WATCH YOUR STEP:

Here is what Woodrow Wilson thinks of the presidency:

"I need not tell you that the president, by himself, is absolutely nothing. The president is what the American nation sustains, and, if it does not sustain him then his power is contemptible and insignificant."

No more eloquent plea for harmony on the part of American citizens, of whatever nativity, could possibly be made by a chief executive. President Wilson always appears to advantage when appealing to the loyalty of the people, but this appeal is quite the best he has made since European trouble started.

It is a direct warning not to rock the boat. Every citizen should watch his step and see to it that his actions coincide with the policies which have been adopted by his government in this world crisis. The country in the main agrees with the president in his ideas of neutrality, but it must be made unanimous.

The president is right when he says that the calm citizens are the stabilizers of any government. With out the support and co-operation of the people in a crisis of this kind, the effort of the greatest executive would be to no avail.—Battle Creek Journal Rep.

big case as a government representative and he has made good, receiving the compliments of attorneys with him and opposing him in the big trial. As to how far the results of the case will go in cleaning up Terre Haute remains to be seen but at any rate, Frank Dailey, a democratic public official did not hesitate in performing his duties, whether or not those duties were distasteful to him.

Jess Willard, the big Kansas cowboy brought home the bacon, winning from Jack Johnson, the worlds championship of the prize ring, after twenty-six rounds of fighting. He will no doubt proceed to go to the devil now at a mile a minute gait and within a short time will have to retire from the ring or take a wallowing like he gave his negro opponent yesterday. Not much to it but a lot of people are rejoicing over the fact that the black man can no longer carry the title which made him physically superior to the white man.

If you have any ideas concerning the boys gymnasium, you should notify the committee. They will be glad to consider any suggestion and will be sure to approve any plans that will be to the benefit of the young people of this community.

A little cleaning up won't take you long and it means so much to the community that you will be ashamed if you don't do it. Clean up your yard, swat the flies, get ready for spring and summer. Its here.

HOW TO LIVE A HUNDRED YEARS.

There is nothing any easier than to live a hundred years. Simply follow the rules given below and you'll surely reach the century mark. These rules were secured by Adam Foole, who went to two learned physicians at great expense. Every rule must be followed. If they are, the two great physicians positively guarantee that the candidate will live one hundred years—perhaps more:

Eat very little fat—it retards the digestion.

Eat plenty of fat—it builds up the nerve tissues.

Take a cold water bath every morning before breakfast.

Never bathe in water below the temperature of your body.

Take frequent vacations. Too much work is bad for anyone.

Keep busy. Remember that work is man's greatest blessing.

Don't smoke. Tobacco is a stimulant. It excites the nervous system.

Light up occasionally. A good cigar is a man's blessing.

Sleep out of doors. Fresh air is a body builder.

Sleep inside. An open window will provide plenty of fresh air.

Eat plenty of meat—a man needs it.

Don't eat too much meat. Once a day is plenty.

Get married.

Remain single.

Want to live a hundred years? Well go to it.—The People's Post.
