Many of our good people are interested in the proposed Old Home Week to be held during 1919 after the boys come home. It's not too early to begin the plans and if you are interested you should say so. Give us your opinion and your ideas. Remember the similar event held in 1912? It was a great week and those who got into it enjoyed it thoroughly. If we do it again we should make that our model and improve it. It won't cost much and it will do a lot of good in many ways, not the least of which the paying of due honor to the boys who have served their nation in the great war.

President Wilson and his associates who will represent the United States at the peace conference will sail tomorrow for Europe. They will take the most prominent part in the greatest international gathering ever held and they will mold the terms of the treaty that will prevent future wars and make the world a better place in which to live. Five hundred American newspaper men left today for overseas and they will report every item of news carefully and correctly. You will be reading history whether you realize it or not and you will soon recognize more than ever that you live in the greatest nation of all the world.

This is the month of December, the closing of the most important year in all history. It has carried with it many efforts on your part as a good citizen and you have played a more significant turn in the great drama than you perhaps imagine. Adams county has made good on every demand. We have furnished men and money and we have done it in such a splendid way in towns and in the country that we must not fail now. The war saving stamp campaign will close December 31st and by that time we must have paid in $436,500 for stamps, which return you four per cent interest compounded if left five years and which will be returned to you on ten days' notice at any time with three per cent. You can't beat it as an investment and you should keep up your record as a citizen worth while in the most momentous age of time.

The legislature of Indiana will meet next month and as usual they will consider a wholesale number of proposed laws, good, bad, indifferent, most of them not worth the paper used on them, many offered just to muddy the water and a few badly needed. It requires the careful thought and attention of the representatives and senators to vote intelligently on these measures and in this you can be of great service. Study the laws, form your opinion and communicate with your representative. You are a citizen of the state, your interests are affected by each law passed, you should protect yourself by telling your servant in the legislature your opinion. Tax, road, health, and other problems will be considered. What do you want? It's time to be thinking about it.

The peace delegates and other guests are expected to be aboard the vessel before 3 o'clock Tuesday, at which hour she is scheduled to steam out to Gravesend bay and anchor, awaiting President Wilson. The battleship Pennsylvania will proceed from Brooklyn navy yard to meet the vessel, with an escort of five of the fastest destroyers.

COURT HOUSE NEWS

The case of the State vs. Will Hammell is being heard before a jury and Judge D. E. Smith today in the Adams circuit court. Hammell was charged by J. T. Martz, town marshal of Berne, with being found in public intoxication on Maine street, Berne, April 6. Hammell pleaded not guilty this morning and the trial began. The jury was impaneled by about eleven o'clock.

Hooper & Lenhart, for Eliza Fink, filed a suit for divorce from Charles Fink; and asking $2500 and a restraining order, but the case was dismissed a short time after filing. She sets out that they lived together until November 19 and have eight children, the youngest being 16 years of age. She charged cruel and inhuman treatment, in that he obligated her to assist in field work on the farm in all kinds of weather; threatened to beat and kill her; and provided no doctor or care for her at the time her children were born. She says that recently he knocked her down and holding her down with his knees, beat her in the face with his fists. During the years 1917 and 1918 she says she was ill and did not receive the proper care that she should.

DETAILS OF ACCIDENT

Details of the accident in Detroit, Mich. Thanksgiving day, as a result of which Harry Hawkins, son-in-law of Frank Gordon, of this city, met death, have been learned. His wife had gone to church and when it began to rain, Mr. Hawkins arranged to go to bring her home. His automobile would not crank, so securing an umbrella, he attempted to jump on a milk truck to ride part way. He slipped, however, and fell under the heavy truck which passed over his hips. His death occurred about 4:30 that afternoon, and it was not until about fifteen minutes before his death that his family knew that he could not recover.
