OBITUARY

Charlotte M. Gilbert, wife of George W. Gilbert, was the daughter of John and Lydia J. McManus. She was born in Auglaize county, Ohio, August 4, 1859, and departed this life February 21, 1921, aged 61 years, 6 months and 17 days.

She was united in marriage to John Jones in young womanhood. To this union was born one son, whose whereabouts is unknown. Her first husband died after a short wedded life.

She was again married to George W. Gilbert. To this union were born six children, three of whom have predeceased her to the realm of eternal rest and bliss. She was converted in early youth, and joined the Christian Union society with her first husband who was not only a physician, but minister as well. After uniting with George Gilbert she became a member of the Society of Friends where she was a loyal member until called by death, from work to her reward. Her testimony and life were in harmony, and her presence and influence will long be felt, and also will long be missed and the expression of Jonathan: "And thou shalt be missed because thy seat will be empty," will surely be appropriate to her memory.

She leaves to mourn their loss a husband, two daughters, Mrs. Lydia M. Garrett of Decatur; Miss Ruth E. Gilbert; and one son, Mr. True G. Gilbert, in the service of the U. S. A. stationed at Fort Sill; one grandchild, George William Garrett; three sisters and two brothers, besides a host of friends and relatives. Let us all unite in the following:

When I've gone the last mile of the way
I will rest at the close of day,
And I know there are joys that await me
When I've gone the last mile of the way.

Here the dearest of ties we must sever—
Tears of sorrow are seen every day;
But no sickness, no sighing forever,
When I've gone the last mile of the way.

"When word came, back in 1913, that a German vessel, laden with munitions was on its way to Mexico, President Wilson was in telephonic communication with Secretaries Bryan and Daniels. After the situation had been stated over the telephone, a voice came back clear and firm: 'Order Admiral Mayo to take Vera Cruz at once.' I was on the telephone at the time and listened to the conversation that took place between the president and Secretaries Bryan and Daniels. Just before I cut off the connection I said a word to the president about the tragedy of it all. His voice responded, no longer clear, but muffled as when one chokes back a sob. 'What do you think of it, Tumulty? It means death. It breaks my heart, but it must be done.'

The president insisted on going to New York to attend the ceremonies incident to the bringing back of the marines killed at Vera Cruz.

"Some disquieting rumors reached the secret service officers of an attack that might be made upon his life and the president was urged to cancel his trip to New York. When it was found that his determination to go was irrevocable, it was suggested that he review the procession from a stand and not take part in the march along the whole dangerous line of the parade. His answer was a curt refusal to comply with the suggestion. One undertook to argue with him saying: 'You will show all proper respect by appearing in the reviewing stand. The country cannot afford to lose its president.' His reply was: 'The country cannot afford to have a coward for a president.'

Tumulty told of a secret visit Wilson made to the fleet soon after the declaration of the war and the speech he made to the officers saying: 'I am willing to sacrifice half the navy. Britain and we together have to crush that nest (the German submarine bases) because if we crush it, the war is won.'

Tumulty told of another incident that occurred on the president's tour of the country shortly before he broke down. "Exhausted by his public engagements, racked with pain, he nevertheless slipped away quietly one afternoon with Mrs. Wilson to pay a visit to some friends of his former wife, living in a little cottage on a side street of the town."

The president Tumulty said objected to this act becoming generally known.

Tumulty told how a writer wanted the president to stage a "stunt" that would make good reading and how the president refused saying:

"Tumulty, you must realize that I am not built for these things. I do not want to be displayed before the public. If I tried to do it, I would do it badly. I want the people to love me, but they never will."

"I have never forgotten the wistful tones in which he spoke those last four words," Tumulty commented.

One more contrast Tumulty painted:

"Two pictures are in my mind. First the hall of representatives crowded from floor to gallery with expectant throngs. Presently it is announced that the president of the United States will address congress. There steps out to the speaker's desk a straight vigorous slender man, active and alert. He is sixty years of age, but he looks not more than forty-five so lithe of limb, so alert of bearing, so virile. It is Woodrow Wilson reading his great war message.

"The other picture is only three and a half years later. There is a parade of veterans of the great war. They are to be reviewed by the president on the east terrace of the White House. In a chair sits a man, your president, broken in health, but still alert in mind. His hair is white, his shoulders bowed, his figure bent. He is sixty-three years old, but he looks older. It is Woodrow Wilson. Presently in the procession there appears an ambulance laden with wounded soldiers, the maimed, the halt, and the blind. As they pass they salute, slowly reverently. The president's hand goes up in answering salute. I glanced at him. There were tears in his eyes. The wounded is greeting the wounded."

BIG ULCER

ALL HEALED

"Here is another letter that makes me happy," says Peterson, of Buffalo. "One that I would rather have than a thousand dollars." "Money isn't everything in this world. There is many a big-hearted, rich man who would give all he has to earth to be able to produce a remedy for you. I am sending you a bottle of Peterson's Ointment, to sell at all drugstores for 60 cents a large box." Dear Sirs:—

"I was an untold sufferer from old running sores and ulcers. I had tried most everything without any relief from pain. A friend told me of your wonderful ointment and the first box took away the pain that had not left me for years. I used it for just nine dollars' worth of the salve I am cured. The ulcer was 9 inches by 6 1/2 inches, is all healed and I can walk now, never will be I without Peterson's again."

"You may use this to recommend your ointment, if you wish. I cannot say enough to praise it." Yours truly,

Albert Southcott, Medina, N. Y.
