AT THE CHAUTAUQUA
Afternoon and Evening
Performances—Entire Program Was Good

The Chautauqua was brought to a close Saturday with a play by the Clifton Mallory Players, the production being "Caste." The crowd attending the closing program was one of the largest of the week and every available seat was taken. During the evening program, Dr. Fred Patterson, president of the Decatur Independent Chautauqua association made a short talk, thanking the people for their loyal support and assured the audience that the aim of the directors would be to make the Chautauqua a little better each year. Dr. Patterson retired as president of the association after rendering valuable service this year.

Mr. Loar, the general manager of the Chautauqua, was here Saturday and stated that he was more than pleased with the headway made by the Decatur association this year.

The Closing Program

Mrs. Hanley gave a half-hour of child impersonations. She came on the stage dressed at a twelve-year-old girl, who was an orphan, and in a home conducted by several old maids. The girls arranged weddings and played all kinds of pranks, but finally the little girl was adopted by a nice family. Mrs. Hanley cried like a young child and no one would recognize her, the portrayal being so real.

The Mallory Players then gave their great play, "Caste." "Caste" is the story of an English family of two daughters and a father who is a drunkard, and whom the girls support by playing on the stage. A young English nobleman falls in love with the older daughter and finally married her, although she realizes the difference in their state. He is in the army and after they have lived together for six months he is called to India to serve his country and he confessed to his mother that he has married this girl. Of course she in true aristocratic fashion regards her as an inferior and the son's parting with her is very sad.

He is reported killed in India and his wife has another burden to face for she is now the mother of a little boy. The wife of the dead man has no funds, for her father has squandered them, and she is too proud to appeal to the child's grandmother for money. Her father writes a letter and the mother of the dead soldier comes to claim the child, which, of course, the mother will not give up.

BOARD STILL CONTROLS

Indianapolis, Aug. 2—(Special to Daily Democrat)—The order of the state tax board of Aug. 23, 1919 horizontally increasing property valuations will stand as a certification of review to the auditors of every county in Indiana. Fred Sims, chairman of the state body made this announcement following a meeting of the tax commissioners today.

Following receipt of the certification by the auditors the county boards of review will go over the valuations, change them as they see fit and return them to the state board. This is in accordance with the provisions of the Johnson "home rule" tax bill passed by the recently adjourned special legislature which restored to local taxing units control over tax levies and bond issues.

Then the board of tax commissioners will equalize the assessments by county.

THE DIRECTORS

Board of Directors for the Chautauqua Were Appointed Saturday

A BOARD OF TWELVE

Final Check-up of Receipts is Being Made—Plans for Next Year

So thoroughly did the people of this city and community enjoy the five day chautauqua last week that nearly everyone of them regretted to see the program brought to a happy close Saturday evening.

The Clifton Mallory Players, producing the comedy play, "Caste" were excellent and the play was greatly enjoyed by the hundred present.

Dr. Fred Patterson, president of the Decatur Chautauqua, appeared on the platform during the program and in a few words thanked the people for their loyal support and stated that the board of directors were greatly pleased with the results of the chautauqua this year.

He stated that the people enjoyed every program and showed their appreciation by attending each and every one and by subscribing for over seven hundred season tickets for next year's chautauqua. The subscribing of this number of tickets assures the chautauqua next year is Decatur. He then read the names of the men and women who would comprise the board of directors for next year. The board of twelve are: Hugh Hite, Wal Wemhoff, Mrs. Fay Smith Knapp, Oscar Hoffman, J. O. Sellemyer, A. R. Holthouse, C. E. Bell, Mrs. Dan Tyndall, Miss Agnes Kohne, Walter Johnson, A. M. Sellemyer and John Peterson.

Dr. Patterson and his board of directors retire after doing everything in their power to make this year's chautauqua a success. The new board will meet in the near future and organize and elect their officers.

Mr. Loar, the general manager of the Chautauqua association, was here Saturday and thanked the board of directors for their work. Special mention was made of the way Dan Tyndall, chairman of the ticket committee and his assistant, took charge of the ticket sale and stated to us that the work done by Dr. Patterson could not be recommended too highly. He thanked the newspaper and felt greatly pleased over the results this year, stating that the way was paved for a greater Chautauqua next year.

C. S. Niblick, treasurer of the association, stated this morning that he was making a final check-up of the receipts and that he would have his report ready within a few days. He said that he believed that Mr. Loar would suffer a slight loss, even if view of the large ticket sale. The cost for the tent, including the freight was about $225.00. Mr. Loar said that he was pleased however and believed that next year the Chautauqua would be one of the best in the country. He liked the spirit of the Decatur people and the cooperation given by everyone to make the Chautauqua a success.

Fair and moderate temperature to night and Tuesday.
