DIDN'T HE OVERSTEP?

The ambitious young republican prosecutor of Marion county rather overstepped himself. By securing the indictment of Thomas Taggart, Mayor Bell and Chief of Police Parrott he has disclosed, what for his purposes should have been carefully concealed, the political animus of the proceedings. The rumor has been going the rounds that the more ambitious attempt of indicting Governor Ralston had been actually considered. What sort of conspiracy the governor was guilty of was not made quite clear. Now, no one believes that Mayor Bell, Mr. Taggart or the other prominent democrats mentioned had any hand or direction in any of the election offenses alleged. Men of position in politics are not out jacking voters or procuring others to commit these crimes. No one expects a conviction in the election cases, notwithstanding all the judicial machinery of Marion county is in the hands of republicans. The purpose is not to convict but to humiliate and scandalize prominent democrats. It is a process that has been going on in New Albany, Kokomo and other parts of the state. It has an outcropping in the indictment of a batch of legislators and state officials last fall. To lug in Donn Roberts was a rather course bit of work. Donn is a very energetic person, but some people may doubt his physical ability to do all the things charged against him in Terre Haute and yet have time to corrupt the honest electorate of Marion county. The palpable purposes of bringing in Donn Roberts is to connect in the minds of the public the conditions in Terre Haute with those in Indianapolis. The object is to show some sort of esoteric connection between the conduct of the election in Terre Haute and in Indianapolis, or else to give the impression that a sameness existed. But we think the instigators of the indictments have gone so far as to direct it themselves. What is needed is a probe of the conspiracy, far reaching and cunningly managed, to have prominent democrats in all parts of the state scandalized and humiliated.—Evansville Courier.

This is the "hay-day" for the farmer, and quickly following will come wheat harvest, oats, rye, potatoes and corn and beets. This is some country in which to live and if you doubt it take a look at the splendid looking fields.

The sale last week was a big success. Why not have a Decatur Dollar Day? It would prove the biggest of all. A dollar package attracts and by giving real bargains you will get business that you won't get otherwise. It pays to be alive and you will notice it at the end of the year. Mr. Merchant, but you must not try to fool the people. Give them good goods at good prices and you will have a good trade. Let's try a Decatur Dollar Day. Our competitor says "the joke is on us," because they made a misstatement in their paper. Well, perhaps it is. Just let it go at that, though we always found when we made 'em the joke was on us. It might be well to read up the ditch laws before handing out so much advice.

DOINGS IN SOCIETY

WEEK'S CLUB CALENDAR.

Friday. Zion Lutheran Ladies' Aid—School House. Saturday. Mt. Pleasant Mite Social—Ben Butler Home.

Be Kind Now. Dost thou intend a kindness to thy loved one? Do it straightway before the future comes, destroying thy opportunity—Carlyle.

The Ladies' Aid society of the Presbyterian church will meet with Mrs. C. F. Davison at 421 North Second street, next Thursday afternoon. This is a special meeting and each lady is requested to take some article for the Hope box. Work for the bazaar to be held next fall will be started at this meeting, and the articles are to form the nucleus of the things the ladies will prepare for that event. Other work for the afternoon will be furnished.

The Home Guards of the Methodist church will be entertained Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Mel Butler on Fourth street Thursday afternoon.

Miss Josephine Myers will entertain the Queen Esthers circle Thursday evening and she will be assisted by the Misses Electa Baltzell and Florence Myers. The newly appointed superintendents, Mrs. O. L. Vance and Mrs. J. T. Myers will also be present and assist. The annual election of officers will be held and reports from the delegates to the recent district convention will be given.

Jesse Braden and family, Tom Dent and family motored here from Fort Wayne and were guests of their parents C. U. Dorwin and family.

The ladies of the St. Vincent de Paul society will be entertained Wednesday afternoon by Mrs. Joseph Knapke at her home on north Second street.

The wedding of Miss Emma Gillig and Mr. Andrew F. Gast of Celina, O., will be solemnized Wednesday morning at the St. Mary's Catholic church.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank Pearce entertained at dinner Sunday at their home 225 North Seventh street for Mrs. Tom Smith of Phoenix, Arizona, who is the guest of the Henry Gunset family. Covers were also laid for Mr. and Mrs. C. D. Dullehan, Miss Esther Dullehan, James Rosseau of Fort Wayne; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Gunset and their daughters, Ida and Lydia, delicious chicken dinner was served, with all the good things that go with it and in the afternoon pictures of the party in the automobile were taken. Mrs. C. L. Lamborn joining them for the afternoon. There were also joy rides in the auto to round out the delightful time. In the evening, Mrs. Smith with the Henry Gunset family, were taken in the auto to Willshire and other places of interest.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Lachot and son, Noble, of Fort Wayne spent Sunday here with their son, H. S. Lachot, and wife. Mr. Lachot returned last evening, but Mrs. Lachot and Noble will remain for several days.

Mr. Deardorff of Chicago, of the firm of Deardorff & Hoffman, spent Sunday here with the A. C. Ball family.

Miss Jessie Winnea, accompanied by Margaret and Amy Kremers, went to Anderson this morning to visit with Miss Winnes' sister, Mrs. Hugh Miller, several days.

Mr. and Mrs. George Braun threw open their hospitable county home south of the city yesterday for the entertainment of a party of friends and relatives who were their guests at dinner and supper. The day was a very pleasing one. Guests were Mr. and Mrs. Claude Coffee, Mr. and Mrs. James Colchin and daughter, Mary Jane; Mildred Coffee, Josephine Lang, Edith Miller, Ed Berling, Jerome and Adran Coffee.

A large number of the high school girls' Bible club took their supper and left on the 2:30 car for Monmouth where they had a picnic. Their teacher Mrs. C. E. Bell accompanied them.

Mr. and Mrs. Merle Laisure of West Adams street entertained at dinner Sunday for Mr. and Mrs. Virgil Wolfe and children, Ada, Emma, Bareneta, Calvin and Doyle; Mr. and Mrs. Will Wolfe and children, Hubert and Catherine; Mr. and Mrs. Otis Brandyberry and son, Harold; Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Yager and children, Harold and Floyd; Mr. and Mrs. Albert Schlickman, Frances Howard, James Howard of Delphos; his, Maxine Laisure and Howard Peterson.

AUTO IS BURNED

(CONTINUED FROM PAGE ONE) Five tires are said to have burst—two on the rear wheels of the auto and three extras carried. The men are said to have jumped from the burning car, which, thus abandoned ran into the ditch where it was left to burn.

It's A Long Road To Happiness

It's A Long Road to Happiness

Poker, Tong—Keep Them All Going

It's a long road to happiness and there are no jitney busses to take you there. The other day on my news gathering route I saw one of the clerks reading a story. It was entitled "It's a Long Road to Happiness." And that set us thinking. As I said before, there are no jitneys to take us there. It is a slow journey. Some of it is by foot over rough and stony ways; others more fortunate have a slow journey by the old fashioned stage coach. But the fare to Happiness is a big one. A toll is collected at every stage of the journey. Happiness is the station that you will always reach tomorrow—and tomorrow never comes. Proctor says: "It is ever thus with happiness; It is the gay tomorrow of the mind. That never comes."

Horace speaks the truth partially, when he says: "You traverse the world in search of happiness, which is within the reach of every man; a contented mind confers it on all." Right enough, but how is one with ambition and high deals to have the contented mind?

To be perfectly happy, one must be perfectly contented. No one, except a person who has no mind, no ambition, no striving after ideals will be perfectly contented and hence perfectly happy. No one ever quite reaches his ideal, because the ideal shifts upward, with each rise on the plane. "What is happiness?" we asked. Ever Pope cannot define it otherwise than this: "Who that define it say they more or less than this, that happiness is happiness."

I say that happiness is that condition you expect to be in when you get something you haven't got. But just as soon as you get it, you do not want it; you sigh for something else you haven't got, and thus keep on and on, expecting to find Happiness just around the bend in the road. Don't you remember some wee little thing that you have always wanted, when you were quite tiny; and when you got it, you weren't satisfied? Don't you remember when you got a penny for candy? Well, somehow the word spread, miraculously, didn't it, until there were two or three little playmates ready to accompany you on the trip to the candy store. Of course you always knew just which place gave the very most for your money—a count always verified that. Your noses pressed the glass in the kind—and then once gotten, it was carefully divided out among you all. Don't you remember your resolve that when you got "big" and had all the money of your own that you wanted, you were going to buy a "whole nickel's worth" of candy and eat it all yourself? I do. But when I got big and had lots of nickels, I just didn't want the candy—a whole box of Schuyler's best would not have tempted me. I wanted something else. It's a homely little illustration, but one that will prove out in everything we think we need to complete happiness.

Since happiness is the station "just around the bend in the road," it seems that it is never to be gained except in some bright tomorrow—the world to come. Sheridan says: "True happiness is not the growth of earth.

The soil is fruitless if you seek it there; 'Tis an exotic of celestial birth, And never blooms but in celestial air.

Sweet plant of paradise! its seeds are sown

In here and there a breath of heavenily mould,

It rises slow, and buds, but ne'er was known

To blossom here—the climate is too cold."

About the nearest approach to achieving earthly happiness is given by Adam Clark, who says:

"I have lived to know that the great secret of human happiness is this: Never suffer your energies to stagnate. The old adage of 'too many irons in the fire,' conveys an untruth—you cannot have too many—poker, tongs—and all, keep them going."

Yours truly, The Hoosier Observer

THE MAN WHO CAME BACK FROM THE WAR ON TUBERCULOSIS

By special arrangement and through the courtesy of local Modern Woodmen, the Crystal theater had booked a reel of 1,940 feet, featuring Robert Wilson of Missouri, in a true and realistic film story of his part in the present war—not of bloodshed—but in the fight against and conquest of that menacing monster of the human flesh—tuberculosis. Wilson is one of the million members of the Modern Woodmen of America. Discovering that he is afflicted with this disease, he takes advantage of the comforts, care and cure of the Sanatorium owned, maintained and operated by that Society, free of charge to its members. For several years that fraternal institution has thus actively and effectively cooperated in the world-wide movement advocated by the Red Cross and medical authorities, to stamp out the dread "white plague" and Wilson is the beneficiary of this Woodmen life-saving station. It is an intensely interesting and heart-gripping story of the leaving-taking of wife and children. Weak in body and hopeless in mind he journeys to the beautiful Rocky Mountain region near Colorado Springs, Colo., where in the rarified climate and constant sunshine, at an altitude of 7,000 feet, he is destined to spend nine months at the foot of Mount Cedar, in the care of the most modern Sanatorium in the world. His experiences in "chasing the cure", his absolute rest from all cares and labor, his gradual return to health and strength, his "hikes" among the fragrant pines and over the rock trails of the U. S. forest reserve, leased by and adjoining the sanatorium, result in his final return to family and friends, victorious over his foe. "The Man Who Came Back" is a thrilling and dramatic story—and absolutely true as well; indeed, his experience has been duplicated by nearly 2,000 of his fellow neighbors, who have already enjoyed the benefits of this justly celebrated institution. This film is pronounced by competent authorities to be one of the very best in this highly-developed age of motion pictures, and it is in such great demand that it can be booked for only one day and night in each town or city. It is a rare opportunity one cannot afford to miss. At the Crystal theater, on July 1, afternoon and evening. Admission 5c.

THE WEAK POINTS

Our Experts have made a thorough study of the weak points in binders and the Walter A. Wood binder has profited thereby to such an extent that it is absolutely the lightest running and strongest machine on the market.

Not only have they remedied these defects, but have added several improvements, such as an absolutely dependable knotter, perfect sheaf separator and easy adjustable to meet all conditions of grain. It would require a book to tell of the many other good points so we extend to you a cordial invitation to inspect one of these machines and see for yourself the economy and labor it will save you.
