues will be squarely met and fairly discussed.

President Wilson has designated Sunday, October 4, as a day of prayer for the warring nations of the world. On that day in every church in the land fervent prayers will be offered that the terrible sacrifice of young manhood may cease. More every day this splendid man proves his strength of character, a great ruler of whom any land might well feel proud.

Every time a man buys a $7 suit of clothes he can give himself credit with three dollars and thank the democratic tariff bill for it. Under the old Aldrich tariff he paid $20 for the same suit and the farmer got less for his wool. The same is true of women's coats and suits. If the government has to resort to 50 cents a barrel tax on beer and a cent a bottle on patent medicines to make up the revenue deficit, most of us can save it on our clothes.—Newcastle Times.

COUNCIL NINISH

In those townships and corporations of the county where the tax rate is high it is because of road, school or other tax imposed by the people of that community and by them alone. The specials adopted included $3,000 for the new heating plant at the county infirmary. No action was taken on the rest room. The appropriations asked were reduced several thousand dollars.

MAN AND NEEDLE

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) sible, on account of the great amount of extra equipment needed, to fit up the cooking classes. Next year, the other branch of domestic science, cooking, will be taken up.

The sewing classes will be confined to the seventh and eighth grades and the high schools, and there will be two lessons of forty-five minutes each, a week, or their equivalent.

Samples of the new sewing books have been received by County Superintendent Christen and are very interesting. Each pupil receives a book, and with it are instructions for each lesson, samples of goods, needles, threads and patterns to be used in the practical work. The lessons begin with the stitches and the instructions are so plain that the clumsiest man can soon be a master hand at threading, holding and using the needle properly.

Then comes the use of the tape measure, hemming, making of a sewing bag, stitching on canvas, with the chain stitch, making a towel, sewing a seam, making an apron and mending a three-cornered tear. The making of lingerie, flannel skirts, French knots, darning, button hole making, sewing on buttons, running, patching and other forms of work are each given consideration, and will have their turn in the practical lessons. The books are carefully graded and will make the steps leading up to the more finished work, very easy.

AGRICULTURE CLASSES

If the men teachers will find it difficult to teach this branch, the women teachers will have just as much difficulty in teaching agriculture to the boys, for this is a part of the practical work this year also.

The lessons will cover the soil, soil fertility, etc., and there will also probably be practical club work. Agricultural clubs will be organized and the actual raising of crops given attention.

The various township institutes will be outlined in advance and special institute instructors, one for the domestic science and one for the agriculture, will be secured to instruct the teachers in these special lines at the institute this winter.

BIG WEDDING PARTY

Friday night a wedding "party" that kept one justice of the peace busy for more than half an hour took place in Benton Harbor, Mich. Twenty-five couples were married in the executive parlors of the administration building of the Israelite colony there. This is a religious sect whose members believe in the immortality of the body. Justice of the Peace Frank L. Hammond presided. An orchestra played. The couples marched into a room which was gaily decorated in flowers and ferns for the occasion. There being no regularly ordained minister in the colony, the justice was called on to perform the ceremony. The brides were gowned in white, while the grooms, their belief forbidding conventional black, wore suits of tan, even to tan shoes. Each man stood beside his prospective wife and then the justice passed down the line, uniting each couple in marriage. Supper followed the ceremony. Under the Israelite faith no couple of the colony can marry until such time as their bodies have gone through a process of purification which leaves them "free of sin." Twenty-five couples had attained the stage of purity in mind and body and had permission of the leaders, Mary and Benjamin, to take unto each other a mate.

WILL MOVE TO HUNTINGTON.

G. C. Steele returned from Toledo, Ohio, and left today for Cincinnati, Ohio. He is buying goods for the new racket store he will open in Huntington. C. J. Weaver is now in Huntington, where he is attending to the arranging of the shelving and fixtures for the new store. Mr. Steele will move his family there as soon as he can secure a house.

Miss Agnes Costello returned yesterday from Rome City where she with a number of Fort Wayne friends were members of a house party since Friday.

Mrs. M. E. Hower will entertain at dinner tomorrow for Mrs. Eli Petersen and daughter, Leona of Jeffersonville, Ind., and Mrs. Robert Ernsberger of Bluffton, Ind.

The parlors of the Pythian Home were thrown open yesterday to a large number when the Pythian Needle club was entertained by Mesdames Charles Elzey, Fred Fruchte and S. E. Hite.

The guests busied themselves with their sewing until just before the luncheon hour, when refreshments, very delicious and appetizing, were served, a state contest was in order.

Mrs. Fristoe won the prize in this.

The members of the Needles and Nods club and their husbands will meet Thursday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Frank Carroll.

The Queen Esters will have a delightful meeting Thursday evening at the home of Miss Nell Myers on Winchester street. The program will be in charge of Gladys Flanders and Ramona Smith and the hostess will be assisted in entertaining by the Misses

Doris DeVoss and Gladys Graham.

Plans will be completed for the hobo

social to be given Friday evening,

and the presence of all members is especially desired at this time.

A crowd of merry young people made up a hay rack party last evening and drove to the Alphonse Kohne farm house, where doors were opened "wide" for them by Mr. and Mrs. Kohne, and they enjoyed a big country supper. Baskets filled with most every delicious article on the market were taken along and a number of fine "springers" were also prepared for the hungry bunch. Through the courtesy of the Holthouse Drug company a Victor-Victrola was taken along and music and dancing was enjoyed by all. Those making up the party were the Misses Veda and Leah Hensley, Gladys Myers, Dorothy Dugan, Ruth Bowers, Hope Hoffman, Leon Bosse, Mary Frisinger, and Glenys Mangold; Messrs. Jesse Cole, Herman Ehinger, Raymond Kohne, Dan Tyn dall, Bob Merryman, Lloyd Beery, Pete Peterson, Leon Crawford and Arthur Holthouse.

Jean Lutz, Fred Smith, Jennie Long and infrared Burk motored to Portland, where they spent yesterday afternoon.

Miss Edna Hoffman has issued in-itations for a party for her sister,

Mrs. Walter Plew, of DesPlains, Ill.,

tomorrow afternoon.

Miss Harriet Wilder of Monmouth

was the guest of Miss Fanchon Mag-ley at dinner today.

Mrs. Mary Meyers of south of the city entertained at a family dinner party today noon for Mr. and Mrs. Tom Haefling of Indianapolis.

Miss Zelda Schnitz entertained the Young People's Alliance of the Evangelical church at their regular business and social meeting last evening.

A vocal solo by Miss Schnitz, recitations by Mesdames Rilling and E. M.

Schnitz and a piano duet by the Misses

Vernia Smith and Zelda Schnitz made an enjoyable program. Refreshments were served. Plans for a social to be given this fall were also made.
