THE DEATH OF FATHER HELLER:—

Father Heller has been laid to rest in beautiful Maplewood cemetery. All that tender hands and loving hearts could find to do for his comfort during the three weeks in which he suffered have been done and there remains only the memory of a life well spent in this community. His associates at the bar, his fellow jurists, his friends and neighbors have spoken their farewells and have aided in lifting the heavy load of grief from those who loved him dearly and truly.

For fifty years Judge Heller worked in this community, serving those about him, striving always to be fair and just, thinking ever of others more than himself, solicitous almost to a fault, of his family, his friends, his community. He has walked through the path of life uprightly, fearlessly, carefully, and he leaves us the memory of that life, a legacy far greater than could be counted in gold or worldly riches.

His long record is completed. He continued the practice of law up to the very day he was stricken three weeks ago and his fidelity to his clients, his love for his family, his constant, ever-watchful guarding of them will always remain sacred with us. He was honest, upright and fair, a loving husband and father and hard as is the parting we derive much solace from the memory of his teachings and the example he gave us of how best to live and manfully to die.

The beautiful expressions, sincere as we believe them from those who have known him the longest, are accepted as we know they are meant, coming from the hearts of those who expressed them, and we are deeply and everlastingly grateful for the words and thoughts and hand clasps which softened so much the saddest hour in our life.

The state legislature is on and in real old-fashioned style. They met and adjourned, two days being paid for all around and without a nickel's worth of service in return. It might be just as well if they would adjourn in continued session until March 5th, and then quit.

The beautiful sunshine today is but further evidence that behind the clouds does the sun still shine. Let's keep on keeping at it. Let's do something for some one else. Let's do something that will help everybody. It's so easy to become selfish and to think only of that which helps ourselves, when if we stop to think, we know that the only pleasure in this world comes from what we do for each other.

A Duluth man cursed "Central" by wire and went to the penal farm for eighty-five days. Good! There is nothing more unreasonable than the coarse and brutal attack by telephone directed against the young woman who sits enthroned in usefulness at the telephone exchange. Miss Central is the courteous and helpful go-between of business and social life.

The world whirls about "Central" as a modern axis. The girl on the wire is entitled to the same respect and credit for good work well done as is any other agent of commerce. The world depends on the patience, alert intelligence, dexterity and loyalty of Miss Central. Think what would happen to us all if the telephones of a sudden were to go out of commission, and if Miss Central should take it into her pretty head to quit work short off. No, it is mighty poor business as well as beastly bad taste to swear at Miss Central. We are glad the Duluth man got what was coming to him. His fate ought to be a warning to all grumblers who let their evil tempers get the better of their tongues while waiting for telephone service.—Indiana Daily Times.

At their home on Fourth street, Clara and Agnes Miller gave a farewell party Wednesday evening for their sister, Eleanor, who left early this morning for Fond du Lac, Wis., to enter the St. Agnes convent, to become a sister of that order. In a napkin-hemmed contest Miss Mary Eiting and Miss Trude Smith secured the prizes, and in a word contest, Agnes Noswald and Mrs. Ed Tonneller were successful. Music, singing, with a two-course lunch closed a very pleasant evening.

All our earlier presidents ate with their knives—the stately George Washington, the irascible John Adams, the original Thomas Jefferson, the learned James Madison, and the popular James Monroe—each shodded in his food with his knife. John Quincy Adams was the first President who ate with his fork. And his wife felt it necessary to explain to the guests at the White House that "Mr. Adams had learned to eat with his fork while in France, and that he couldn't overcome the habit." Andrew Jackson restored the "republican simplicity" of eating with his knife. All of those we have named also poured their tea or coffee into their saucers to cool it. It is related of Gen. Taylor that when he was President he could be seen in the streets of Washington early in the morning with a market basket on his arm going from one butcher to another and bargaining for a steak or a rib roast. If he had bargained less persistently he might have served out his term, for we have heard it was owing to the inferior quality of the cherries he ate on the 4th of July, 1850, that sickness attacked him and he died on the 9th of July.—Magazine of History.

Mrs. J. H. Bremerkamp and Mrs. Beecher Meibers, at the home of the former entertained the St. Vincent de Paul society yesterday afternoon. The election of officers was the chief business consideration, resulting as follows: President, Mrs. A. Kohne; secretary, Mrs. Herman Gillig; treasurer, Mrs. L. A. Holthouse. A social period prevailed after the election. Mrs. Charles Meibers will have the February meetings.

Decatur friends of Miss Esther Evans, a former Decatur girl, daughter of J. R. Evans of Sturgis, Mich., will be interested in hearing of her marriage which took place at Sturgis, October 28, to Raymond Boyer, a machinist of that place.

Mrs. Will Richards who left Friday morning for Akron, O., to join Mr. Richards in making that place their home, was given a farewell surprise Thursday evening by forty members of the Royal Neighbors' lodge, of which she was oracle, and one of the leading members since its organization here. A picnic supper was provided and games and social amusements contributed to the entertainment. Dr. Elizabeth Burns gave a short talk and in behalf of the lodge, presented Mrs. Richards with a set of silver tea and table spoons as a token of their esteem and good will. Mrs. Richards will be greatly missed by her many friends here, and especially in the lodge where she was so active a worker.

The Pythian Sisters will have initiation Monday evening, when Mrs. Grace Walters and Mrs. Lucy Miller will be received.

Mrs. C. W. McMillen and daughter, Flo, and Mrs. Richard Dunn, of Napoleon, O., are guests of Mrs. D. B. Erwin.

Mrs. C. S. Carey and Miss Ruth Hubbard attended a show in Fort Wayne this afternoon and had dinner this evening in the city.

The W. C. T. U. will meet on next Tuesday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock at the home of Mrs. Jacob Atz.

Misses Erna Houk and Clara Boknecht went to Mopmouth this morning to join the other Root township teachers in holding the institute there. At noon a picnic dinner was provided. A good program was given.

Zion Reformed Christian Endeavor society met in monthly meeting on Thursday evening with Albert Miller, it being the annual meeting the election was held. The society elected for president, Harry Knapp; vice-president, Augusta Yager; secretary, Lulu Gerber; treasurer, Herald Kirsch; pianist, Ruth Mayer. The society voted $25 for the building fund. It was decided to set the goal for the building fund this year at $100. After this the Intermediate C. E. society will meet with the Seniors for the social meetings. In February the society meets with Letta Wetter.

The section of the Christian Pastoral Helpers of which Mrs. G. C. Steele is chairman, met at the home of Mrs. Lawrence Schlegel yesterday afternoon. One of the important things attended to was the arranging for a ten cent social to be given on Thursday evening at the home of Mrs. Harry Helm on North Third street. The orchestra will play, a good program will be given and a lunch served. Everybody is invited to come.

the members of the bar, and the people of Jay county in general.

Judge Heller was distinctively devoted to the law; for more than forty years no other vocation claimed any part of his time. It can truly be said that as a presiding judge nature had been kind to him, as the judicial ermine fit him well; he was dignified to the extent that well became the position. But with it was kindness; he guarded his expressions while on the bench with the greatest of care and freed himself from either side of the controversy, and was as fair as it is within the power of man to be. When a question of fact was submitted to a jury for trial, his conduct was such that the litigant had the fact fully and fairly determined by that body. He was deliberate and his conclusions were reached not on the theory of chance or guess, but worked out from the basic principles of the law and equity in the light of the facts, in a careful, methodical and logical manner. Thus the parties had the benefit of the judgment of the court upon every matter that came before him.

We hope that Judge Heller, in his lifetime, was aware of the high esteem in which he was held by the members of the bar of the Jay circuit court. We know of no higher thought that can come to a man in any walk of life than to be conscious of the fact, while living, that his life has been such that when he is removed by death and mortality takes on immortality that he will be remembered with kindness and affection by his surviving friends.

It does not fall to the lot of every man in life to have extended to him as wide a field of usefulness as that extended to the deceased. Humanity, however, is fortunate when the field of usefulness is so enlarged that men of this splendid type are called upon to occupy the same.

Judge Heller's kindly bearing and his whole life as it passed before the people was such as to disclose a love for his fellow-man, and this he supplemented by an abiding faith that the grave is not the end of all.

Let us strive to emulate his noble life to the end that the high profession of the law may be what it was intended, that justice be done between man and man.

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the family of the deceased, and may the same convey to them the high esteem in which we held the departed; and that a page of the order book of the Jay circuit court be dedicated for the purpose of recording our estimate of the life and character of Judge Daniel D. Heller as here embodied; and to the end that the members of the bar of the Adams circuit court have before them the evidence of our appreciation of their deceased brother, we ask that the same be recorded in an appropriate

Children's Colds

Mother knows that turpentine and-lard will loosen the cough and break the cold if anything will. But the up-to-date mother doesn't mix turpentine and-lard herself when she can buy Turpo.

Here is the old-fashioned remedy put up in a newer, better form. In place of the uninviting animal fat (lard) a clean base of mineral origin is used. And cooling menthol and healing camphor are added—in just the right proportions.

Turpo loosens the congestion. A dose of Dr. Drake's Glesco Croup Remedy will remove the phlegm. You'll find both these standard remedies at your Druggist's.

DENTISTS FORMULA

VEGETABLE CALOMEL

Vegetable calomel, extract of the root of the old-fashioned may-apple plant, does not salivate. As a liver stimulant, it's great. It's a perfect substitute for ordinary calomel (mercury); in fact, it's better, because its action is gentle instead of severe and irritating—and it leaves no mean, disagreeable after-effects. Physicians recognize this and prescribe may-apple root (podyphyllin, they call it) daily.

Combined with four other standard, all-vegetable remedies, may-apple root may now be had at most any druggist's in convenient sugar-coated tablet form by asking for Senreco Laxatives. If you forget the name, ask for the box that has the picture of the soldier on it.

These tablets are small, easy to take and are really wonderful little performers. They quickly clean out the poisons that are causing you headache, constipation, sour stomach, biliousness, dizzy spells, bad breath and coated tongue.

They are mild. They never gripe. And they are a bowel tonic as well as a cleanser and liver regulator. A 10c box should last one several weeks. A Physician's trial package (4 doses) will be mailed you free if you write mentioning this advertisement. The Senreco Remedies Co., 802 Madison Ave., Covington, Ky.

Tecktonius' Self-Adjusting Silo Hoop Fasteners

Automatically adjusts silo to all straw swelling and shrinking. Gives six to ten inches take-up. Takes 2500 pounds to make taut.

SILLO CONSTRUCTION REVOLUTIONIZED

By mastering the problem of the shrinking and swelling of wood staves—at the same time always keeping the silo rigid and air tight—Tecktonius has revolutionized silo construction. This is accomplished by Tecktonius' original, exclusive, self-adjusting hoop and door fasteners and "hinged" silo door. These distinctive, potential Tecktonius features overcome the defects and troubles of ordinary wood silo construction. They make the Tecktonius silo tight, give it all the strength and rigidity of concrete, and all the perfect silage making properties of wood.

TECKTONIUS' SELF-ADJUSTING SILO

Is assembled complete in our yards and sold only through us in this territory. Its matchless Tecktonius features—self-adjusting hoop and door fasteners, hinged silo door, immovable anchorage—give you a silo absolutely unequalled for stability, rigidity, perfect silage making and convenience in opening and closing.

COSTS LESS—LASTS LONGER GIVES BETTER SATISFACTION

Tecktonius Silo excels in every feature insuring silo construction superiority—silo service satisfactory. By eliminating silo makers' excessive overhead expenses and profits we sell you the Tecktonius at less than you pay for vastly inferior silos.

WE HAVE THE PROOFS

Don't take our word. See sample hinge silo door and self-adjusting hoop fastener at our office, and be convinced.
