

TEACH SCOUTING

French Boys Will be Given
Lessons of the American
Kind by Mr. Barclay

ESTABLISH A CAMP
Of Boy Scouts on Invitation of American Committee of Devastated France

The National Educational Director of the Boy Scouts of America, Lorne W. Barclay, by invitation of the American Committee for Devastated France will establish and be the director-general of a Camp School for the boys of the war-devastated regions.

The school will be in the form of a boys' camp of large size located on the estate of the Marquis de l'Aigle on the Aisne River near Compiegne, on the edge of the greater battlefields, and will be the latest of the many activities of the American Committee, of which former United States Ambassador to France, Myron T. Herrick is president, Miss Anne Morgan vice-president and chairman of the executive committee, and Mrs. A. M. Dike is the official director in charge of operations in France.

Many of the boys who will be in this great camp are orphans whom the war deprived of all relatives, and there will be others who have not been in school and have been practically without care since the beginning of hostilities in 1914.

Mr. Barclay, who is one of the most widely experienced men in the Scout movement and is known in nearly every state in the Union as an energetic worker in the promotion of Scouting, has been given two months' leave of absence by the National Council of the Boy Scouts of America for this work as a further contribution by the Scouts of this country through the American Committee to the service being rendered unfortunates abroad especially those in the sorely stricken portions of France, "Hal" Fullerton, "Chief Grub Scout," whose great work during the war in increasing the food supply of farms and gardens will always be remembered, recently went to France under the auspices of the American Committee, where he has established a demonstration farm in the devastated district, with French Boy Scouts for his workmen, the object being to teach American scientific agriculture in an effort to speedily increase the food supply there.

"As a builder of physical efficiency, and mortality as well, the superiority of the Boy Scouts of America program is generally recognized," said

Mr. Barclay while busily engaged in preparing to sail from New York on the Mauretania July 1st.

"It is for the purpose of adapting and applying the American methods of Scouting so far as possible to conditions in the devastated regions that we are going. It will be a work for the boys by the boys themselves. We are just going to show them how to go about Scouting in the American style, especially in reference to outdoor activities, which have been developed here on a scale unknown in France or any other foreign country.

"Naturally the boys we are going to deal with over there, many of them very poor and without parents and having long been without adult leadership, will be the hardest kind of material to work on, but that will make it all the more interesting and worth while. We will divide the boys in the camp in to troops and patrols following our American plan, under Scoutmasters and Patrol Leaders who are now French Boy Scouts, and teach them team play, sanitation, personal health, and all that makes for clean morals, and we will emphasize the many outdoor activities for which the Boy Scouts of America are noted, taking with us samples of all kinds of tents and paraphernalia for up-to-date camping to serve as models to use in the Camp School there."

Frank C. Irwin who has been prominent in Scouting for many years, accompanies Mr. Barclay as one of his assistants. Mr. Irwin was formerly Secretary of the Boy Scouts of Saskatchewan, Canada, was a Boy Scout delegate from Canada to the coronation of King George and was the organizer and director for two years of the Boy Scouts of Mysore, India. Recently he has taken post-graduate work in Columbia University, and was Scoutmaster of a troop in Manhattan while studying there.

Another assistant with Mr. Barclay is Carlile Bolton-Smith, a First Class Boy Scout whose home is in Memphis, Tenn. He is an undergraduate student at Amherst. His specialty in the Camp School in France will be aquatics, including swimming, life saving, and many forms of water sport new to that country. He will be in charge of boxing, wrestling and similar lines of sport.

URGES PEOPLE TO FIGHT CATARRH WITH SIMPLE HOME MADE REMEDY

Can Make Pint at Home and Costs Little, Says Leading Druggist of Covington, Ky., Who Has Made Special Study of Catarrh.

Says: Inflamed Nostriils
Invite Influenza

People who say that catarrh is a disease not to be taken seriously are harshly rebuked by a Kentucky druggist who has for years been much interested in the growth of this loathsome, yet altogether too common disease.

He claims that the sore, tender, inflamed membrane of the nostrils and throat is a prolific breeding ground for germs—not only the germs of Influenza, but many other kinds as well.

If people would only stop experimenting for two weeks and try a simple remedy made of Mentholized Aricine mixed with enough boiled water to make a full pint, half of the catarrh in this country would be abolished. It's really no joke for people 11:00 A. M.—Sermon by the pastor. Each teacher should go prepared to make out a full record of their class to be handed to the secretary. Bring your baskets with dinner. The Sunday school will serve ice cream and cones free. Autos will furnish conveyance, so let all who have machines be free to appear at the church by 8:30 to begin moving the people. As many as have flowers to spare please bring them. We pray the Lord to give us a good day in every sense of the word, and may He be glorified in it all.

C. J. MINER, Pastor.

Mother—I wish you wouldn't stand on the steps so long with that young man when he brings up home.

She—Why, I only stood there for a second last night.

Mother—Is that all? I really thought I heard a third and a fourth.

Union service at Presbyterian church, 7:30 p. m.

Dr. Buxton will be the speaker at the union service, and has been requested to repeat a sermon he preached in Decatur one year ago subject: "Paul's Visit to Rome."

METHODIST CHURCH

9:30—Sunday school, C. H. Colter, superintendent. The Sunday school is booming. The attendance eclipses anything that we have ever had. Are you helping the superintendent or are you leaving him pull you? Get up my brother, and sister, and help pull. Colter will do his part if you will do yours and get to Sunday school and get into the game you will not die any sooner. You will have a clearer conscience and that will help you to live longer. Or do you want to die?

10:45—Preaching. This is the only preaching service tomorrow at our church and we will be glad to see you all there. The pastor will try to do you good.

6:30—Epworth League—Mrs. Frank Downs, president. Subject: "A Sure Recipe for Happiness. Why are People Unhappy? The Cure."—Miss Ruth Bowers, leader.

No preaching service in the evening. Union services at the Presbyterian church. Sermon by Dr. Buxton of the Christian church. Methodists have been doing well at the union services the past two weeks.

Do as well tomorrow evening. The pastor will be disappointed if he does not see the Methodists outdoing any other of the churches at the service tomorrow evening.

CHARLES TINKHAM, Pastor.

ZION TV. LUTHERAN CHURCH

The seventh Sunday after Trinity. Gospel: Mark 8, 1-9. Epistle: Rom. 6, 19-23.

Mr. Oetting, theological student, will occupy the pulpit.

"We trust in the living God who is the Savior of all men."—1 Tim. 4, 10.

A. W. HINZ, Pastor.

USE POULTRY CATCHING CRATE

Much time and worry may be saved in handling poultry by the use of a catching crate. For culling hens, treating them for lice, or taking poultry to market, it will prove itself a practical piece of equipment for Indiana farms, according to C. W. Carrick of the poultry extension staff of Purdue University.

By placing the open end of the coop over the exit door of the hen house the birds can be easily trapped and handled without exciting them or clouding the house with dust.

A catching coop is simple to construct. It may be made by using inch boards for the floor with slats or screen for sides and top.

One end of the coop should consist entirely of a slide door so the hens may enter easily. A small door in the top of the coop and handles on each end will add to the convenience.

A coop 24 inches wide, 36 inches long, and 18 inches high makes a satisfactory size. Purdue has a circular which gives a working plan and description of a practical catching coop which is used at the Purdue Experiment Station Poultry Farm. This leaflet may be obtained for the asking.
